Investment Manager's Report

Atlantic House Defined Returns Fund

Market Review

The Atlantic House Defined Returns Fund returned 8.2% over the first six months of the year. The markets to which the Fund was most exposed, UK, US and EU – rose 2.9%, 17.0% and 18.6% respectively over the period.

Q1 Review

The Atlantic House Defined Returns Fund was up 5.33% for the quarter. The markets to which the Fund was most exposed - UK, US and EU – rose 3.2%, 7.6% and 14.5% respectively over the quarter, helping the fund return 5.33%. This makes sense given the sensitivity of the fund to these markets was around 50% over the period. With almost 15% of the fund maturing into a higher interest rate and implied volatility environment, the fund was able to take advantage of better terms for new trades with higher returns and lower barriers.

Q2 Review

The Atlantic House Defined Returns Fund returned 2.7% over the quarter, compared to -0.3% for the UK large cap market, +8.8% in the US and +3.5% in the EU, the three markets to which the Fund is most exposed. With these steadily rising markets (save for the UK which has stuttered but not fallen much) over a quarter of the Fund matured in the quarter. This is welcomed because the investments that are replacing these maturities have significantly better terms due to the higher interest rate environment we are now in.

The maturing investments during the quarter generally had annual coupons of a little more than 7% vs the new investments with coupons of generally over 9%. Furthermore, the new investments generally have more downside protection. Understandably the future yield of the Fund is increasing all the time that the older investments roll off and are replaced with higher coupon investments.

GemCap Investment Funds (Ireland) Plc

The fund's credit risk over time has always been low and it continues to be so, with over 90% of the fund being gilt backed. The pie chart below shows that 94.52% of the fund is currently backed by gilts, and the remainder made up of individual notes issued by large, global banks. The fund owns no notes issued by Credit Suisse and has not done for a number of years. We occasionally use bank issued notes when excellent pricing opportunities arise, but this will always remain a peripheral allocation.

Outlook

The table below shows the estimated future returns for the Fund over a range of falling, flat or rising market conditions and over different time periods.

This scenario analysis:

- Illustrates short-term sensitivity of the Fund to a sudden fall in equity markets (in yellow).
- Shows the protection and potential returns of the DR Fund versus the markets over the medium term. For example: if markets fall 10% and stay there for the next 3 years, the Fund should return 15.21% (+/-2-3%) over that period.

Investment Manager's Report

Atlantic House US Enhanced Equity Fund

Market Review

The first six months of 2023 have seen households facing a cost-of-living crisis. Yet the high interest rates introduced to tackle it are now working around the world, leading fear to subside and enabling markets to stage something of a modest recovery.

It has taken time for high interest rates to slow the global economy over the past six months and this, combined with a decline in natural gas prices, has led to economic activity surpassing gloomy forecasts. As a result, equities and riskier fixed-income sectors have recovered.

High interest rates impose stress on the global financial system and in March the failure of Silicon Valley Bank in the United States led some to fear a new banking crisis. However, decisive policy intervention has alleviated investor fears.

Nonetheless, whilst conditions have eased underneath the surface the equity market is telling us it remains concerned about the economic environment. More economically sensitive shares such as smaller companies have started to underperform companies that look more resilient against an oncoming economic downturn.

Whilst there is evidence that inflation is abating around the world there can be little doubt that the UK remains under real pressure. Our inflation has proved stickier, and the Bank has been slow to respond.

The UK's problems have led us to limit our exposure in portfolios to smaller UK companies and UK government bonds, gilts. There is also no allocation to UK property, and steps have been taken to reduce exposure to value equities due to expectations of a global recession.

The table provided shows the recovery in US, European, and Japanese equities during the year-to-date period. However, UK assets, especially UK property and gilts, have continued to decline so far this year. Although these falls may lead some to believe these assets are now attractive, we continue to believe they could fall further.

Performance Review

The fund outperformed the broad US market by approximately 3% over the first 6 months of the year. The outperformance was driven by the positive performance of both the long and short volatility strategies within the fund. The short volatility strategy rose 7%, and because the Fund has approximately one third of its AUM covered by this strategy, it added approximately 2.3% at the fund level. The long volatility strategy rose 1.5% which added around 0.5% at the fund level.

Outlook

The fund will convert to the Dynamic Duration Fund at the beginning of August.

Investment Manager's Report

Atlantic House Total Return Fund

Market Review

The Atlantic House Total Returns Fund rose 9.06% in H1 2023 whilst the IA Targeted Absolute Return sector rose 0.06%.

The Total Returns Fund now consists of three sleeves: Equity, Fixed Income and Alternatives.

Q1 Review

The Fund rose 5.93% in Q1 2023 whilst the IA Targeted Absolute Return sector rose 0.57%.

The Equity sleeve of the fund gained 4.64% over the first quarter. This performance can be explained by the fund's delta sensitivities to large and mid-cap indices. The level of cover to final return and capital protection improved over the quarter.

The Fixed Income sleeve, which is home to the new Dynamic Duration strategy, provides a solution to the challenges presented to markets by an inflationary bust. The strategy is a result of research undertaken in response to the increasing correlation between the prices of investments in equity and bond markets, a distinguishing feature of the multi-asset environment in recent years. Since its implementation in early March to the end of the quarter, the Dynamic Duration strategy has contributed 1.12% to fund performance.

The Alternatives sleeve, which contains tail hedge strategies related to the equity sleeve and relative value trades on the interest rates and inflation curves, allows investors' money to 'work twice.' In the quarter, these tail hedge strategies contributed 9 basis points to the performance of the fund.

Equity Sleeve

The first quarter of 2023 saw a strong performance for large caps, particularly the US technology sector and European constituents. Mid-cap indices gave back all their gains for the quarter in the final month. The equity sleeve of the Total Return Fund gained 4.64% over the quarter. This performance can be largely explained by the Fund's delta sensitivities to the indices below, shown as of 31/03/2023:

Underlying Market	UK	US	Europe	US mid-cap	Japan	Switzerland
Delta (Fund Level)	4.4%	5.8%	4.9%	7.2%	13.8%	6.4%

Firm equity markets have underpinned the sleeve's performance, yet there remained significant upside in the defined returns investments. The substantial intrinsic value within these autocalls shown below:

Fixed Income Sleeve

A distinguishing feature of the multi-asset investment environment in recent years is the increased correlation between the prices of investments in equity and bond markets. The diversification potential of bonds in a multi-asset investment portfolio has been undermined by central bank concerns of persistent inflation.

In late 2022, we undertook research into how best to build a multi-asset portfolio that is robust to the challenges presented to markets by an inflationary bust. The result was our Dynamic Duration strategy which sits within the Fixed Income sleeve. The Dynamic Duration strategy is a set of rules to optimally direct investments between fixed income and inflation markets. These rules (or “signals”) draw on economic and market data such as the rate of change in inflation, the proximity of core inflation to the central bank target and market real yields.

We use derivative markets to implement the interest rate and inflation positions. Interest rate swaps allow us to leverage the strategy by a factor of two, while inflation swaps allow us to achieve a pure inflation hedge without the (real) interest rate sensitivity of inflation-linked bonds.

The same set of rules are applied in UK and US markets, equally weighted. The investments are rebalanced monthly using the signals calculated at the end of the week when inflation data has been published.

Since implementation in early March, the different elements of Dynamic Duration contributed the following to fund performance:

UK Rates	0.28%
UK Inflation	0.02%
US Rates	0.83%
US Inflation	-0.01%
Total	1.12%

Alternatives Sleeve

This is the third sleeve in the fund. It contains tail hedge strategies related to the equity sleeve and relative value trades on the interest rates and inflation curves. These investments are typically transacted as derivatives, to allow investors' money to “work twice.” In each case, we only enter positions where our experience, the models we have built and our access to bank liquidity and flows give us an edge in understanding the risks and rewards of a trade.

In the quarter, the tail hedge strategies contributed 9 basis points to the performance of the fund. Benign equity markets have allowed the carry element of these strategies to more than cover the costs of the deep tail protection embedded in the trades.

The sleeve's performance is attributed to modest but generally profitable positions in US equity dispersion and inflation curve relative value positions in UK, US and Eurozone markets.

Q2 Review

The Fund rose 2.95% in the second quarter whilst the IA Targeted Absolute Return sector returned -0.50%.

Multi-asset portfolio performance was led largely by equity indices over the second quarter of 2023. The rally has surprised many, but it had been relatively sector specific, with US technology outperforming; Japanese equity returns were equally impressive.

Traditional fixed income had a poor quarter, where stubborn wage growth, high vacancies and steadily low unemployment had further increased inflation expectations and had supported a higher terminal rate in the US, UK and Europe. The impact on traditional 5-10yr Gilt indices was a 5-6% decline, but the fund's exposures to UK inflation through the Dynamic Duration strategy in the fixed income allocation provided some protection against these falls.

More positively, the alternatives allocation, also known as 'Crash Protection', performed well over the quarter, offsetting almost all of the poor performance in the fixed income allocation.

Equity Allocation

The second quarter of 2023 saw strong performance for Japan and US large caps, particularly in the US technology sector and more broadly in Japan. Returns from European indices, including the UK, were much more subdued. The equity allocation of the Total Return Fund gained 3.18% over the quarter. This performance can be largely explained by the Fund's delta sensitivities to the indices below, shown as an average delta based on closing observations for end of March and end of June:

Underlying Market	UK	US	Europe	US mid-cap	Japan	Switzerland
Average Delta (Fund Level)	6.3%	5.4%	5.3%	7.1%	9.7%	6.6%
Market Move	-1.3%	8.3%	1.9%	4.8%	18.4%	1.6%
Attribution	-0.1%	0.4%	0.1%	0.3%	1.8%	0.1%
					Residual	0.5%

Firm equity markets have underpinned the performance of the allocation, yet there remains a significant upside in equity investments. The intrinsic value within these investments is shown below (at fund level):

Alternatives Allocation

Alternatives in the Fund are made up of tail risk strategies, related to the equity allocation, and relative value trades. This combination forms the 'Crash Protection' allocation, which offers a direct offset to poor equity performance in stress events such as the GFC and COVID in March 2020.

Volatility was subdued over the quarter, which was somewhat surprising given the seemingly severe stress in US regional banks in early March. In line with this lower volatility, returns from the tail risk strategies were negligible.

More positively, the relative value trades performed well, particularly over earnings season in the US where moves in single stocks, such as Nvidia, were large compared to moves in the broader S&P index.

Outlook

EQUITY: The scenario analysis table provides the outlook for the fund's equity allocation across a range of market conditions and time periods. Expected returns are at fund level, and alongside the previous intrinsic value table, we estimate returns from the fund's equity allocation in flat markets at close to 7%.

FIXED INCOME: Similarly, the table below shows the sensitivities of the dynamic duration strategy to interest rates and inflation given the current signals. The fund employs a 35% allocation to the dynamic duration strategy. As such, and as an example, returns to the fund from a 50bp decline in 10yr UK and US interest rates, with inflation unchanged, would result in an expected 1.72% (4.9% * 35%) gain at fund level.

Outlook (continued)

ALTERNATIVES: The allocation to Crash Protection tends to provide strong diversification benefits when equity volatility moves quickly from a low volatility regime to a high volatility regime; we describe such a process as fragility. The VIX is a market measure of equity volatility and is now in its 1st percentile of daily observations over the past three years. This seemingly low level of volatility means that the potential for market fragility is high, and therefore, the Crash Protection allocation is set up well to protect the portfolio from future stress events.

Investment Manager's Report

Atlantic House Uncorrelated Strategies Fund

Market Review

The first half of 2023 was almost a complete reversal of the market reaction seen in 2022. Interest rates continued to rise as monetary policy makers made their sole mission the taming of inflation, at odds with fiscal authorities who are already beginning to fear the knock-on effects in the cost of living and labour market conditions. Despite this headwind for risk assets, equity valuations rose during the first six months. However, the headline numbers mask a rather less certain market. Big tech stocks, and particularly AI related companies have led the rally so far this year, with the rest of the market pricing in higher expectations of a 'hard landing' in the wider economy.

Strategy Review

Source: Atlantic House, Goldman Sachs 20/01/23

This divergence in the market goes a long way to explain the relative performance of some of the sleeves so far this year. The dispersion we have seen in technology stocks and 'ex tech' has muted implied volatility at the index level. Realised correlation within equity indices has been low, and dispersion has performed well as a result. This differential has also been felt in realised volatility, with big tech largely cancelling out the underperformance of sectors such as industrials and financials which have underperformed.

The low volatility and high dispersion in equities sits in an opposing camp to other macro assets, mainly interest rates and credit. Rates markets continue to price a hard landing, with 140 basis points of cuts priced into the USD rates curve over the next 12 months.

Source: Atlantic House, Bloomberg

Credit markets are also pricing a bleak outlook. Although the main credit story over the first half was the takeover of Credit Suisse by UBS the dispersion between high yield bonds and investment grade bonds is similar to previous periods of recession/economic stress. Although defaults have only recently begun to pick up, the divergence signals that investors are increasingly cautious about the economic outlook, even if the first six months of 2023 would suggest otherwise.

Where does this leave us for an outlook?

The outlook for the sub-fund is positive across a range of market scenarios. The sub-fund is setup in a defensive manner as a starting point, with explicit protection from major falls in equity markets. How that performance will look is largely dependent on the speed of a change from one environment to another. So far, 2023 has thrown investors off course as the correlation sets of 2022 were quickly reversed in March. The probability distribution for rates seems to indicate there is more asymmetry to the downside than upside as inflation begins to retreat across developed markets. However, if the rate of disinflation stays on track the speed of that transition will be easier both from the perspective of the interest rates market and the volatility markets as an extension of that. The sub-fund maintains significant downside protection in the event of a significant market correction across both equities and interest rate markets.

Performance Review

The sub-fund gained 4.46% over the first half of the year. This was led by the diversifier sleeves which benefitted from the uncertain outlook for markets, albeit without a significant catalyst outside of the short-lived selloff around the banking crisis in March.

Price Pressure

Price pressure gained over the period, benefitting from a divergent outlook from many firms during Q4 and Q1 earnings. This was particularly evident in positions in the US and Japan. In the US there is a wide split in the outlook from corporate executives. Many firms which have been the driving force behind the rally over the last 10 years are beginning to see sign of slowing growth and are cutting staff as a result. Contrast this with some of the more traditional 'value' oriented sectors which continue to see robust demand and we set up for an almost perfect environment for dispersion. If we continue to see this divergence across sectors and factors we expect Price Pressure to continue to provide attractive returns.

Non-Directional Carry

Non-Directional Carry also gained over the period. A continuation in the steepening of term premium in credit added to the gains which began in December and now have higher static expected returns going forward. Commodity curve carry also added to returns with many of the curves in the energy sector steepening as the winter has been much milder than feared and the disaster scenario surrounding Europe's gas situation averted. Similar to credit, the static expected return in commodity curves are now at similar levels to before the Ukraine invasion and set up well on a nominal return basis looking forward.

Volatility Carry

Volatility Carry was the best performer over the period. All of the allocations in the sleeve provided positive returns with European Credit continuing its strong run since the middle of last year. We continue to like credit as a volatility carry position despite the drawdown in March as it is one of the most asymmetric risk premia outside of markets which have particular issues, namely interest rates which have a higher level of volatility, but is very justified given the overall level of realised volatility. There are several reasons for this. Firstly, the asset class arguably has the higher proportion of non-economic buyers compared to any of the other asset classes available to us. Secondly, the absolute level of credit spreads continues to be elevated on a historical basis and therefore has a smaller left tail as compared to where we began 2022. Lastly, credit is the only major asset class where the daily breakeven for being short volatility is above the 5 year 1 sigma daily move, giving us additional (but not resolute) comfort in continuing to hold the position.

Volatility Convexity

Volatility Convexity was a small negative contributor over the period, primarily due to falling interest rate volatility. Long dated rates volatility has fallen to around the 10 year median since the beginning of the year. The strategy's construction has been tested as this parameter has fallen. Equity Volatility was the marginal benefactor to the sleeve over the period as the VIX began to wake up having disappointed some during the last half of 2022.

Trend

Trend was the worst performing sleeve over the period. In many ways this should be expected. Such a surprising rally stands as a reversal of a trend which has been in place for almost a full year where we saw equities lower, bonds lower and a stronger dollar. Positioning in trend is still short bonds (a position which will continue for some time) but equity and FX positioning is much more neutral after such a reversal in each respective asset class. Overall we think this is a good thing. In a period of uncertainty of the macro direction, trend strategies tend to underperform in the first move. Overall we think that persistently high inflation will likely lead to a more hawkish central bank impulse which could well drive equities lower. In that scenario the bond shorts will perform as allocations across other asset classes catches up. If the equity rally continues we expect the sleeve to begin to add long positions in equity futures, beginning in Europe then extending to Asia and finally the US where a negative trend is more entrenched.

Investment Manager's Report

Calamos Global Convertible Fund

During the semi-annual period ending 30th June 2023, the global convertible security market rallied as measured by the Refinitiv Global Convertible Bond Index's return of 7.98%. Convertible securities enjoyed tailwinds from a rising equity market, moderating inflation, growing anticipation that the Federal Reserve's tightening cycle would end, and data that pointed to a slowing but still resilient economy. Still, there was a divergence of fortunes in the markets amid lingering concerns about the banking system and growing exuberance about artificial intelligence. Against this backdrop, market participants demonstrated a strong preference for companies that offered the perception of safety, including many larger-cap technology-oriented companies.

As businesses around the world sought capital in a higher interest rate environment, convertible issuance accelerated in the first half of 2023 from more muted levels in 2022. During the semi-annual period, global convertible issuance totalled $39.2 billion globally, nearly matching the $39.5 billion issued during the 2022 calendar year. US issuers led, bringing $27.3 billion to market, followed by Europe with $6.7 billion, Asia with $4.3 billion, and Japan with $1.0 billion.

Performance Review

For the six-month reporting period ended 30th June 2023, the Calamos Global Convertible Fund gained 7.31% (US Accumulating I shares). From an economic sector attribution perspective, strong security selection in the consumer discretionary sector contributed favourably. Holdings within the home-furnishing retail, automotive retail, and casinos and gaming industries outperformed. An average underweight allocation to and security selection in the communication services sector also added value during the reporting period. Within the sector, holdings in the interactive home entertainment industry and the cable and satellite industry outperformed. In contrast, an average underweight position and security selection within the health care sector curbed results. Here, holdings within the biotechnology, health care supplies, and pharmaceuticals industries lagged. Security selection in the energy sector detracted from performance as holdings within the oil-and-gas drilling industry and the oil-and-gas exploration-and-production industry lagged as well.

From a regional standpoint, security selection in the United States and an underweight position to and selection in Europe supported the Fund's return. Meanwhile, security selection in Canada detracted, as did an underweight allocation to and selection in emerging Latin America.

Positioning Discussion

We remain active in the new issue market. We're pleased to see many convertibles coming to market with attractive terms, including higher coupons and lower conversion premiums. We are also encouraged to see more investment-grade companies issue convertible securities. We expect this trend to ramp up as a large maturity wall (which begins in 2025) across the credit markets nears.

Convertible securities are hybrids that blend equity and fixed-income characteristics, with varying levels of equity and credit sensitivity. The Fund continues to emphasize convertibles that offer balanced characteristics. After the strong rally in the equity markets in the first quarter, we would not be surprised to see volatility and a slower pace of gains in the second half of the year. We continue to position the Fund's portfolio with the aim of participating in any upside rally while mitigating the downside if the market pulls back.

From a sector standpoint, the information technology, consumer discretionary and health care sectors represent the largest allocations as of the end of the reporting period, whereas the real estate, materials, and energy sectors are the Fund's lightest exposures. Relative to the Refinitiv Global Convertible Bond Index, the Fund's largest overweight positions include information technology, financials, and health care. Conversely, industrials, communication services, and utilities are the largest underweights.

From a regional perspective, as of the end of the reporting period, the Fund's largest allocations on an absolute basis are to the United States, Europe, and Emerging Latin America. The Fund's lightest allocations are to Canada, Japan, and emerging Europe and South Africa. On a relative basis, the Fund's overweights include the United States, emerging Europe and South Africa, emerging Asia, and Canada. The Fund's underweights include Europe, emerging Latin America and Japan. The current underweight allocation to Europe reflects our concerns about the war in Ukraine and subsequent inflation and a possible recession in Europe.

Our team employs a disciplined investment process that strives for the best possible return outcomes consistent with the Fund's investment guidelines. As part of our fundamental research process, we evaluate environmental, social and governance (ESG) information, although we do not exclude investments solely based on ESG criteria nor do we target a certain average ESG rating for the portfolio. When the Fund adopted an Article 8 SFDR Classification on 1 December 2022, it specifically committed to seeking to promote a reduction in Greenhouse Gas (GHS) emissions, with at least 10% of its portfolio invested in companies with GHS outputs lower than the average output of the Refinitiv Global Convertible Bond Index. Throughout the reporting period, the Fund remained well above that threshold. As of the end of the reporting period, more than three-quarters of portfolio holdings are invested in issuers that met this requirement, based on the currently available information.

In Conclusion

We believe that Calamos Global Convertible Fund offers compelling opportunities for lower volatility participation in the global equity market over full market, economic and interest rate cycles. We see near-term tailwinds supported by valuations, higher interest rates and encouraging trends in global convertible issuance.

Investment Manager's Report

Calamos Growth And Income Fund

During the semi-annual period ending 30th June 2023, the S&P 500 Index returned 16.89%. However, market leadership was narrow, and a small handful of stocks drove the lion's share of the index's gain. Amid lingering concerns about the economic impact of higher interest rates and tighter lending standards following well-publicized bank failures in March, investors gravitated to the relative safety of mega-cap growth companies with reliable growth profiles and fully funded capital needs.

US economic data remained steady but not spectacular. The labour market stayed strong and financial conditions continued to be quite easy despite the best efforts of central bankers around the world. A debt ceiling crisis was averted, and the systemic bank failure that many people feared did not happen. Inflation data moderated and market participants grew more confident that the Federal Reserve was done with its current tightening cycle.

Performance Review

Calamos Growth and Income Fund can invest in equities, convertible securities, options, and bonds. This multi-asset class strategy is designed to enhance performance through full market cycles and mitigate exposure to downward moves in the stock market. For the six-month reporting period ended 30th June 2023, the Fund performed in line with our expectations. The Fund posted a strong gain of 12.02% (US Accumulating I shares), capturing a healthy measure of the all-equity index's return.

From an economic sector perspective, the Fund benefitted from an average underweight allocation to financials. Our positioning as well as selection in regional banks helped relative performance. Additionally, the Fund's lack of exposure to the life and health insurance industry proved advantageous. Security selection and an average underweight allocation to consumer staples, specifically the packaged foods and meats industry and the consumer staples merchandise retail industry, also contributed to performance. In contrast, security selection within the consumer discretionary sector hindered performance. Specifically, positions in the automobile manufacturers industry and the apparel, accessories and luxury goods industry lagged. Within the information technology sector, security selection and an average underweight allocation to the semiconductors industry and the semiconductor materials and equipment industry detracted from relative performance.

Positioning Discussion

At the start of 2023, we believed there was a case for increasing the risk in the portfolio, focusing on select areas of the economy that we believed would show improving economic growth in 2023 and 2024. In addition, we sought companies we believed had the potential to improve returns on capital during that time. Our premise to selectively add risk was based on several factors, including our conviction in the long-term US economic growth trajectory, positive policy changes, and improvement in certain parts of the economy. The events of the first half of 2023 (slowing central bank rate increases, continued moderate slowing of inflation and economic growth, corporate cost-cutting measures and the acceleration of spending in AI-related areas) have in aggregate supported that risk profile.

Given the robust gains recently seen in the equity market, we believe the best overall positioning in the current environment skews to a defensive risk posture with additional risk in specific areas that have real growth tailwinds, in companies with improving returns on capital in 2024, and in equities and fixed income with valuations at favourable expected risk-adjusted returns. We see compelling prospects for companies that have exposure to new products and geographic growth opportunities (examples can be found in health care, electric vehicles, and AI-related infrastructure and software), specific infrastructure spending areas (in materials and industrial sectors), and the normalization of supply chains and parts of the service economy.

As of the end of the reporting period, the Fund's largest allocations on an absolute basis were to the information technology, health care and consumer discretionary sectors. As noted, Calamos Growth and Income Fund benefits from a multi-asset class approach, which provides us with increased opportunities to manage risk and returns. We seek out attractive companies and consider which securities in a company's capital structure offer the most compelling risk/reward attributes (for example, equity, convertible security, or nonconvertible bonds). At the end of the reporting period, 76% of the portfolio was invested in common stocks, followed by convertible securities at 17%.

In Conclusion

We remain confident that the positive long-term growth trajectory of the US economy and the cash flow generation capabilities of US companies are intact. The ability of management teams to identify emerging short- and long-term trends and the adaptability of business models and cost structures are central to our long-term favourable view. We see long-term upside in the US equity market from current market levels, which we believe are at fair value for US companies.

We continue to see a divergence in growth in the economy and in the corporate returns on capital for individual companies. Some parts of the economy have been slowing for several quarters and may be nearing their cyclical bottoms, whereas other parts of the economy are still showing improvement from pre-Covid levels. Many companies are focused on improving their returns on capital through improved efficiencies, normalized supply chains, clarity on the interest-rate environment, and in the case of multinationals, and an improved currency environment. The pace of corporate cost-cutting and restructuring has increased over the past several months across several areas, providing more opportunities to identify companies with improving returns on capital. The dispersion of cost-cutting measures through time should also provide some cushion to overall economic growth. Over the short- and intermediate-term, improved real returns on capital should drive higher equity prices.

GemCap Investment Funds (Ireland) Plc

Investment Manager's Report

Causeway Defined Growth Fund

Introduction

The Fund aims to generate capital growth of 7-8% per annum over the medium to long-term and aims to do so in anything but the bleakest of market conditions. It achieves this via exposure to a diversified portfolio of autocallable instruments linked to major global equity indices.

Performance Review

The Fund was approved by the Central Bank of Ireland in December 2019 and made its first investments into equity market linked autocallable instruments, collateralised on G7 Government Bonds in March 2020. Since launch the Fund has invested in thirty-six different autocallable instruments, twenty of which have matured early with an average coupon of 9% per annum.

As of 30th June 2023, the Fund holds a portfolio of sixteen different instruments with varied underlying indices, durations and return profiles. Existing instruments are topped-up and new instruments added on an ongoing basis depending on the prevailing pricing conditions. The average coupon of the portfolio is 9.91% per annum, with the average distance above the final autocall barrier being 9.2%.

Performance from launch to 30th June 2023 is 10.55% (annualised return of 3.01%).

After challenging conditions for equity markets during Q1 and Q2, we believe the Fund's current portfolio of investments remain on track to deliver its long-term objectives, while maintaining significant protection to the downside.

Outlook

As ever, it is difficult to predict how markets might perform in the future, but the portfolio is constructed in such way that the fund will perform better than the market in most market scenarios over the long run. The Fund is currently well positioned to continue to grow its AUM, increase its portfolio of investments; and in turn deliver its stated aim of returning 7% to 8% per annum over the medium to long term.

Investment Manager's Report

GSI Global Sustainable Value Fund

Market highlights

Financial markets entered 2023 with ongoing concerns related to inflation across global economies, exacerbated by the continuing conflict in Ukraine. In the US, the Federal Reserve maintained its stance of raising rates to combat inflationary pressures, raising the lower target of the Fed funds rate in the US from 4.25% in January to 5% at the end of June. Other central banks also increased rates, including the Bank of England and the ECB. There was significant disruption in the banking sector in the US and Europe. In the US, there were three bank failures (SVB, Signature Bank and Silvergate Bank), largely due to the changing rate environment which had been poorly managed. These failures exposed stresses arising from the change in financial conditions and caused banks stock prices to fall, especially the regional banks. However, by the end of June, the Federal Reserve stated that it was confident that there was resilience in the banking system and confidence was gradually returning to the sector. In Europe, successive events related to poor management at Credit Suisse led to its eventual takeover by UBS, thus avoiding a wider run in the sector. Over the period, the impact of rising rates led to the lowering of year-on-year changes in consumer price indices in all key developed countries. However, central banks were still expressing vigilance against potential further inflation. In particular, the UK continued to experience higher inflation compared to other developed countries.

The first half of 2023 saw positive returns in all regions, despite the widespread concerns over persistent inflation and high interest rates. Over the 6-month period, global developed markets posted a return of 9% in GBP. The most significant factor in the period was the value/growth factor, with growth stocks outperforming value stocks in North America and Europe, although value fared better than growth in Asia Pacific. Larger cap stocks generally outperformed smaller stocks. In addition, companies with higher ESG scores (lower ESG risk ratings) tended to outperform relative to those with lower ratings in the US and Europe. The return of the broad market was strongly dominated by a small number of stocks in the Information Technology, Consumer Discretionary and Communications Services sectors (e.g. Apple, Microsoft, Nvidia, Amazon, etc.). The publicity surrounding innovations in Artificial Intelligence, especially interactive systems such as ChatGPT, has led to markets pricing in high expectations for companies that may benefit from this technology. The Energy sector underperformed over the period, reflecting lower prices across energy markets compared to the elevated levels seen in 2022. Sterling increased over the period by around 5% compared to the US dollar, which lowered the returns of the GBP-denominated share classes, compared to the return of the Sub-Fund in USD.

Fund performance review (in GBP)

For the 6 months to 30th June 2023.

GSI Global Sustainable Value Fund (Class A):	6.64%
Solactive Developed Markets Large & Mid Cap Index (Net):	9.06%

The GSI Global Sustainable Value Fund has two key features that, in the longer term, we expect to generate higher returns compared to market-weighted broad global equity indices: (i) it tilts by approximately 20% towards value stocks based on a blend of value metrics and (ii) it tilts by approximately 10% towards smaller companies based on market capitalisation. In addition to its value and size tilts, the Sub-Fund also tilts by approximately 20% towards stocks with higher ESG ratings (i.e., lower ESG risk ratings) as provided by Sustainalytics, a leading provider of ESG ratings.

Over the 6-month period to end June 2023, value stocks significantly underperformed their growth counterparts in North America and Europe. The tilt of the Global Sustainable Value Fund towards value stocks contributed around -2.5% relative return over the period. Small companies underperformed large companies over the period across all developed markets regions. Overall, the tilt of the Sub-Fund towards smaller stocks contributed approximately -1.8% relative return over the period. Higher ESG scoring stocks (i.e., lower ESG risk rated stocks) outperformed lower ESG rated stocks in North America and Europe. The tilt of the Sub-Fund towards higher ESG scoring stocks contributed approximately 1.1% relative return over the period. The Sub-Fund benefited overall from its sector positioning over the period as the overall contribution from sector allocation was 1.2%.

Outlook

Investors have already priced in significant increases in interest rates across the world and are now pricing in more limited increases, especially in the US. It is widely expected that the Federal Reserve will increase the target Fed rate at least one more time. However, the yield curve in the US is heavily inverted, reflecting expectations of lower future interest rates. In the UK however, the Bank rate, currently at 5%, is still below the latest annual inflation rate at 7.9%. Therefore the Bank of England has signalled further increases in interest rates to bring inflation under control. The OECD currently projects positive but lower growth across the world in 2023 at 2.2%. However, it projects a decline in GDP of 0.4% over 2023 for the UK.

At GSI, we believe that investors should take a disciplined, long-term view and employ a well-diversified, low-turnover investment strategy, with a view to capturing well-researched factor premia related to the broad equity market, smaller companies and companies trading at low prices compared those trading at high prices.

As responsible investors, we also believe that it is important to consider how companies manage the risks and opportunities related to those environmental, social, and governance (ESG) issues that are relevant to them. We position our Sub-Funds so that we overweight companies that we believe better manage those risks and opportunities.

Both Sub-Funds remain well diversified across markets, sectors, and stocks and we remain confident that the Sub-Funds are well positioned to perform in line with expectations.

Sustainable Finance

The Sub-Fund promotes among other characteristics, environmental or social characteristics pursuant to Article 8 of the SFDR.

How and the extent to which environmental or social characteristics are met:

The Investment Manager will bias the portfolio towards companies that are assessed to have higher scores with respect to environmental, social and governance (ESG) criteria in determining the weight of that company in the portfolio. The ESG criteria cover companies' exposure to and management of the following:

Environmental issues: such as climate change and carbon emissions, air and water pollution, and energy efficiency;

Social issues: such as gender and diversity, human rights, and labour standards;

Governance issues: such as board composition, executive compensation, and audit committee structure.

Furthermore, the Investment Manager will exclude from the portfolio companies that fail to comply with the United Nations Global Compact principles for business or derive a significant part of their revenues from activities that are not aligned with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals.

The ESG scoring process addresses environmental, social and governance issues across a range of topics selected for their relevance from a business and sustainability perspective. The ESG rating from 0-100 is based on a set of underlying cross-industry and industry-specific indicators. Each indicator is scored from 0-100 and weighted according to an industry-specific weight matrix. These include 60-80 cross-industry and industry-specific indicators covering different ESG topics across four pillars:

- Preparedness: An assessment is made of how each company's management systems and policies are designed to mitigate material ESG risks. Examples include: health and safety programmes, programmes and targets for hazardous waste.
- Disclosure: Assessment of the degree of company transparency on material ESG issues towards investors and other stakeholders. Examples include: tax transparency per country and scope of greenhouse gas emissions.
- Quantitative Performance: Evaluation of a company's ESG performance based on targets and quantitative commitments. Examples include: employee turnover rate, carbon intensity and number of fatalities.
- Qualitative Performance: Monitoring and assessing a company's involvement in incidents and controversies, which may highlight inadequate company preparedness to manage its ESG risks.

Where a comprehensive range of ESG indicators is not available, ESG ratings will be derived from the information available. Not all information is equally useful, so ratings will be based on the information that best represents a company's ability to manage key ESG issues. Raw ESG ratings are adjusted for regional, sector and size effects. This way, after ESG scores have been integrated with companies' value characteristics, the Sub-Fund retains its target exposures to regions, sectors, and smaller companies. ESG data and scores will be sourced from one or more specialist third party ESG data providers and may be supplemented by internal research. From time to time, events concerning a specific company may happen faster than can be incorporated and delivered by a third-party provider. In these circumstances, the Investment Manager may modify the ESG scores to reflect current events which have yet to be reflected in the data provided externally.

Sustainability risks

While the Sub-Fund takes account of sustainability risks (as set out in the Supplement of the Sub-Fund) the Investment Manager has determined that the Sustainability Risk (being the risk that the value of the Sub-Fund could be materially negatively impacted by an ESG Event) faced by the Sub-Fund is low.

Taxonomy

While the Sub-Fund promotes environmental characteristics in the manner described above, it does not currently commit to investing in "sustainable investments" with an environmental objective within the meaning of SFDR. Accordingly, the investments underlying the Sub-Fund do not take into account the EU criteria for environmentally sustainable economic activities.

ESG Metrics

The chart below shows the proportion of the Sub-Fund allocated to five groups based on ESG risk rating. This shows that the Sub-Fund is tilted away from companies with high ESG risk ratings and towards companies with lower ESG risk ratings according to Sustainalytics, compared to the Solactive Developed Markets Large & Mid Cap Index

- Weighted Average ESG Risk Rating - the weighted average ESG risk rating based on the weights of each portfolio or index (a lower risk rating is better).
- Weighted Average Carbon Intensity - the weighted average carbon intensity based on the weights of each portfolio or index. Carbon intensity per company is defined as Scope 1 and Scope 2 carbon emissions divided by annual revenues. This is the standard as defined by the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosures (TCFD).
- Fossil Fuel Exposure - companies are classified as having fossil fuel exposure if they are in the Energy sector; in the Utilities sector (except water utilities or companies involved in renewable power generation); or companies involved in thermal coal (at a level of greater than 10% of annual revenues).
- Portfolio Environmental Risk Score - the weighted average Environmental Risk Score as determined by Sustainalytics (a lower risk rating is better).
- Portfolio Social Risk Score - the weighted average Social Risk Score as determined by Sustainalytics (a lower risk rating is better).
- Portfolio Governance Risk Score - the weighted average Governance Risk Score as determined by Sustainalytics (a lower risk rating is better).

Market highlights

Financial markets entered 2023 with ongoing concerns related to inflation across global economies, exacerbated by the continuing conflict in Ukraine. In the US, the Federal Reserve maintained its stance of raising rates to combat inflationary pressures, raising the lower target of the Fed funds rate in the US from 4.25% in January to 5% at the end of June. Other central banks also increased rates, including the Bank of England and the ECB. There was significant disruption in the banking sector in the US and Europe. In the US, there were three bank failures (SVB, Signature Bank and Silvergate Bank), largely due to the changing rate environment which had been poorly managed. These failures exposed stresses arising from the change in financial conditions and caused banks stock prices to fall, especially the regional banks. However, by the end of June, the Federal Reserve stated that it was confident that there was resilience in the banking system and confidence was gradually returning to the sector. In Europe, successive events related to poor management at Credit Suisse led to its eventual takeover by UBS, thus avoiding a wider run in the sector. Over the period, the impact of rising rates led to the lowering of year-on-year changes in consumer price indices in all key developed countries. However, central banks were still expressing vigilance against potential further inflation. In particular, the UK continued to experience higher inflation compared to other developed countries.

The first half of 2023 saw positive returns in all regions, despite the widespread concerns over persistent inflation and high interest rates. Over the 6-month period, global developed markets posted a return of 9% in GBP. The most significant factor in the period was the value/growth factor, with growth stocks outperforming value stocks in North America and Europe, although value fared better than growth in Asia Pacific. Larger cap stocks generally outperformed smaller stocks. In addition, companies with higher ESG scores (lower ESG risk ratings) tended to outperform relative to those with lower ratings in the US and Europe. The return of the broad market was strongly dominated by a small number of stocks in the Information Technology, Consumer Discretionary and Communications Services sectors (e.g. Apple, Microsoft, Nvidia, Amazon, etc.). The publicity surrounding innovations in Artificial Intelligence, especially interactive systems such as ChatGPT, has led to markets pricing in high expectations for companies that may benefit from this technology. The Energy sector underperformed over the period, reflecting lower prices across energy markets compared to the elevated levels seen in 2022. Sterling increased over the period by around 5% compared to the US dollar, which lowered the returns of the GBP-denominated share classes, compared to the return of the Sub-Fund in USD.

Fund performance review (in GBP)

For the 6 months to 30th June 2023.

GSI Global Sustainable Focused Value Fund (Class A):	1.15%
Solactive Developed Markets Large & Mid Cap Index (Net):	9.06%

The GSI Global Sustainable Focused Value Fund has two key features that, in the longer term, we expect to generate higher returns compared to market-weighted broad global equity indices: (i) it tilts by approximately 50% towards value stocks based on a blend of value metrics and (ii) it tilts by approximately 12% towards smaller companies based on market capitalisation. In addition to its value and size tilts, the Sub-Fund also tilts by approximately 15-20% towards stocks with higher ESG ratings (i.e., lower ESG risk ratings) as provided by Sustainalytics, a leading provider of ESG ratings.

Over the 6-month period to end June 2023, value stocks significantly underperformed their growth counterparts in North America and Europe. The tilt of the Global Sustainable Focused Value Fund towards value stocks contributed around -4.8% relative return over the period. Small companies underperformed large companies over the period across all developed markets regions. Overall, the tilt of the Sub-Fund towards smaller stocks contributed approximately -3.1% relative return over the period. Higher ESG scoring stocks (i.e., lower ESG risk rated stocks) outperformed lower ESG rated stocks in North America and Europe. However this was substantially impacted by the outperformance of some High ESG growth stocks over the period, such as Apple, Microsoft and Nvidia. As the portfolio has no holdings in these stocks, the tilt of the Sub-Fund towards higher ESG scoring stocks resulted in a neutral contribution to return over the period. The Sub-Fund benefited overall from its sector positioning over the period as the overall contribution from sector allocation was 1.2%.

Outlook

Investors have already priced in significant increases in interest rates across the world and are now pricing in more limited increases, especially in the US. It is widely expected that the Federal Reserve will increase the target Fed rate at least one more time. However, the yield curve in the US is heavily inverted, reflecting expectations of lower future interest rates. In the UK however, the Bank rate, currently at 5%, is still below the latest annual inflation rate at 7.9%. Therefore the Bank of England has signalled further increases in interest rates to bring inflation under control. The OECD currently projects positive but lower growth across the world in 2023 at 2.2%. However, it projects a decline in GDP of 0.4% over 2023 for the UK.

At GSI, we believe that investors should take a disciplined, long-term view and employ a well-diversified, low-turnover investment strategy, with a view to capturing well-researched factor premia related to the broad equity market, smaller companies and companies trading at low prices compared those trading at high prices.

As responsible investors, we also believe that it is important to consider how companies manage the risks and opportunities related to those environmental, social, and governance (ESG) issues that are relevant to them. We position our Sub-Funds so that we overweight companies that we believe better manage those risks and opportunities.

Both Sub-Funds remain well diversified across markets, sectors, and stocks and we remain confident that the Sub-Funds are well positioned to perform in line with expectations.

Sustainable Finance

The Sub-Fund promotes among other characteristics, environmental or social characteristics pursuant to Article 8 SFDR.

How and the extent to which environmental or social characteristics are met:

The Investment Manager will bias the portfolio towards companies that are assessed to have higher scores with respect to environmental, social and governance (ESG) criteria in determining the weight of that company in the portfolio. The ESG criteria cover companies' exposure to and management of the following:

Environmental issues: such as climate change and carbon emissions, air and water pollution, and energy efficiency;

Social issues: such as gender and diversity, human rights, and labour standards;

Governance issues: such as board composition, executive compensation, and audit committee structure.

Furthermore, the Investment Manager will exclude from the portfolio companies that fail to comply with the United Nations Global Compact principles for business or derive a significant part of their revenues from activities that are not aligned with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals.

The ESG scoring process addresses environmental, social and governance issues across a range of topics selected for their relevance from a business and sustainability perspective. The ESG rating from 0-100 is based on a set of underlying cross-industry and industry-specific indicators. Each indicator is scored from 0-100 and weighted according to an industry-specific weight matrix. These include 60-80 cross-industry and industry-specific indicators covering different ESG topics across four pillars:

- Preparedness: An assessment is made of how each company's management systems and policies are designed to mitigate material ESG risks. Examples include: health and safety programmes, programmes and targets for hazardous waste.
- Disclosure: Assessment of the degree of company transparency on material ESG issues towards investors and other stakeholders. Examples include: tax transparency per country and scope of greenhouse gas emissions.
- Quantitative Performance: Evaluation of a company's ESG performance based on targets and quantitative commitments. Examples include: employee turnover rate, carbon intensity and number of fatalities.
- Qualitative Performance: Monitoring and assessing a company's involvement in incidents and controversies, which may highlight inadequate company preparedness to manage its ESG risks.

Where a comprehensive range of ESG indicators is not available, ESG ratings will be derived from the information available. Not all information is equally useful, so ratings will be based on the information that best represents a company's ability to manage key ESG issues. Raw ESG ratings are adjusted for regional, sector and size effects. This way, after ESG scores have been integrated with companies' value characteristics, the Sub-Fund retains its target exposures to regions, sectors, and smaller companies. ESG data and scores will be sourced from one or more specialist third party ESG data providers and may be supplemented by internal research. From time to time, events concerning a specific company may happen faster than can be incorporated and delivered by a third-party provider. In these circumstances, the Investment Manager may modify the ESG scores to reflect current events which have yet to be reflected in the data provided externally.

Sustainability risks

While the Sub-Fund takes account of sustainability risks (as set out in the Supplement of the Sub-Fund) the Investment Manager has determined that the Sustainability Risk (being the risk that the value of the Sub-Fund could be materially negatively impacted by an ESG Event) faced by the Sub-Fund is low.

Taxonomy

While the Sub-Fund promotes environmental characteristics in the manner described above, it does not currently commit to investing in "sustainable investments" with an environmental objective within the meaning of SFDR Accordingly, the investments underlying the Sub-Fund do not take into account the EU criteria for environmentally sustainable economic activities.

ESG Metrics

The chart below shows the proportion of the Sub-Fund allocated to five groups based on ESG risk rating. This shows that the Sub-Fund is tilted away from companies with high ESG risk ratings and towards companies with lower ESG risk ratings. According to Sustainalytics, compared to the Solactive Developed Markets Large & Mid Cap Index

- Weighted Average ESG Risk Rating - the weighted average ESG risk rating based on the weights of each portfolio or index (a lower risk rating is better).
- Weighted Average Carbon Intensity - the weighted average carbon intensity based on the weights of each portfolio or index. Carbon intensity per company is defined as Scope 1 and Scope 2 carbon emissions divided by annual revenues. This is the standard as defined by the Task Force on Climate-related Financial Disclosures (TCFD).
- Fossil Fuel Exposure - companies are classified as having fossil fuel exposure if they are in the Energy sector; in the Utilities sector (except water utilities or companies involved in renewable power generation); or companies involved in thermal coal (at a level of greater than 10% of annual revenues).
- Portfolio Environmental Risk Score - the weighted average Environmental Risk Score as determined by Sustainalytics (a lower risk rating is better).
- Portfolio Social Risk Score - the weighted average Social Risk Score as determined by Sustainalytics (a lower risk rating is better).
- Portfolio Governance Risk Score – the weighted average Governance Risk Score as determined by Sustainalytics (a lower risk rating is better).

Market Review

The first half of 2023 was eventful in many ways, with much of the market focus on how the high inflation profile seen in the prior 6 months would unfold into the new year. At the start of 2023 the markets had priced in only modest increases in official interest rates from end-2022 levels, as it was deemed year-on-year CPI readings would gradually fall, largely due to comparisons to the previous year's bumper monthly rises. Adding to the sense of relative calm was reports of a weakening Chinese economy which led to widespread falls in commodity prices, and therefore seen to be helping the inflation profile.

Two significant events in March led to a sharp fall in US Treasury yields and wider credit spreads. The first shock was the failure of 3 regional US banks, all reasonably large institutions, which required some emergency assistance from the authorities to address a potentially more damaging deposit withdrawal from other similar banks. The fear of significantly tighter lending standards led money markets to price in a series of rate cuts in the US as pressure could mount for lower economic growth. A few weeks later came the collapse and the subsequent rescue of Credit Suisse by UBS. This was looked upon as an isolated banking incident and not symptomatic of the wider financial system. Nevertheless, yield spreads of financial bonds widened, though after reassuring language from local central banking authorities, these recovered quite strongly by the end of June.

In the macroeconomic background, inflation in some countries such as the UK came in doggedly high when compared to market expectations. In the US and Eurozone however, a combination of lower energy and goods prices led to a smoother trend, ending at levels significantly lower than the peaks recorded last year. Tight labour markets appeared to be the main factor preventing central banks from being less hawkish, and the rhetoric for higher rates continued to be broadcast by most policymakers, with the UK MPC in particular being pressurised by the markets to continue to raise the base rate to well above 6% in response to inflation that was interpreted by some to be out of control.

Government bond yields ended the reporting period broadly higher than at end-2022, with the largest rise seen in UK gilts where 5-year maturity yields ended over 0.5% higher than the move in US Treasury yields. After a fairly volatile period, corporate bond spreads ended the reporting period tighter.

Performance Review

The USD X-share class returned 0.4% for the reporting period, versus the benchmark return of 3.4%. The broad market index as measured by the Bloomberg Multiverse index returned 3.0% for the year to date.

The portfolio maintained its broad allocation to the sub-sectors as they stood at end-2022. The strategic overweight of 36% allocation to financial debt was one of the contributing factors behind the fund return falling short of those recorded by the broader market, as the widening of financial credit spreads post the March banking events has taken its time to catch up with the contraction seen in corporate credit spreads. The other source of underperformance was the fund's tactical allocation of 37% to GBP securities; whilst fully hedged back to the base currency, the surprising CPI releases that led to the significant underperformance to other areas as noted above resulted in the entire allocation lagging returns on USD and EUR exposure.

Outlook

Much of the volatility seen in fixed income markets over the past 6 months has been focussed on the path of inflation across all the major developed regions, with particular emphasis on if second round effects such as significant wage increases are starting to be embedded in core inflation readings. The jury is still out on this front, which is why policymakers will likely remain on tightening mode over the next few months. This tightening includes actual rate rises as well as the length they keep rates at these high levels. Our belief is the “higher for longer” approach will suppress economic activity going forward, and early signs of this may be seen in the second half of 2023. Such a slowdown should take wage pressures off the inflation outlook, especially if we start to see more evidence of some slack coming into the labour markets. All this should be helpful for both government bonds and high grade credit. The relatively disappointing performance by the GBP allocation should also start to recover under such an environment. The yield on the portfolio is the highest it has been for quite a few quarters, which should underpin the returns profile over the next 12 months.

Market Review

Following a broadly positive Q1, Q2 was more mixed for assets markets. Tech stocks continued to see a strong outperformance due to Artificial Intelligence excitement and equity volatility continued to fall and reached depressed levels. However, sovereign bonds lost ground after inflation remained elevated and central banks kept talking rates higher, and for longer, which started to get priced into yield curves. Commodities struggled across the board, with crude oil prices down again, as Chinese economic data was softer than expected. In June, there was a broader rally for equity markets with most global equity indices posting mid-single digit gains for the month.

Central Bank rhetoric turned more hawkish, which to some extent is understandable as they do not wish to squander the hard fought wins they are finally beginning to see in inflation data. The desire to anchor inflation expectations at a lower level seems central to their strategy and giving a signal that the end is near makes little sense to them. This will most likely introduce periods of higher volatility, bouts of rising government bond yields and intermittent phases of risk selling off. Taking cautious steps in asset allocation will remain important in terms of interest rate risk and market risk.

For equities, the first half of 2023, has produced equity returns far ahead of even the most optimistic market expectation as inflation has started to fall, earnings have been resilient and technology has once again captured the attention of investors with the potential for Artificial Intelligence (AI), Machine Learning and Automation.

However, the market breadth has been very narrow with a handful of large tech stocks producing the vast amount of the year-to-date equity performance.

The trigger for Tech performance was the massive uplift to earnings from Nvidia due to AI driving huge demand for semiconductor chips (GPUs). This focused the market on the technological revolution that could occur due to AI. Fundamentally, it is challenging to estimate the magnitude of the potential of AI, but it does illustrate the point that the drivers of S&P 500 performance have changed with a move towards structural growth drivers being a bigger part than cyclical growth drivers. However, the clear negative for the S&P 500 Index is that it now lacks diversity as an index and is dominated by a small selection of Mega-cap US Tech stocks.

European equities also fared better than feared as a mild winter resulted in an ample amount of gas for industrial production and the re-opening of China, albeit with a slightly muted economic outcome to date, is helpful for European multinationals which tend to have a larger degree of exposure to China than US peers.

Ultimately, the outcome for the first half of 2023 has been a complete reversal from the 2022 market environment with Growth strongly outperforming Value (Cyclicals) and Defensives.

In the case of fixed income, two significant events in March led to a sharp fall in US Treasury yields and wider credit spreads. The first shock was the failure of 3 regional US banks, all reasonably large institutions, which required some emergency assistance from the authorities to address a potentially more damaging deposit withdrawal from other similar banks. The fear of significantly tighter lending standards led money markets to price in a series of rate cuts in the US as pressure could mount for lower economic growth. A few weeks later came the collapse and the subsequent rescue of Credit Suisse by UBS. This was looked upon as an isolated banking incident and not symptomatic of the wider financial system. Nevertheless, yield spreads of financial bonds widened, though after reassuring language from local central banking authorities, these recovered quite strongly by the end of June. Government bond yields ended the reporting period broadly higher than at end-2022, with the largest rise seen in UK gilts where 5-year maturity yields ended over 0.5% higher than the move in US Treasury yields. After a fairly volatile period, corporate bond spreads ended the reporting period tighter.

Performance Review

The GBP A share class returned just over 7% for the reporting period.

Equities were the main driver of performance with the asset class contributing double digit returns. This was contrary to the expectations of more modest returns at the beginning of the period from most market forecasters and despite the fact that earnings expectations fell during the first half of 2023. The main drivers for performance were based on expectations that a soft landing was becoming more likely as inflation decelerated, China reopened and the global consumer remained resilient.

However, other assets provided more modest contributions with a higher rate environment being offset by rising interest rate expectations.

After a rebound in Q1, from the repricing of the bond market in 2022, bonds faced a challenging Q2 as yields rose in anticipation of higher for longer interest rates. The U.S. Treasury yield curve moved up across maturities towards the end of H1 2023 with government bonds and corporate bond prices being negatively impacted.

Gold has also shown a mixed performance in H1 2023 after a very strong Q1 due to investors looking for safe havens. Q2 brought a small decline for gold in the region of 3% as again higher rate expectations weighed on performance.

Outlook

The (good) problem equities markets have after such a strong six-month period is that the market has moved towards the most bullish outcome of falling inflation and no impactful recession to come. Although understandable on the inflation front, there are still some concerns on earnings.

The challenge for earnings lies ahead with high expectations despite a slowing economic backdrop. L&C Equity Solutions positioning is focused on defensive high quality compounding equities and structurally growing businesses.

This considerable earnings uncertainty, and that defensive stocks have become more relatively attractively priced again, means that the L&C STAR strategies are a vital building block for medium and longer term returns in a volatile and unpredictable world.

There has also been a change in market sentiment and positioning with the S&P 500 Volatility Index (VIX) showing that volatility levels have come down to new lows which suggest there could be an element of short-term exuberance or complacency being priced into markets.

Therefore, we are still cautious on economically sensitive equity exposure as the risk compared to the potential reward is simply not attractive enough at this point in time.

Exposure to the L&C Growth Plus strategy also remains a key component of the portfolio as it would be wrong to dismiss some of the Technology movement as purely speculative. Firstly, Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning and Automation are now becoming an earnings reality and have created some very large upgrades to several technology stocks' guidance. Secondly, the downward path of inflation (although bumpy) has been supportive for longer duration equities from the oversold levels at the end of 2022.

Finally, trying to time this area of the market is unlikely to be fruitful and the longer term buy and hold nature of these businesses is expected to produce strong longer term returns for patient investors.

However, the outlook of bond markets is more promising as inflation fades and rate hikes are likely to reach the terminal point. On a risk adjusted and contrarian positioning basis, bond markets appear very attractive compared to equities.

Accordingly, the asset allocation of the fund favour fixed income currently when comparing to the strategic longer term weighting targets.

Market Review

The first half of 2023 was eventful in many ways, with much of the market focus on how the high inflation profile seen in the prior 6 months would unfold into the new year. At the start of 2023 the markets had priced in only modest increases in official interest rates from end-2022 levels, as it was deemed year-on-year CPI readings would gradually fall, largely due to comparisons to the previous year's bumper monthly rises. Adding to the sense of relative calm was reports of a weakening Chinese economy which led to widespread falls in commodity prices, and therefore seen to be helping the inflation profile.

Two significant events in March led to a sharp fall in US Treasury yields and wider credit spreads. The first shock was the failure of 3 regional US banks, all reasonably large institutions, which required some emergency assistance from the authorities to address a potentially more damaging deposit withdrawal from other similar banks. The fear of significantly tighter lending standards led money markets to price in a series of rate cuts in the US as pressure could mount for lower economic growth. A few weeks later came the collapse and the subsequent rescue of Credit Suisse by UBS. This was looked upon as an isolated banking incident and not symptomatic of the wider financial system. Nevertheless, yield spreads of financial bonds widened, though after reassuring language from local central banking authorities, these recovered quite strongly by the end of June.

In the macroeconomic background, inflation in some countries such as the UK came in doggedly high when compared to market expectations. In the US and Eurozone however, a combination of lower energy and goods prices led to a smoother trend, ending at levels significantly lower than the peaks recorded last year. Tight labour markets appeared to be the main factor preventing central banks from being less hawkish, and the rhetoric for higher rates continued to be broadcast by most policymakers, with the UK MPC in particular being pressurised by the markets to continue to raise the base rate to well above 6% in response to inflation that was interpreted by some to be out of control.

Government bond yields ended the reporting period broadly higher than at end-2022, with the largest rise seen in UK gilts where 5-year maturity yields ended over 0.5% higher than the move in US Treasury yields. After a fairly volatile period, corporate bond spreads ended the reporting period tighter.

Performance Review

The USD X-share class returned -0.3% for the reporting period, versus the benchmark return of 3.9%. The broad market index as measured by the Bloomberg Multiverse index returned -11.2% for the year to date.

The portfolio maintained its broad allocation to the sub-sectors as they stood at end-2022. The strategic overweight of 49% allocation to financial debt was one of the contributing factors behind the fund return falling short of those recorded by the broader market, as the widening of financial credit spreads post the March banking events has taken its time to catch up with the contraction seen in corporate credit spreads. The other source of underperformance was the fund's tactical allocation of 42% to GBP securities; whilst fully hedged back to the base currency, the surprising CPI releases that led to the significant underperformance to other areas as noted above resulted in the entire allocation lagging returns on USD and EUR exposure.

Outlook

Much of the volatility seen in fixed income markets over the past 6 months has been focussed on the path of inflation across all the major developed regions, with particular emphasis on if second round effects such as significant wage increases are starting to be embedded in core inflation readings. The jury is still out on this front, which is why policymakers will likely remain on tightening mode over the next few months. This tightening includes actual rate rises as well as the length they keep rates at these high levels. Our belief is the “higher for longer” approach will suppress economic activity going forward, and early signs of this may be seen in the second half of 2023. Such a slowdown should take wage pressures off the inflation outlook, especially if we start to see more evidence of some slack coming into the labour markets. All this should be helpful for both government bonds and high grade credit. The relatively disappointing performance by the GBP allocation should also start to recover under such an environment. The yield on the portfolio is the highest it has been for quite a few quarters, which should underpin the returns profile over the next 12 months.

Market Review

The first half of 2023 has produced equity returns far ahead of even the most optimistic market expectation as inflation has started to fall, earnings have been resilient and technology has once again captured the attention of investors with the potential for Artificial Intelligence (AI), Machine Learning and Automation.

However, the market breadth has been very narrow with a handful of large tech stocks producing the vast amount of the year-to-date equity performance.

The trigger for Tech Performance was the massive uplift to earnings from Nvidia due to AI driving huge demand for semiconductor chips (GPUs). This focused the market on the technological revolution that could occur due to AI. Fundamentally, it is challenging to estimate the magnitude of the potential of AI, but it does illustrate the point that the drivers of S&P 500 performance have changed with a move towards structural growth drivers being a bigger part than cyclical growth drivers. However, the clear negative for the S&P 500 Index is that it now lacks diversity as an index and is dominated by a small selection of Mega-cap US Tech stocks.

European equities also fared better than feared as a mild winter resulted in an ample amount of gas for industrial production and the re-opening of China, albeit with a slightly muted economic outcome to date, is helpful for European multinationals which tend to have a larger degree of exposure to China than US peers.

Ultimately, the outcome for the first half of 2023 has been a complete reversal from the 2022 market environment with Growth strongly outperforming Value (Cyclicals) and Defensives.

Performance Review

Following a broadly positive Q1, Q2 was more mixed for assets markets. Tech stocks continued to see a strong outperformance due to Artificial Intelligence excitement and equity volatility continued to fall and reached depressed level. However, sovereign bonds lost ground after inflation remained elevated and central banks kept talking rates higher, and for longer, which started to get priced into yield curves. Commodities struggled across the board, with crude oil prices down again, as Chinese economic data was softer than expected. In June, there was a broader rally for equity markets with most global equity indices posting mid-single digit gains for the month.

Global STAR participated well and strongly outperformed the MSCI World Minimal Volatility Index and kept up with higher risk Global equity indices which helped the fund to progress with the NAV per share approaching an all-time high at the end of the June.

Outlook

We suspect that the bulk of equities returns for 2023 have been captured in the first half of the year as the market now appears to be pricing in a bullish outcome of fading inflation and resilient growth. However, there is the risk that this is complacent as the earnings outcome will become more of a challenge in the latter part of the year and investor sentiment and positioning, both contrary indicators, are now showing fuller levels of investment in equities.

The challenge for earnings lies ahead with high expectations despite a slowing economic backdrop.

The STAR positioning is focused on defensive high quality compounding equities and structurally growing businesses. This considerable earnings uncertainty, and that defensive stocks have become more relatively attractively priced again, means that STAR is, as always, focused on the core fundamentals of compounding, resilient and defensive equities which seems particularly relevant in a volatile and unpredictable world.

There has also been a change in market sentiment and positioning with the S&P 500 Volatility Index (VIX) showing that volatility levels have come down to new lows which suggest there could be an element of short-term exuberance or complacency being priced into markets.

Therefore, we are still cautious on economically sensitive equity exposure as the risk compared to the potential reward is simply not attractive enough at this point in time.

Market Review

Following a broadly positive Q1, Q2 was more mixed for assets markets. Tech stocks continued to see a strong outperformance due to Artificial Intelligence excitement and equity volatility continued to fall and reached depressed levels. However, sovereign bonds lost ground after inflation remained elevated and central banks kept talking rates higher, and for longer, which started to get priced into yield curves. Commodities struggled across the board, with crude oil prices down again, as Chinese economic data was softer than expected. In June, there was a broader rally for equity markets with most global equity indices posting mid-single digit gains for the month.

Central Bank rhetoric turned more hawkish which to some extent is understandable as they do not wish to squander the hard fought wins they are finally beginning to see in inflation data. The desire to anchor inflation expectations at a lower level seems central to their strategy and giving a signal that the end is near makes little sense to them. This will most likely introduce periods of higher volatility, bouts of rising government bond yields and intermittent phases of risk selling off. Taking cautious steps in asset allocation will remain important in terms of interest rate risk and market risk.

For equities, the first half of 2023, has produced equity returns far ahead of even the most optimistic market expectation as inflation has started to fall, earnings have been resilient and technology has once again captured the attention of investors with the potential for Artificial Intelligence (AI), Machine Learning and Automation.

However, the market breadth has been very narrow with a handful of large tech stocks producing the vast amount of the year-to-date equity performance.

The trigger for Tech Performance was the massive uplift to earnings from Nvidia due to AI driving huge demand for semiconductor chips (GPUs). This focused the market on the technological revolution that could occur due to AI. Fundamentally, it is challenging to estimate the magnitude of the potential of AI but it does illustrate the point that the drivers of S&P 500 performance have changed with a move towards structural growth drivers being a bigger part than cyclical growth drivers. However, the clear negative for the S&P 500 Index is that it now lacks diversity as an index and is dominated by a small selection of Mega-cap US Tech stocks.

European equities also fared better than feared as a mild winter resulted in an ample amount of gas for industrial production and the re-opening of China, albeit with a slightly muted economic outcome to date, is helpful for European multinationals which tend to have a larger degree of exposure to China than US peers.

Ultimately, the outcome for the first half of 2023 has been a complete reversal from the 2022 market environment with Growth strongly outperforming Value (Cyclicals) and Defensives.

In the case of fixed income, two significant events in March led to a sharp fall in US Treasury yields and wider credit spreads. The first shock was the failure of 3 regional US banks, all reasonably large institutions, which required some emergency assistance from the authorities to address a potentially more damaging deposit withdrawal from other similar banks. The fear of significantly tighter lending standards led money markets to price in a series of rate cuts in the US as pressure could mount for lower economic growth. A few weeks later came the collapse and the subsequent rescue of Credit Suisse by UBS. This was looked upon as an isolated banking incident and not symptomatic of the wider financial system. Nevertheless, yield spreads of financial bonds widened, though after reassuring language from local central banking authorities, these recovered quite strongly by the end of June. Government bond yields ended the reporting period broadly higher than at end-2022, with the largest rise seen in UK gilts where 5-year maturity yields ended over 0.5% higher than the move in US Treasury yields. After a fairly volatile period, corporate bond spreads ended the reporting period tighter.

Performance Review

The GBP A share class returned 2.4% for the reporting period.

Equities were the main driver of performance with the asset class contributing double digit returns. This was contrary to the expectations of more modest returns at the beginning of the period from most market forecasters and despite the fact that earnings expectations fell during the first half of 2023. The main drivers for performance were based on expectations that a soft landing was becoming more likely as inflation decelerated, China reopened and the global consumer remained resilient. However, other assets provided more modest contributions with a higher rate environment being offset by rising interest rate expectations.

After a rebound in Q1, from the repricing of the bond market in 2022, bonds faced a challenging Q2 as yields rose in anticipation of higher for longer interest rates. The U.S. Treasury yield curve moved up across maturities towards the end of H1 2023 with government bonds and corporate bond prices being negatively impacted.

Gold has also shown a mixed performance in H1 2023 after a very strong Q1 due to investors looking for safe havens. Q2 brought a small decline for gold in the region of 3% as again higher rate expectations weighted on performance.

Outlook

The (good) problem equities markets have after such a strong six month period is that the market has moved towards the most bullish outcome of falling inflation and no impactful recession to come. Although understandable on the inflation front, there are still some concerns on earnings.

The challenge for earnings lies ahead with high expectations despite a slowing economic backdrop. L&C Equity Solutions positioning is focused on defensive high quality compounding equities and structurally growing businesses.

This considerable earnings uncertainty, and that defensive stocks have become more relatively attractively priced again, means that the L&C STAR strategies are a vital building block for medium and longer term returns in a volatile and unpredictable world.

There has also been a change in market sentiment and positioning with the S&P 500 Volatility Index (VIX) showing that volatility levels have come down to new lows which suggest there could be an element of short-term exuberance or complacency being priced into markets.

Therefore, we are still cautious on economically sensitive equity exposure as the risk compared to the potential reward is simply not attractive enough at this point in time.

Finally, trying to time this area of the market is unlikely to be fruitful and the longer term buy and hold nature of these businesses is expected to produce strong longer term returns for patient investors.

However, the outlook of bond markets is more promising as inflation fades and rate hikes are likely to reach the terminal point. On a risk adjusted and contrarian positioning basis, bond markets appears very attractive compared to equities. Accordingly, the asset allocation of the fund favour fixed income currently when comparing to the strategic longer term weighting targets.

We expect the second half of the year to play out rather differently to the first half with respect to equities, with the attention now focused on growth concerns, we expect secular growth equities to be on a stronger footing as investors divert their attention from inflation scares while sentiment and positioning suggest the market had become overly bearish on this group. Meanwhile we continue to focus on valuations especially in the defensive equity bucket which have reached relatively elevated levels. We have slowly started to reduce exposure to certain consumer staples names within the sector which we believe had reached unsustainably high multiples that reduced the likelihood of attractive future returns for investors.

Market Review

The first half of 2023 equity market performance was driven by the reversal of inflation fears that hit markets in 2022. The factor performance so far this year has been a complete opposite of 2022 when faster growing, secular growth equities were unloved by investors as many investors decided to rotate into “value” sectors like energy and financials. Late 2022, marked the peak of inflation in the US and the progress from 9%+ inflation to 3% has defied expectations that the market needed to adjust to a significant change or a “new normal”. Investor positioning in secular growth equities reflected very negative pessimism which ultimately laid the ground for the rotation through 2023 as inflation data began to move in the right direction.

With that being said, the market breadth has been very narrow with a handful of large tech stocks producing the vast amount of the year-to-date equity index performance.

Underpinning the performance of broad markets, earnings have exceeded expectations, and technology has once again captured the attention of investors with the potential for Artificial Intelligence (AI), Machine Learning and automation.

The trigger for recent tech-led performance was the massive uplift to earnings from Nvidia as it signalled that AI was likely to drive huge demand for its semiconductor chips (GPUs). This focused the market on the very high likelihood that a technological revolution could occur due to AI, perhaps to be as defining as prior industrial revolutions.

Fundamentally, it is challenging to estimate the magnitude of the potential of AI, but it does illustrate the point that the drivers of S&P 500 performance have changed with a move towards structural growth drivers playing a larger role than cyclical growth.

Performance Review

Following a broadly positive Q1, Q2 was more mixed for assets markets. Tech stocks continued to see a strong outperformance due to Artificial Intelligence excitement and equity volatility continued to fall and reached depressed levels.

The top 3 performing stocks in the L&C Global Equity Opportunities portfolio in H1 2023 were Align Technology (+67.7%), Cadence Design Systems (+46%) and Adobe (45.3%). Align technology benefited from a stabilization in its end market as consumer activity remained resilient against consensus top down expectations for a near term recessionary outlook, in addition to this, earnings were helped by the easier comparisons from a year ago with investors becoming more comfortable in a post covid environment which was also supported by the resumption of dental procedures in China following the reopening.

Cadence Design System has been a big beneficiary from the rise in complexity of chip design but also the accelerating demand for ASIC chips (Application specific integrated circuits) while the appetite for AI focused chip architecture drives incremental activity as system companies such as Alphabet continue to iterate their own hardware technology stack to run internal AI workloads.

Finally, Adobe proved to one of few companies that can show near term accretion to earnings from AI product development as they launched their AI Firefly cloud software and provided investors with information with regards to the pricing of these new products.

Overall, the L&C Global Equity Opportunities Fund strongly outperformed the MSCI World Net Total Return Index underpinned by healthy contribution by nearly all our investments.

Outlook

We remain committed to the strong thematic opportunities that underpin the fund's holdings whether that's the growth of cloud computing over the next decade or the proliferation and rise in complexity of semiconductor technology which is crucial to all technological innovation from AI to automation.

More importantly we have the patience to allow these trends to drive and compound the earnings for our companies. We believe this is imperative to drive attractive excess returns for our investors over the benchmark as markets perpetually undervalue the duration of the likely sustainable earnings growth.

In the short term we are very cognisant that markets have rallied strongly this year following a big change in market sentiment and positioning, with the S&P 500 Volatility Index (VIX) showing that volatility levels have come down to multi year lows.

As we move through the second half of the year it will be incumbent upon the Federal Reserve to begin to change tack, with the inflation battle nearly won the path to a soft landing remains fraught with difficulty and the market could easily tip from disinflation optimism to growth pessimism.

A prolonged economic cycle will require the Federal Reserve to nimbly move from its current tight policy setting to a more appropriate neutral level. Therefore, we are still cautious on purely economically sensitive equity exposure, however it remains appropriate to position for the secular tailwinds that can help power sustainable profitable growth for our companies despite the economic headwinds that may appear in the event policy makers misjudge the landing.

Investment Manager's Report

Principal Asset Allocation Fund

Market Neutral Strategy

Our strategic asset allocation consists of a 60:40 split between equity and fixed income.

The equity allocation consists of 50 equally weighted stocks drawn from the Stoxx 600 universe. This is Beta hedged by a short Stoxx 600 futures position. In turn this strategy is currency hedged from Euro to GBP.

The Fixed Income allocation is designed as a flexible, low duration, 'carry' strategy of liquid, high quality bonds.

Finally, the fund deploys a range of opportunistic, market neutral strategies. These are typically relative value tactical pairs trades in fixed income (rates or credit) and equity markets.

The overall strategy aim is to provide low volatility, low correlation returns at every stage in the economic and market cycles. Monthly rebalancing to 60:40 maintains the target asset allocation and the fixed income carry portfolio provides liquidity when required.

Risk & Performance

2023 has thus far been a mixed picture for global asset classes with equity markets in general rebounding and bond markets under pressure as uncertainty around the forward looking picture for inflation persists.

Amidst this, the fund posted a modest absolute decline with a net performance of -1.49% for the period (with annualised volatility at 4.81%), comparing favourably with UK Bonds which declined -2.95% but under-performing equity markets with the UK 100 Index up 1.07% and broad European indices posting even stronger gains. The fund's performance lagged our absolute return objective of UK Cash plus 500 bp by 5.99%.

From a risk perspective the fund is positioned appropriately with VaR (one year historic, 99.5% confidence, 20-day horizon) at 5.09% versus the reference UK 100 at 12.02%.

Outlook

Our multi factor equity strategy has consistently produced positive absolute returns with low volatility, and we expect this to continue. On a relative basis, we expect to modestly under perform in strong markets while offering significant downside protection during market corrections.

As previously forecast, 2023 has thus far seen a modest retreat in headline and core inflation from record highs. Investors should not however underestimate the likelihood of swift hawkish policy responses. We continue to ascribe a greater than 50% chance that inflation will resurface as a major concern in H2 2023 as it becomes clear that goods deflation has run its course while wages and service inflation have become entrenched at levels inconsistent with the various price stability targets, triggering further rate rises and risking recession.

This is a recipe for renewed volatility and continued uncertainty for investors.

Semper Total Return Fund

Fund Review

The first six months of 2023 have generally been a positive story, especially in contrast to the prior year during which the Federal Reserve moved from an accommodative monetary policy to unprecedented tightening, highlighted by 10 consecutive rate hikes totaling 5% between March '22 and May '23. The portion of the domestic bond market consisting of structured credit including Non-Agency mortgage-backed securities (RMBS) and narrow portions of the commercial mortgage-backed securities (CMBS) and asset-backed securities (ABS) sectors in which the Semper Total Return Fund (Fund) invests generally performed well despite the many challenges facing the U.S. economy and capital markets.

Last December, the Federal Reserve raised their target Fed Funds rate by 50 basis points following several 75 basis point moves. In February they added a 25 basis point increase, adding clarity to market sentiment that the Fed expected that they were approaching the likely end of the tightening cycle. The Fed did not hike the target rate during their last meeting in June. Rates remained volatile, but credit sectors mostly rallied on this prospect, supporting stronger performance beginning during December and into the new calendar year. Most sectors of the bond market rallied on the prospect of the Fed approaching the end of its tightening cycle.

However, the rebound in securitized debt sectors - other than government guaranteed Agency MBS that benefited primarily from duration - was slower to emerge during this period when compared to corporates and other bond sectors, largely due to concerns over the likelihood, timing, and severity of a 2023 recession and the impact this could have on housing and homeowners. We observed heightened caution surrounding housing and even more so on commercial real estate markets along with RMBS and CMBS bonds. However, the combination of much lower new issue supply as rising mortgage rates slowed mortgage refinancing and home buying activity, combined with persistently strong credit performance by both the bonds and underlying loans in the RMBS sector, and the extremely compelling relative value between relatively rich corporate bonds and relatively attractive RMBS across the credit rating spectrum finally combined to build meaningful support for RMBS in December and especially in January and into February.

One catalyst supporting this emerging strength was a change in the direction of fixed income mutual fund flows, show in the below graph. After a year of net outflows from all bond funds including securitized debt funds, inflows began to take hold in early January. This heightened demand for bonds supported the rally across all sectors including securitized debt.

Following two strong months of performance, the bond market again took a turn for the worse in February as surprisingly strong employment data led to heightened expectations for additional Fed tightening. Rates spiked higher, and Agency MBS spreads along with volatility rose. RMBS performed well in February with the exception of the most rate sensitive profiles, benefitting from generally lower duration and continued strong credit fundamentals. As quickly as rates rose in February, they reversed course and declined in March while spreads widened as the regional banking crisis emerged with the failure of three regional banks and its implications for weakening asset values and economic growth, especially across commercial real estate. In April, volatility began to subside somewhat although the overhang of the banking crisis, Fed policy, and inflation remained. Rates turned higher once again in May with continued strong employment and better, but still too high, inflation. Agency MBS again underperformed – yields and spreads approached Great Financial Crisis levels, but RMBS continued to strengthen.

Despite this year's overall strength in RMBS and meaningful spread tightening in most sectors, we believe that yields and yield spreads remain extremely attractive on an absolute basis and on a relative basis versus corporate bonds as highlighted in the below graph.

Agency Credit Risk Transfer bonds have led the overall RMBS sector in terms of spread narrowing so far this year, but remain wide relative to historical norms, despite continuing credit strengthening. While yield spreads for most RMBS and other structured credit are significantly narrower since the beginning of the year, the absolute level of spreads and yields remain very attractive relative to historical periods. In contrast to corporate spreads, however, RMBS remain exceptionally attractive. Corporate spreads continued to defy economic projections, with credit curve flattening despite rising downgrade activity. Agency spreads widened to near GFC-levels during the spring with higher rate volatility and market uncertainty created by the regional bank failures and subsequent FDIC liquidation program and remain very wide. Prime Jumbo 2.0 widened in sympathy with Agencies coupled with bank lending and refinancing concerns. Much of the CMBS sector, especially CRE CLO profiles, widened based on regional bank lending and office collateral concerns.

Fund Update

The Fund benefited from higher current income as coupon income rose along with the Fed's rate hikes and price appreciation as many sectors performed well.

After a negative year in 2022 during when the Fund outperformed the Bloomberg U.S. MBS Index by over 5% and the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Index by 6.5%, performance has been significantly positive on an absolute and relative basis this year:

1 January, 2023 – 30 June, 2023 Net Performance

I Share Class Distributing, Hedged, GB Pounds:	+7.67%
I Share Class Unhedged, US Dollars:	+8.19%
I Share Class Distributing, Hedged, Euro	+6.97%
Bloomberg U.S. MBS Index:	+1.87%
Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Index:	+2.09%

The primary sources of performance for the Total Return Fund during the first half of 2023 were interest income of 3.7%, and unrealized price gains of 4.4%. The Fund's CRT bonds returned about 16%, contributing 5.3% to the Fund's return. The Fund's CMBS allocation returned about 5.2%, contributing 1% to performance. Most other sectors were modestly positive.

The Fund's investment approach remains unchanged, with a focus on mortgage credit, and a significant allocation to seasoned post-Great Financial Crisis Non-Agency RMBS, or RMBS 2.0. We expect that bonds securitized with mortgages, and ultimately by residential real estate, will continue to be among the best performing assets in the capital markets over a market cycle, including both recessionary and expansionary environments. We focus on owning a diversified portfolio consisting primarily of Non-Agency mortgage securities with limited rate sensitivity, and upside price optionality from growth in credit enhancement, with the expectation that over a cycle, the fund will benefit from higher yield, while having less principal volatility from avoiding a portion of the duration-driven price movements of the bond market. Active management in this complex, relatively small sector – about $550 billion, or less than 10% of the overall U.S. MBS market – continues to be critical to successful investing in this space.

Overall fund characteristics were similar to the prior fiscal year end. We have extended duration modestly to about 1.87 years, still very low versus the MBS and overall bond market, along with reducing floating rate exposure to 56% from 65% at the end of 2022 as the Fed approaches the end of their tightening cycle. Following very strong Agency CRT performance, we reduced this floating rate sector from 37% to 29%. We increased Single Family Rental (SFR) securitizations, which are fixed rate profiles, from 6% to 10%. The Fund currently has a 76% allocation to RMBS, including 13% Legacy, 7% Non-Qualified Mortgage (Non-QM) securitizations, and 9% is in Mortgage Insurance bonds. The CMBS allocation totalled 19%, Asset-Backed Securitizations (ABS) totalled 1% and cash equivalents totalled about 4%.

The bonds in the Fund currently have a weighted average price of approximately $91.5, approximately 1.5% higher than 31 December 2022 levels. Yield to maturity remained elevated at about 9%, benefiting from an average portfolio coupon of about 7.5%.

We expect to maintain a similar overall Total Return Fund composition throughout 2023, with the largest allocation to floating rate Non-Agency RMBS, and an allocation to CMBS, largely multi-family housing and industrial profiles, while continuing to maintain a duration lower than the overall mortgage market. This significant level of seasoning remains important because the more seasoned loans have generally built up substantial levels of home equity, an important source of borrower's credit quality and overall bond credit support in what could be a weaker economy going forward.

Because of much higher mortgage rates and still very high home prices, we have seen a sharply lower level of mortgage origination which in turn is leading to a much lower supply of RMBS new issues as shown in the below graphs. This has increasingly forced institutional investors to look to the secondary market for investment opportunities. This growing demand for more seasoned profiles like those held in the Fund is another source of price support and potential performance.

We believe that the Fund can continue to benefit from today's continuing value proposition across the RMBS and other structured credit sectors, supported by:

- Very high current yields with bonds still trading at a significant discount to par
- resilient strength in the residential housing sector where we have witnessed four consecutive months of price increases nationally after a relatively minor 4% correction over the previous year
- strength in mortgage fundamental credit trends with delinquencies remaining near record lows
- favourable bond and structured credit market technical characterized by stronger demand and very limited new supply, especially in the RMBS sector.

Resilience

The 'R' word, namely a global recession led by the US, and when, and if it arrives, continues to dominate the market narrative. Against the backdrop of the fastest and most dramatic rise in US interest rates of any cycle since 1980, many had forecasted another annus horribilis for risk assets in 2023. Yet major headline equity indices continued to melt up in the second quarter, whilst credit markets remain remarkably well behaved thus far. What gives?

Sentiment was lifted by a (convoluted) resolution to the US debt ceiling debacle and subsiding fears regarding the health and outlook for the US regional banking sector following the Silicon Valley Bank (SVB) implosion in March, but the remarkable resilience displayed by the economy and a strong dose of Artificial Intelligence (AI) hype were the chief protagonists in powering equities higher over the period.

Bulging wallets

Simply put, consumer wallets, still bulging from the extraordinary monetary and fiscal policies introduced in response to the COVID enforced lockdown, have had the effect of elongating the current economic cycle, with a slew of recent economic data releases forcing analysts to push out 'imminent' recessionary forecasts to the second half of 2023, sometime in 2024, or beyond.

Growth in personal consumption expenditures registered 20-year highs (excluding the post-COVID rebound), new home sales advanced in May to the fastest pace in over a year (staggering given the magnitude of the rise in headline mortgages rates), weekly new claims for jobless insurance showed the largest drop since September 2021 and consumer confidence rose to 18-month highs. Finally, a sharp upward revision was made to the 1st quarter GDP figure to +2% annualised growth.

The consequent shift in views over an 'impending recession' can be illustrated using summer survey results from 400 fund managers recently conducted by Jim Reid and the team at Deutsche Bank Research. Those projecting a 2024 recession 'arrival' have more than doubled from the March 2023 survey responses to 48%.

The link from the economy to risk assets is via the impact on company earnings. Recessions are inevitably accompanied by a sharp deterioration in profits. Here too, a similar narrative has played out. Mirroring the call on the economy, many investors have been expecting profits to fall significantly this year, yet have been surprised by a durable corporate America, particularly within consumer and technology sectors. That has shaken confidence in the bearish narrative as asset allocators have been forced to reassess outlooks.

AI hype

Mega cap stocks have once again dominated the headline performance of the U.S. equity markets. The second quarter has been fuelled in part by vastly superior earnings results relative to consensus expectations, mostly by frenzied excitement around generative artificial intelligence (AI) technologies such as Chat GPT.

Chat GPT's almost low-key release late last year triggered a wave of predictions about how disruptive, and transformative, the new generative artificial intelligence technology will be. Goldman Sachs believes AI could supercharge U.S labour productivity growth by 1.5% per annum over the next decade, whilst boosting corporate profit margins by 400 basis points.

Identifying companies that will eventually emerge victorious from AI is not altogether clear. However, as Mark Twain is alluded to have famously uttered, 'during the gold rush it's a good time to be in the pick and shovel businesses. AI runs on computer processing power and data, so investors en masse have aligned themselves with themes most likely to benefit including specialist chipmakers, as well as companies that have access to large amounts of computing power, cloud storage, and data.

The outcome has been significant divergence in share price performance between winners and losers as the big continue to get bigger, ostensibly on the basis that any new generation AI companies will be bought by existing players with balance sheet firepower. Outside of technology and consumer related sectors, companies found the going tough. Real estate, utilities, consumer staples, materials, and energy sectors were all flat-to-down, led by broad rotation from defensive, value orientated stocks into growth.

At portfolio level it was those assets creating, powering or actively utilising AI that drove the most performance in the first half of the year. The biggest gainer was NVIDIA, which climbed 190% as the worldwide market leader in visual computing technologies including its GPUs. NVIDIA has been at the forefront of the latest technological trends by being the best in class with its offerings. There has been a rapid adoption of NVIDIA's products for gaming, bitcoin mining and now AI which includes the advancement of robotics, autonomous driving, deep learning algorithms and super computers.

Our second top performing asset for the first half of 2023 was Salesforce. Benefiting from a robust demand environment as the world undergoes major digital transformation, Salesforce price appreciated ~60%. Coupled with continued global growth of its offerings and the acquisition of Slack, Salesforce is the largest CRM vendor in the world with a market share of ~20% according to global research firm Gartner.

During the second quarter we introduced Adobe. The first half of the year was strong for the digital software giant as it introduced Sensei, its AI model offering AI based creativity technology including generative art. Adobe has also benefited from solid earnings results which saw its Creative Cloud, Document Cloud and Adobe Experience Cloud products drive top line growth. The introduction of its AI capabilities could see an influx of hobbyists subscribing to its products, continuing its growth trajectory and market share of creative digital media sector.

At the other end of the spectrum, some of the Fund's worst performing stocks included Pfizer and AbbVie. Pfizer, which has seen its stock price decline 28% in the first half of the year is expected to see a decline in its top line due to the potentially rapid decline in revenues from its COVID-19 vaccines, Comirnaty vaccine and Paxlovid oral pill, on lower demand. Pfizer remains to have a well-diversified portfolio of innovative drugs and vaccines, and along with its large cash position remains well positioned for future growth and performance.

AbbVie, whilst underperforming its peer group in the first of the year, has a positive outlook in our view. With several new drugs in its inventory to drive growth, Skyrizi and Rinvoq have established outstanding launch trajectories. Persistence inflation could continue to limit AbbVie's revenues, especially in its aesthetics market as consumers slowdown on purchasing "luxury" and non-essential items due to price increases across the economy.

Investment Manager's Report

Third Avenue Real Estate Value Fund

Market Review

We are pleased to provide you with the Third Avenue Real Estate Value Fund's (the "Fund") report for the quarter ended June 30, 2023. For the first half of the calendar year, the Fund generated a return of +7.57% (after fees) versus +1.57% (before fees) for the Fund's most relevant benchmark, the FTSE EPRA NAREIT Developed Index.

Some of the primary contributors to performance during the period included the Fund's investments in leading U.S.-based homebuilders (Lennar Corp. and D.R. Horton) and U.S.-based real estate services firms (CBRE Group and JLL). Notwithstanding, this performance was modestly offset by detractors during the period, which primarily related to the Fund's investments in certain international real estate enterprises (CK Asset Holdings and Wharf Holdings Ltd.) and US-based real estate operating companies (U-Haul Holdings and Trinity Place Holdings). Further details on these investments, overall portfolio positioning, and the Fund's recent additions to Sun Communities Inc. and JLL are included herein.

Despite positive performance so far this year, Fund Management maintains the view that the Strategy's long-term results are a more relevant scorecard given Third Avenue's primary focus: compounding capital at above-average rates over longer periods of time. To that end, the Strategy has generated an annualized return of +8.26% (after fees) since its inception nearly twenty-five years ago. As a result, this performance indicates that an initial investment of $100,000 in the Strategy would have a market value in excess of $695,000 (assuming distributions had been reinvested), or more than the same $100,000 would be worth had it been placed into a passive mutual fund tracking the Strategy's aforementioned benchmark (as well as the S&P 500) over the same time period.

VALUE OF $100,000 SINCE SEPTEMBER 1998

As of June 30, 2023

Hypothetical Investment since September 30, 1998 (Fund Inception Date Sept.17, 1998). Past performance does not guarantee future performance results. This chart is a representation of the Third Avenue Real Estate Value Fund (Institutional Class) which is a U.S. registered mutual fund and represents the fund with the longest track record of the strategy. The track record has been adjusted to reflect the fees and expenses of the UCITS Fund class A4 (Institutional Class) shares through inception date March 31, 2009. The highest class A1 fees and expenses were deducted from performance for time periods prior to the UCITS Fund inception date.

ACTIVITY

In May 2023, the investment and philanthropic community lost a true maverick with the passing of Samuel Zell ("Sam"). Widely regarded as the premier real estate investor of the past 50 years, Sam not only served as a trailblazer for the modern-day Real Estate Investment Trust ("REIT") market, but he was also enormously successful in other industries, a champion for continued education, as well as an independent thinker with an unforgettable sense of flair.

Fund Management had the pleasure of meeting with Sam over the years, primarily alongside his frequent visits with Third Avenue's late founder Marty Whitman and periodic participation in the firm's Value Conference. Throughout those invaluable interactions, it was clear that Sam had an unmatched ability to quickly breakdown investment opportunities into key supply and demand drivers, while always weighing the price paid for an asset relative to its replacement cost as a proxy for return potential and stressing the value of "liquidity". He also had a keen desire to "keep things simple", even once suggesting that if an investment summary couldn't fit on one page, it was "too complicated" for him.

As many can attest, Sam didn't hold back many opinions either, including his view that most types of commercial real estate were more commodity-like in nature or "trading sardines" as he expressively referred to them in his notorious essay Modern Sardine Management (first published in the Spring/Summer edition of the 1986 Real Estate Issues). That said, Zell's close followers likely recognize distinctive pockets of real estate that he regarded as an exception and held for the "long haul"—including the "land lease" sector, which is largely comprised of Manufactured Housing ("MH") and Recreational Vehicle ("RV") communities.

While not necessarily a "core" allocation for most property investors, these niche property types principally lease land sites (and power access) to MH and RV owners and have historically offered very resilient revenue streams due to three primary factors. One, demand has largely held steady for professionally managed locations given an affordable price point at roughly $600 per month, on average. Two, supply has been incredibly limited with industry estimates of less than 0.2% of new additions per year, relative to other property types in the 2-4% range historically. And three, capital expenditures are more limited without meaningful investment in buildings and low levels of tenant turnover (e.g., MH residents stay for 15 years on average).

With such dynamics, sector-leaders Equity Lifestyle Properties (in which Zell owned a significant stake and served as Chairman for nearly 20 years) and Sun Communities have proven capable of keeping occupancy rates above 95.0% over the past 10 years, on average, and have increased revenues (on a per site basis) by more than 6.0% per year during that same time period, also on average—most of which has dropped to the "bottom line" given the limited reinvestment required. As a result, both companies have been amongst the leaders in the real estate industry in terms of cash flow growth (on a per share basis) and total shareholder return over the past decade—and therefore hardly ever "get cheap" per se. That said, the Fund had the opportunity to initiate a position in the common stock of Sun Communities during the quarter, as its recent divergence created a rare price-to-value disconnect in Fund Management's opinion.

Founded by the Shiffman family in the mid 1970's, Sun Communities Inc. ("Sun") has been publicly-traded since 1993, and meaningfully expanded its platform over the past 40 years. In fact, Sun is now the largest single owner of Manufactured Housing and Recreational Vehicle communities in North America, with more than 500 properties comprised of nearly 150,000 leasable sites, and a particular focus on the Sunbelt and Midwest regions of the U.S. The company is also the largest owner of marinas in the U.S. with 135 locations and nearly 50,000 slips, as well as investments in the MH and RV space internationally, primarily through its wholly-owned subsidiary Park Holidays in the U.K. and 10% stake in separately listed Ingenia Communities in Australia (also held in the Fund).

Notwithstanding this valuable portfolio and a conservative capital structure (Sun's loan-to-value ratio is less than 30%), the company's common stock has underperformed this year. As far as Fund Management can infer, this stems from an increase in borrowing and insurance costs but is largely due to the overhang of Sun's rapid acquisition activity in recent years (i.e., Ingenia Communities stake, Safe Harbor Marinas, Park Holidays UK, et al). When pieced together, these investments have accounted for approximately $3.5 billion of outlays without a significant cash flow uplift in return (per share) when factoring in much-more elevated levels of corporate overhead and a lack of synergies across segments. Moreover, these capital allocation decisions have increased the company's exposure to international markets, as well as more volatile revenue streams relative to its traditional MH and RV businesses. Consequently, the company's shares have "de-rated" and now trade at a sizable discount relative to Equity Lifestyle, as well as a conservative estimate of Net-Asset Value ("NAV"), or private-market value, in our view.

It is therefore conceivable that Sun's aligned control group (which includes long-time CEO Gary Shiffman who owns a significant amount of stock) gets "back to basics" and refocuses the company on the core MH and RV communities in the quarters ahead. While not all encompassing, such a path could involve:

- (i) the removal of "targeted acquisition levels" from executive compensation plans;
- (ii) launching efforts to realize cost efficiencies across the expanded platform;
- (iii) divesting certain international holdings when capital markets stabilize; and
- (iv) assessing the strategic positioning of its exceptional marina business in anticipation of further industry consolidation.

In Fund Management's view, each of these actions would likely contribute to an improved cost of capital on a standalone basis (e.g., an enhanced multiple), but likely have the most significant impact if undertaken in combination.

GemCap Investment Funds (Ireland) Plc

Such a path (and outcome) would also be similar to the Fund's experience with other previously held real estate enterprises that expanded internationally but ultimately elected to refocus on their core business and markets (e.g., Dexus Property Trust, Wereldhave NV, Taylor Wimpey, Westfield Group, et al). However, in this case, the Fund's preference would be to maintain exposure to these unique MH, RV, and marina assets for the long-term (similar to Zell's)—particularly with the "mark-to-market" opportunity in marinas and the "higher-and-better-use" potential in the RV and MH segments over time.

The Fund also increased its position in the common stock of Jones Lang LaSalle Incorporated ("JLL") during the quarter. As outlined in greater detail within the previous shareholder letter, JLL is a U.S.-based Real Estate Services firm with leading positions in leasing, capital markets, property management, investment management, and "prop tech" services throughout an unrivaled global network (the company has a presence in more than 80 countries across five continents).

While not widely held in other Real Estate funds, Real Estate Services firms have been a critical component of the commercial property markets for centuries, acting as a "toll booth" on activity by advising property owners and occupiers on leasing, financing, and investment sales transactions. However, the traditional Real Estate Services model (centered on cyclical leasing and sales activities) now largely incorporates segments with significant recurring revenues and more defensive characteristics including in JLL's case:

- (i) a facilities management business with approximately 3.0 billion square feet of properties under management,
- (ii) an investment management business with more than $80 billion of asset under management,
- (iii) a loan servicing portfolio of more than $130 billion, and
- (iv) the leading debt advisory business globally.

Therefore, it is Fund Management's view that these more durable revenue streams (and other streamlining efforts) will allow JLL to remain profitable, even in the face of its higher-margin leasing and transaction advisory segments remaining under pressure. Should this materialize, JLL would not only preserve its existing capital base, but return to (if not surpass) previous levels of profitability when real estate capital markets stabilize.

With the addition to JLL during the period, the Fund now has approximately 11% of its capital invested in Real Estate Services firms after factoring in CBRE Group and Savills plc. In total, these three businesses offer a unique exposure in listed real estate as they nearly act as an oligopoly on essential services and inevitable transactions in key regions. They also seem well-positioned within the overall industry dynamic. Put otherwise, each of these well-financed businesses seems likely to gain market share within their existing segments (likely at the expense of certain large and less credit-worthy participants), as well as capitalize on other secular trends and ancillary opportunities longer-term (e.g., outsourcing, sustainability, "flex" offerings, et al) a framework that is not dissimilar from the insurance brokerage or title insurance industries post "financial crisis" in Fund Management's opinion.

The Fund's other activity during the period was modest in nature and included slight reductions to certain holdings for portfolio management purposes (Lennar Corp., D.R. Horton, Prologis, and InvenTrust Properties). The Fund also exited its position in the Unsecured Debt of Diversified Healthcare Trust in the quarter.

Positioning

After incorporating this activity, the Fund had approximately 43% of its capital invested in Residential Real Estate companies with strong ties to the U.S. and U.K. residential markets where there remain supply deficits after years of underbuilding. In conjunction with near record-low inventory levels, there also remains significant demand for new products at affordable price points (both for-sale and for-rent). Therefore, these Fund holdings seem positioned to benefit from a multi-year recovery in residential construction and ancillary activities, as further outlined in the Fund Commentary section herein. At the end of the quarter, these holdings included a diversified set of businesses including homebuilding (Lennar Group and DR Horton), timberland ownership and management (Weyerhaeuser and Rayonier), planned development (Berkeley Group and Five Point Holdings), the ownership and development of rental properties (AMH, Grainger plc, Ingenia Communities, and Sun Communities), as well as other ancillary businesses (Lowe's and Trinity Place Holdings).

The Fund also had 30% of its capital invested in Commercial Real Estate enterprises that are involved with very select segments of the property markets. For instance, these holdings are primarily capitalizing on secular trends, including structural changes driving more demand for industrial properties, self-storage facilities, and last-mile fulfilment (Prologis, U-Haul, Segro plc, First Industrial, InvenTrust, Big Yellow, and National Storage) as well as the further densification and improvements taking place in select urban corridors (CK Asset Holdings and Wharf Holdings). In Fund Management’s view, each of these enterprises is very well-capitalized, their securities trade at discounts to private-market values, and they seem capable of further increasing NAV—primarily by increasing rents, undertaking development activities, and by making opportunistic acquisitions.

An additional 21% of the Fund’s capital is invested in Real Estate Services. As referenced above, these businesses are generally less capital-intensive than direct property ownership and consequently have offered much higher returns on capital over the course of a cycle—provided they have favorable positioning within their respective segments. At the present time, these holdings include franchises involved with brokerage and property management (CBRE Group, Savills plc, and JLL), investment management (Brookfield Corp. and Brookfield Asset Management), as well as mortgage and title insurance (FNF Group and the GSEs).

The remaining 6% of the Fund’s capital is in Cash, Debt & Options. These holdings include U.S.-dollar based cash and equivalents, short-term Treasuries, hedges relating to certain foreign currency exposures (Hong Kong Dollar), and an investment in the Senior Unsecured Notes of Five Point Holdings.

The Fund’s allocations across these various business types are outlined in the chart below, along with the exposure by geography (North America, Europe, and Asia-Pacific). In addition, the discount to Net-Asset Value (“NAV”) for the Fund’s holdings, when viewed in the aggregate, narrowed to approximately 19.9% at the end of the quarter by Fund Management’s estimates.

Fund Commentary

In a quarter when most market participants were focused on “artificial intelligence,” many residential real estate professionals were concentrating on the “annual intelligence” provided in The State of the Nation’s Housing Report—a highly-regarded assessment of the U.S. residential markets published by the Joint Center for Housing Studies (“JCHS”) of Harvard University each year.

Truth be told, Fund Management is not aware of another publication that serves as a better starting point for assessing the fundamental backdrop of the U.S. housing markets. The report also advances the discussion around some of the key challenges in housing, including the existing supply deficit and potential ramifications of the more recent “refinancing wave.” For instance, the JCHS team observes in the 2023 Report that

- (i) “According to the Housing Vacancy Survey, homeowner vacancy rates remained at 0.8 percent in the first quarter of 2023, tied for the lowest reading since data became available in the mid-1950’s and under 1.0 percent for the ninth consecutive quarter” (chart below) and
- (ii) per the FHFA National Mortgage Database, “nearly two-thirds of outstanding residential mortgages carry an interest rate of less than 4 percent, including one-quarter of mortgages with interest rates below 3 percent—significantly lower than the 6-7 percent average on a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage in early 2023.”

RECORD LOW LEVELS OF INVENTORY

Source: U.S. Census Bureau, Bloomberg.

Notwithstanding, JCHS reaches the conclusion that “rising mortgage costs have pushed homeownership out of reach for millions of renters at a time when large numbers of millennial households are at prime homebuying ages” and that “builders will struggle to expand home production significantly” as a result. While such a view is widely held, Fund Management tends to agree with Jude Wanninski, who asserts in his ever-important book The Way the World Works that “supply is defined as being demand.” Put otherwise, the private market economy will generally adjust production to meet demand absent any significant changes in regulation or taxes (i.e., the “wedge”).

As a matter of fact, the largest U.S.-based homebuilders have utilized their underappreciated scale to reduce average selling prices, offer other incentives (e.g., “rate buydowns”), and incorporate single-family rental into their product mix. The results? Large builders have defied expectations and met demand by increasing sales volumes so far this year—including the Fund’s core holdings Lennar Corp. and D.R. Horton. Such industry dynamics have also started to manifest themselves in more widely-followed data with: (i) residential construction reported to have increased by more than 20% so far this year (as measured by single-family housing starts per the U.S. Census Bureau) and (ii) new home sales taking significant share in terms of overall purchase activity (chart below) given a lack of “competition” from existing homes with 40% less listings than 2019.

Absent a significant reset in treasury yields, similar market dynamics could very well persist in Fund Management’s view. This is especially the case when considering that:

- (i) demand (as measured by the size of the U.S. population that is entering its “prime homebuying years” of ages 35-49 years) is expected to increase throughout the rest of this decade with the next three years (2024-2026) representing the largest expansion (chart below) at the same time that
- (ii) “remote working” has seemingly become more entrenched in working patterns thus placing a more significant premium on larger living accommodations and the single-family format per the Federal Reserve Bank study Remote Working and Housing Demand,

MILLENNIALS ARE AGING INTO PRIME HOME BUYING YEARS

Projected Population Growth

Source: U.S. Census Bureau, AMH June 2023 Investor Presentation.

For these reasons, and others, Fund Management remains constructive on the fundamental backdrop for U.S. housing, particularly the market dynamics supporting single-family construction, repair and remodel (“R&R”) spending, and niche rental platforms. Therefore, the Third Avenue Real Estate Value Fund is likely to maintain its significant (and unique) allocation to these distinct segments of global real estate—with one caveat. That is, the Fund will limit its investments to enterprises that are well-capitalized with securities available at prices that seem modest relative to conservative (and durable) estimates of Net-Asset Value. While such an approach may lead the Fund to forego certain opportunities amid this important moment for the residential markets, it is Fund Management’s opinion that such a practice will assist in guarding against any unexpected “wedges” in the years ahead.

Market Review

Equity markets defied expectations in the first half of the year. Taking the S&P 500 as a proxy, the index notched up double-digit returns, even as inflation remained elevated and the Fed continued its fastest rate-hiking campaign since the 1980s. The big picture masks some nuances, as mega-cap technology stocks, after suffering through 2022, have carried index returns. It is worth highlighting just how disproportionate the impact of a small number of companies has become. Just seven stocks; namely Apple, Microsoft, Amazon, Alphabet (Google), Nvidia, Meta (Facebook) and Tesla, have grown to represent c.30% of the S&P 500 and c.63% of the Nasdaq. Together, these market giants have accounted for the vast majority of year-to-date returns, and the majority are now members of the 'US trillion dollar (market cap) club'. The gains these equities have enjoyed have come at the expense of other areas of the market, since moving the share price of trillion-dollar businesses requires an enormous amount of capital.

As the chart below demonstrates – notwithstanding a handful of emerging markets which have bounced after huge prior declines – most asset classes across the spectrum saw little or no gains, or even declined, in Q2. The exception here is Japan, which attracted significant foreign investor flows.

Total return of major global financial assets in Q2 2023 (local currency)

Source: Bloomberg

* EM local returns are USD unhedged

In sterling terms, MSCI Europe ex-UK was down 0.1%, the FTSE 100 fell 0.4%, and the global MSCI Emerging Market index lost 2.0%. Looking at fixed income, the Bloomberg Global Aggregate bond index declined 4.2%, with investment grade bonds trading sideways, while EM local bonds and global high yield delivered small gains. The mild winter in Europe, a muted 'reopening' in China, and easing global supply chains combined for weakness across the commodity complex, with gold also moving lower on the quarter.

Returning to the outlier markets in the US, the seven dominant stocks have rallied on the back of the 'AI-fever' sweeping investor consciousness, driven almost entirely by multiple expansion. Nvidia – which supplies the high-powered chips AI requires – has led the way, now up 190% for 2023 and trading with the kind of valuation metrics rarely seen since the dotcom bubble, at c.40x sales, c.200x trailing 12 months earnings, etc. While the potential productivity gains and transformational impact of AI is hard to put a ceiling on, these kinds of multiples are already pricing in an extremely optimistic outcome.

Staying with the dotcom comparison, this chart illustrates the incredibly narrow nature of the recent rally in US equities – even more so than in the build-up to the peak of the TMT bubble – with fewer than 30% of S&P 500 stocks beating the index in the March to May period. Equally noteworthy is how dramatically this dynamic reversed in June, with the market action significantly broadening into the close of H1.

Rotation has ended the very narrow market move

Source: BCA Research 2023

The world is changing at geopolitical, macroeconomic and societal levels at a rate we have not seen before. Change has been ever-present throughout history; however, technological advancements are amplifying this significantly. We believe the most sensible approach to managing assets currently is to combine prudent participation with thoughtful diversification.

Fund Performance

The fund was down circa -2.6% for the first half of 2023 (since launch January 9th). While this was a challenging period, especially in terms of performance versus headline equity indices, we would urge patience. Sustainable mandates have faced substantial headwinds over the last 6 months, with ‘green stocks’ – using the iShares Global Clean Energy ETF as a proxy – underperforming the S&P 500 by over 20%, for example.

We have talked above about the surge in AI-related mega-cap stocks, and how this has effectively drained capital from most other areas of financial markets, including stocks tied to the global energy transition. Many such areas now trade cheaply, relative to the broader market and to their history, despite highly supportive fundamentals. Leaning into this, we added to our clean energy exposure in June via Polar Capital Smart Energy.

A further hindrance for sustainable equities in H1 was around the IRS codifying the Inflation Reduction Act (green infrastructure investment incentives) into tax law, which has taken longer than initially expected. However, as this process reaches completion – over the coming months, depending on sector – we believe this should provide positive catalysts, in the form of favourable company capex announcements and earnings guidance upgrades.

Strongest contributors in H1 included Polar Capital Smart Mobility and Vontobel Clean Technology, while key detractors included Lombard Odier TerreNeuve and Schroder Global Cities Real Estate. Lombard Odier TerreNeuve struggled amidst highly challenging dynamics for market neutral long/short equity managers, following an excellent 2022.

Looking forward, with valuations of 'green stocks' having reset to more attractive levels over the last two years, and with tangible, structural tailwinds (both imperative and financial) underpinning the space, we see an attractive opportunity set for our equity managers. The fund also maintains substantial exposure to high quality fixed income, delivering mid-single digit yields with low risk, also via active managers.

Encouragingly, as market performance began to broaden in recent weeks, we have seen this strategy respond well to the changing landscape, and we remain confident in the long-term prospects for the fund.

The active Sub-Funds have the following investment objectives:

Atlantic House Defined Returns Fund - The investment objective is to generate capital growth over the medium to longer term.

Atlantic House US Enhanced Equity Fund - The investment objective is to generate capital growth over the medium to longer term.

Atlantic House Total Return Fund - The investment objective is to generate positive returns in most market conditions over any given three-year period.

Atlantic House Uncorrelated Strategies Fund - The investment objective is to generate capital growth over the medium to longer term.

Atlantic House Global Defined Returns Fund - The investment objective is to generate capital growth over the medium to longer term.

Calamos Global Convertible Fund - The investment objective is to achieve high long-term total return through capital appreciation and current income.

Calamos Global Growth and Income Fund - The investment objective of the Fund is total return through capital appreciation and current income

Causeway Defined Growth Fund – The investment objective is to generate capital growth over the medium to longer term.

GSI Global Sustainable Value Fund - The investment objective is to achieve long-term total return.

GSI Global Sustainable Focused Value Fund - The investment objective is to achieve long-term total return.

Innovative Portfolios Preferred Income Fund – The investment objective is to seek to provide income and capital appreciation.

London & Capital Global Bond Fund - The investment objective is to seek to provide absolute growth through investments in a full range of global fixed income securities including government bonds and corporate bonds with the aim of producing balanced investment returns with a relatively low level of volatility (below 8% over a business cycle).

London & Capital Global Growth Fund - The investment objective is to seek to provide growth through investments in a full range of global equity, fixed income instruments and collective investment schemes.

London & Capital Global Credit Opportunities Fund - The investment objective is to seek to provide absolute growth through investments in a full range of global growth fixed income securities including, higher yielding corporate bonds with the aim of producing investment returns with a relatively high level of volatility (below 10% over a business cycle). It is envisaged that an important source of potential rise in the Sub-Fund's Net Asset Value will be through capital appreciation of the Sub-Fund, on top of the income stream generated by the coupons (or annual interest) on the bonds. "Absolute" in this context refers to the strategies' ability to use financial derivative instruments to protect the capital value of the Sub-Fund during periods of high market volatility.

2. PRINCIPAL ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The principal accounting policies adopted by the Company are as follows:

Statement of Compliance

The condensed financial statements have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (“IFRS”) and interpretations as adopted by the European Union (the “EU”).

The condensed financial statements are prepared on a going concern basis.

Basis of Preparation

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with the Companies Act 2014 and International Financial Reporting Standards (“IFRS”) as adopted by the European Union (the “EU”).

Accounting convention

The financial statements are prepared on a going concern basis and under the historical cost convention except for the inclusion of financial assets and liabilities at fair value.

Significant accounting policies

The same accounting policies, presentation and methods of computation are followed in these condensed financial statements as were applied in the preparation of the Company’s financial statements for the financial year ended 31st December 2022.

GemCap Investment Funds (Ireland) Plc

Accounting estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with IFRS requires management to make judgements, estimates and assumptions that effect the application of policies and the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, income and expense.

The estimates and associated assumptions are based on historical experience and various other factors that are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances, the results of which form the basis of making judgements about the carrying values of assets and liabilities that are not readily apparent from other sources. Actual results may differ from these estimates.

The estimates and underlying assumptions are reviewed on an ongoing basis. Revisions to accounting estimates are recognised in the period in which the estimate is revised if the revision affects only that period or in the period of the revision and future years if the revision affects both current and future years. There were no significant estimates used in measuring the fair value of investments at the financial period end date of 30th June 2023 and 31st December 2022.

Offsetting financial assets and liabilities

Financial assets and liabilities are offset and the net amount reported in the Statement of Financial Position when there is a legally enforceable right to set-off the recognised amounts (which are not contingent on a future event), and there is an intention to settle on a net basis, or realise the asset and settle the liability simultaneously.

New standards, amendments and interpretations effective after 1st January 2023

There were no new standards, amendments to standards or interpretations effective from 1st January 2023 that have a material impact on the financial statements.

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include cash in hand, deposits held at call with banks and bank overdrafts. Cash balances held as collateral is held in relation to the derivatives contracts held by the Company for investment transactions that have not settled at the date of the financial statements and the amount of cash required by the brokers to hold as collateral for trading. All cash balances are accounted for in the Statement of Financial Position. For further details of Cash and cash equivalents please refer to Note 4.

Foreign Currencies

Securities transactions are recorded in the financial statements on the trade date of the transaction and translated into the functional currency of the Sub-Fund at the exchange rate prevailing at the close of business on the trade date. Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into the functional currency of the Sub-Fund at the exchange rates ruling at the financial period end date. Non-monetary foreign currency denominated assets and liabilities that are carried at fair value are translated into the functional currency of the Sub-Fund at the date the fair values are determined. Foreign exchange differences arising on translation and realised gains and losses from trading activities are recognised through profit or loss in the Statement of Comprehensive Income for the financial period.

Items included in the Company's financial statements are measured using the primary economic environment in which the respective Sub-Fund operates ("the functional currency"). The presentational currency of the Company is United States Dollar. If indicators of the primary economic environment are mixed, then management uses its judgement to determine the functional currency that most faithfully represents the economic effects of the underlying transactions, events and conditions.

The functional currencies of the active Sub-Funds as at 30th June 2023 and 31st December 2022 are as follows:

3. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS AT FAIR VALUE THROUGH PROFIT OR LOSS

When available, the Company measures the fair value of an instrument using quoted prices in an active market for that instrument. A market is regarded as active if quoted prices are readily and regularly available and represent actual and regularly occurring market transactions on an arm's length basis. These instruments are included within level 1 of the fair value hierarchy and include bonds admitted and actively traded on an official stock exchange listing.

Bonds, other than those listed and actively traded on an official stock exchange, are valued by independent pricing services based on pricing models that evaluate the mean between the most recently quoted bid and ask price. The models also take into consideration data received from active market makers and broker-dealers, yield curves, and the spread over comparable bond issues. The spreads change daily in response to market conditions and are generally obtained from the new issue market and broker dealer sources. To the extent that these inputs are observable, the values of these bonds are categorised within level 2 of the fair value hierarchy.

The fair values of forward foreign currency exchange contracts are calculated by reference to current exchange rates for contracts with similar maturity and risk profiles.

The determination of fair value for financial assets and liabilities for which there is no observable market price requires valuation techniques. IFRS establishes a fair value hierarchy for inputs used in measuring fair value that maximises the use of observable inputs and minimises the use of unobservable inputs by requiring that the most observable inputs be used when available. Observable inputs are those that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability based on market data obtained from sources independent of the Company. Unobservable inputs reflect the Company management's assumptions, made in good faith, about the inputs market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability developed based on the best information available in the circumstances. These include investments which are valued using cost price, stale price or a price which is more than a week prior to the valuation date.

The fair value hierarchy is categorised into three levels based on the inputs as follows:

Level 1 - Valuations based on quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities;

Level 2 - Valuations based on quoted prices in markets that are not active or for which all significant inputs are observable, either directly (as prices) or indirectly (derived from prices); and

Level 3 - Valuations based on inputs that are unobservable and significant to the overall fair value measurement.

Inputs are used in applying the various valuation techniques and broadly refer to the assumptions that market participants use to make valuation decisions, including assumptions about risk. Inputs may include price information, volatility statistics, specific and broad credit data, liquidity statistics, and other factors. A financial instrument's level within the fair value hierarchy is based on the lowest level of any input that is significant to the fair value measurement. However, the determination of what constitutes "observable" requires significant judgement by the Company.

The Company considers observable data to be that market data which is readily available, regularly distributed or updated, reliable and verifiable, not proprietary, and provided by independent sources that are actively involved in the relevant market. The categorisation of a financial instrument within the hierarchy is based upon the pricing transparency of the instrument and does not necessarily correspond to the Company's perceived risk of that instrument.

3. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS AT FAIR VALUE THROUGH PROFIT OR LOSS (Continued)

Fair value is a market-based measure considered from the perspective of a market participant rather than an entity-specific measure. Therefore, even when market assumptions are not readily available, the Company's assumptions are set to reflect those that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability at the measurement date. The Company uses prices and inputs that are current as of the measurement date, including periods of market dislocation. In periods of market dislocation, the observability of prices and inputs may be reduced for many securities. This condition could cause a security to be reclassified to a lower level within the fair value hierarchy.

The following tables present information about the Company's financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value on a recurring basis as of 30th June 2023 and 31st December 2022:

The "Investment Manager capped fees" reimbursement for the financial period ended 30th June 2023 amounted to $121,977 (2022: $23,448), with an amount receivable from the Investment Manager at 30th June 2023 of $21,092 (31st December 2022: $43,473).

Affinity Sustainable Growth Fund*

APW Investors Ltd is paid a fee from the Company monthly in arrears at the rate of 0.50% per annum of the Net Asset Value of Class I Shares of the Sub-Fund, at the rate of 0.25% per annum of the Net Asset Value of Class S Shares of the Sub-Fund.

The Investment Manager may waive or rebate all or part of its investment management fee to the shareholders of a Class, it being acknowledged that such waiver or rebate, if any, may differ between shareholders in different classes and that the Investment Manager will have ultimate discretion in this matter.

Reasonable out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Investment Manager in the performance of its duties will be reimbursed by the Company as may be approved from time to time by the Directors.

Investment Management fees charged for the financial period ended 30th June 2023 amounted to £33,247, with fees payable at 30th June 2023 amounting to £33,247.

The "Investment Manager capped fees" reimbursement for the financial period ended 30th June 2023 amounted to £37,993, with an amount receivable from the Investment Manager of £20,621.

*Launched on 9th January 2023.

 The term "Investment Manager capped fees" refers to a cap on the Fund's total annual operating costs which are charged to the NAV each year. Such a cap may be imposed in respect of a Fund by the Company at the discretion of the Directors, or may be applied voluntarily by the Investment Manager.

Sub-Investment Management Fees

Causeway Defined Growth Fund

Atlantic House Investments Limited is paid a fee from the Company monthly in arrears at a variable rate per annum dependent on the sum of the Net Asset Value of all Share Classes. The rate will be equal to 0.40% per annum on the first EUR 50,000,000 and 0.30% per annum thereafter.

Reasonable out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Sub-Investment Manager in the performance of its duties will be reimbursed by the Company as may be approved from time to time by the Directors.

Sub-Investment Management Fees charged for the financial period ended 30th June 2023 amounted to $44,891 (2022: $49,270), with fees payable at 30th June 2023 amounting to $7,619 (31st December 2022: $14,163).

Management Fees

The Manager shall be entitled to receive out of the assets of each Sub-Fund a fee up to 0.10% per annum of the Net Asset Value of the Sub-Fund payable monthly in arrears subject up to a minimum annual fee of €75,000. The Manager will also be entitled to be reimbursed out of the assets of the Sub-Fund for all reasonable, vouched out-of-pocket expenses incurred by it on behalf of the Sub-Fund.

Management fees charged for the financial period ended 30th June 2023 amounted to $1,363,306 (2022: $1,149,147), with fees payable at 30th June 2023 amounting to $236,935 (31st December 2022: $184,236).

Distributor Fees

Each Sub-Fund or Class (if applicable) may bear the fees and expenses of the Global Distributor and any Distributor appointed in respect of a Sub-Fund or a Class (if applicable). Such Distributor fees and expenses will be at normal commercial rates together with VAT, if any thereon.

Performance Fee

Atlantic House Uncorrelated Strategies Fund

The Investment Manager will where applicable be entitled to charge a performance fee related to the performance of Shares in the Fund at the rate and calculated in accordance with the descriptions and definitions set out below.

Definitions:

High Water Mark

The High Water Mark (HWM) is the Net Asset Value per share of the Share Class as at the end of the last Performance Period in respect of which a Performance Fee was paid (or if no Performance Fee has yet been paid, the initial Subscription Price in the Share Class at the end of the initial offer period).

Crystallise / Crystallisation

The point at which any performance fee becomes payable to the Investment Manager, even if it is paid out at a later date. Crystallisation will occur either at the end of a Financial Year or on the Dealing Day when a Shareholder redeems or switches all or part of his Shareholding.

GemCap Investment Funds (Ireland) Plc

6. FEES AND EXPENSES (Continued)

Financial Year

This is the annual accounting period of the Company in relation to the Fund.

Net Asset Value

The Net Asset Value of a particular Share Class in the Fund after all regularly accruing charges and expenses (including for the avoidance of doubt, the performance fee) have been accrued to the Share Class.

Hurdle

This is the higher of (i) zero and ii) the sum of the interest rate and a spread of 4% per annum, against which the performance of the relevant Share Class is measured for the purpose of calculating the performance fee. The interest rate referred to is the overnight Federal Funds Rate in respect of the Share Classes denominated in US Dollar and the unhedged Share Classes, the overnight SONIA Interest Rate Benchmark in respect the hedged Shares Classes denominated in Great Britain Pounds, the EMMI Euro Overnight Index Average (now known as ECB Euro Short Term Rate) in respect of the hedged Share Classes denominated in Euro and the Swiss Average Rate Overnight Index in respect of the hedged Share Classes denominated in Swiss Francs (which is adjusted at the end of each day to reflect any changes in the rate on that day) and is solely used for performance fee calculation purposes and should therefore under no circumstances be considered as indicative of a specific investment style but is consistent with the Fund's Investment Policy.

Net Asset Value per Unit Class Return

This is calculated on each Valuation Day as the difference between the NAV per unit and that of the NAV per unit on the previous Valuation Day for the particular units. Dividend distributions paid out shall not be deemed to impact the performance of the particular units.

Performance

The growth of both income and capital for a particular Unit Class.

Performance Fee Percentage Rate

The performance fee percentage rate is 20% for the Class A Shares and the Class I Shares.

The performance fee percentage rate is 15% for the Class X Shares and the Class Z Shares.

Performance Period

The first Performance Period will be the period commencing on the Business Day immediately following the close of the Initial Offer Period and ending on 31 December in the following year in which the Share Class launched (e.g. if a share class has an Initial Offer Period closing on 1 October 2022, the first Performance Period would run until 31 December 2023). Subsequent Performance periods shall be calculated in respect of each period of twelve months ending on the 31 December.

Accrual basis

The performance fee is calculated and shall accrue in the Net Asset Value on each Dealing Day. The entitlement to a performance fee accrues when the Net Asset Value per Share outperforms the hurdle, subject to the Net Asset Value per Share being greater than the HWM and the HWM adjusted to ensure new subscriptions do not artificially inflate the performance fee payable and to take account of the hurdle on the relevant Dealing Day ("Outperformance").

GemCap Investment Funds (Ireland) Plc

Where the Net Asset Value per Share decreases below the hurdle, no performance fee will be accrued until such a decrease or underperformance has been made good in the course of any Performance Period, for the avoidance of doubt, no performance fee will be accrued if the Net Asset Value is not above the HWM (and the HMW as adjusted). Regarding the first Performance Period, the Net Asset Value per Share used for calculating any Outperformance is the initial Subscription Price per Share. If a performance fee is payable at the end of a Performance Period in relation to a Class of Shares then the Net Asset Value per Share on that date shall be the basis for calculating the Outperformance for the following Performance Period.

The cumulative performance fee accruals from the beginning of the Performance Period will be included in the ongoing calculation of the Net Asset Value.

Calculation Method

The performance fee that accrues is calculated by applying the Performance Fee Percentage Rate to the Outperformance per Share and multiplied by the number of Shares on the Dealing Day.

The performance fee will be deducted from income (which may include net realised and net unrealised gains and losses). The Investment Manager also reserves the right to deduct from capital and any such deduction would be notified to Shareholders in the next published report and accounts of the Fund.

Crystallisation

Crystallisation of the performance fee occurs on the last day of each Performance Period. Any performance fee due is payable out of the Fund to the Investment Manager in arrears within two months of the end of the Performance Period.

If a Shareholder redeems or converts all or part of his Shares before the end of the Performance Period, any accrued performance fee with respect to such redeemed Shares will crystallise on that Dealing Day and will then become payable to the Investment Manager. The HWM is not reset on those Dealing Days at which performance fees crystallise following a redemption of Shares.

The Investment Manager will also be entitled to be reimbursed out of the assets of the Fund for all reasonable, vouched out-of-pocket expenses incurred by it on behalf of the Fund.

Performance fees charged for the financial period ended 30th June 2023 amounted to $10,589 (2022: $Nil), with fees payable at 30th June 2023 amounting to $44,363 (31st December 2022: $33,773).

Formation and Organisation Costs

The costs of forming the Company including the fees and expenses of legal advisers, product development fees and expenses, regulatory and listing fees and expenses and any other fees and expenses arising on the formation and launch of the Company have been expensed by the Company. In the event that new Sub-Funds are created within the Company, the formation and organisation costs relating to each new Sub-Fund, as determined by the Directors, will be charged to the new Sub-Fund and amortised over a year of five financial years in the NAV calculations. However in accordance with IFRS these costs will be written off as charged in the financial statements.

Formation and Organisation Costs charged for the financial period ended 30th June 2023 were £6,695 on Affinity Sustainable Growth Fund.

11. NAV RECONCILIATION

The net asset value in the financial statements as at 30th June 2023 differs from that included in the published valuations as at 30th June 2023. The difference is due to the change in methodology in accounting for organisation costs as prescribed by IFRS, and the methodology indicated in the most recent Prospectus. This does not have any effect on the published or dealing Net Asset Values of any of the Sub-Funds and all amounts are immaterial in nature. The above mentioned NAVs are the reported NAVs.

12. DIVIDEND POLICY

For Atlantic House Defined Returns Fund, the Class A Shares, Class B Shares and Class B (Hedged) Shares are accumulating Classes and therefore, it is not currently intended for the Company to declare and distribute dividends to the Shareholders in each Class. Any income and earnings and gains on these Classes will be accumulated and reinvested on behalf of shareholders.

The Class I Shares are intended to be a distributing Class and as such the Company may, at its discretion, declare dividends on the Class I Shares in the Sub-Fund quarterly as at May 4, August 4, November 4 and February 4 and/or at such other periodic intervals as shall be determined by the Company, and notified to Shareholders at that time. Class I Distribution 4% Shares will distribute a quarterly dividend equal to 1% of the Sub-Fund's Net Asset Value and Class I Distribution 5% Shares will distribute a quarterly dividend equal to 1.25% of the Sub-Fund's Net Asset Value. Such distributions made from the Class I Shares may be declared out of the capital of the Sub-Fund. Such distributions, when declared, will be paid by electronic transfer within two months thereafter.

For TEAM International Equity Fund, the Shares designated as Distribution Shares, dividends will, at the sole discretion of the Company, be paid biannually within five business days of the last business day in March and September (and/or at such other periodic intervals as shall be determined by the Company, and notified to Shareholders at that time). Dividends may be paid out of net income together with the net realised and unrealised capital gains (net of realised and unrealised losses) of the Sub-Fund.

Shares designated as Accumulation Shares, are accumulating share classes and therefore it is not currently intended for the Company to declare and distribute dividends to the Shareholders in these share classes. Any income and earnings and gains on these share classes will be accumulated and reinvested on behalf of Shareholders.

For Third Avenue Real Estate Value Fund the Company may, at its discretion, declare dividends on Class D1, Class D2, Class D3, Class D4 and Class D5 Shares in the Sub-Fund annually. These dividends will be paid within 30 days of the date of that declaration. Dividends will be paid by telegraphic transfer or bank transfer unless Shareholders specifically request that dividends be re-invested by subscription for additional Shares of the same Class. Additional Shares will be issued to Shareholders on the same day if it is a Dealing Day, or if not, on the next Dealing Day at a price calculated in the same way as for other issues of the relevant Class on this date but without incurring any subscription fee. There is no minimum of such further Shares which may be so subscribed. Class A1 Shares, Class A2 Shares (GBP Institutional), Class A3 Shares, Class A4 Shares (USD Institutional) and Class A5 Shares (Euro Institutional) are accumulation shares and therefore carry no right to any dividend. The net income attributable to the Shares shall be retained within the Sub-Fund and the value of the Shares will rise accordingly.

For Affinity Sustainable Growth Fund, it is not intended that dividends be declared and distributed in the Accumulating Shares. Any income and earnings and gains on these Classes will be accumulated and reinvested on behalf of Shareholders. The Directors intend to declare a dividend in respect of the Classes which are identified as Distributing Classes. All of the Sub-Fund's income and capital gains will be reinvested in accordance with the investment objectives and investment policies of the Sub-Fund except in respect of the distributing Classes. The Directors intend to declare a dividend annually in or around November or December in respect of Distributing Classes of the Sub-Fund. Dividends for the distributing Classes may, at the sole discretion of the Directors, be paid from the Sub-Fund's net income. Dividends will be automatically reinvested in additional Shares of the same Class of the Sub-Fund unless the Shareholder has specifically elected on the Application Form or subsequently notified the Administrator in writing of its requirement to be paid in cash sufficiently in advance of the declaration of the next dividend payment. Cash payments will be made by telegraphic transfer to the account of the Shareholder specified in the Application Form or, in the case of joint holders, to the name of the first Shareholder appearing on the register, within one month of their declaration and in any event within four months of the year end.

Russia/Ukraine Conflict

With the assistance of the Company's third party reporting provider “RiskSystem” the Company was able to identify if any of the Sub-Funds have exposure to Russia/Ukraine or Belarus. RiskSystem have also been compiling and integrating on a daily basis the updated lists of sanctions applied by the global regulatory authorities and running them against the Company's portfolios to ascertain if any of the Sub-Funds are in scope. In conjunction to the work with RiskSystem, we have additional controls in place with our Administrator, CACEIS, to ensure the sanctions in place are adhered to across the breadth of our Sub-Funds. At the date of the approval of the financial statements, the Company has no exposure with regards to sanctions relating to Russia.

14. TAXATION

The Company will be regarded as resident for tax purposes in Ireland if it is centrally managed and controlled in Ireland. It is intended that the Directors of the Company will conduct the affairs of the Company in a manner that will allow for this.

The Directors have been advised that the Company is an investment undertaking within the meaning of Section 739B of the Taxes Consolidation Act (“TCA”) and therefore is not chargeable to Irish tax on its relevant income or relevant gains so long as the Company is resident for tax purposes in Ireland only. On this basis, under current Irish law and practice it should generally not be chargeable to Irish tax on its income and gains. However, Irish tax may still arise on occurrence of a “Chargeable Event” in respect of the Company.

Shareholders, other than Irish residents, who complete a declaration confirming that they are neither Irish residents nor ordinarily residents, will not be liable to Irish tax on income or gains arising to them from their investment in the Company and no tax will be deducted on distributions from the Company or payments by the Company in respect of a redemption or other disposal of their investment.

In the absence of an appropriate declaration, the Company will be liable to Irish tax on the occurrence of a chargeable event.

A chargeable event includes any distribution to shareholders or any redemption or transfer of shares. A chargeable event does not include:

- (i) any transactions in relation to shares held in a recognised clearing system as designated by order of the Revenue Commissioners of Ireland;
- (ii) an exchange of shares representing one Portfolio for another Portfolio of the Company;
- (iii) an exchange of shares arising on a qualifying amalgamation or reconstruction of the Company with another fund; or
- (iv) certain exchanges of shares between spouses and former spouses.

Capital gains, dividends and interest received may be subject to withholding taxes imposed by the country of origin and such taxes may not be recoverable by the Company or its shareholders.

16. COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENT LIABILITIES

At the financial period end date, the Company had no commitments and contingent liabilities.

17. SOFT COMMISSION ARRANGEMENTS

The Investment Manager may effect transactions through the agency of another person with whom the Investment Manager has an arrangement under which that party will, from time to time, provide or procure for the Investment Manager as research. Under such arrangements, no direct payment is made or required to be made for such services or benefits, but instead the Investment Manager undertakes to place business with that party. For the avoidance of doubt, such services do not include travel, accommodation, entertainment, general administrative goods or services, general office equipment or premises, membership fees, employees' salaries or direct money payments. In such case, the Investment Manager as the case may be, shall ensure that such arrangements shall assist in the provision of investment services to the relevant Sub-Fund and the broker/counterparty to the arrangement has agreed to provide best execution to the relevant Sub-Fund.

During the period ended 30th June 2023, only Calamos Advisors LLC have entered into such research arrangements with brokers in respect of which services used to support the investment decision process were received. During the year ended 31st December 2022, only Calamos Advisors LLC entered into such research arrangements.

18. SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

In October 2022, CACEIS and Royal Bank of Canada (RBC) announced they had signed a memorandum of understanding for the intended acquisition by CACEIS of the European asset servicing business of RBC. As part of this acquisition, CACEIS would acquire the entire issued share capital of RBC Investor Services Bank S.A. (IS Bank). Completion of the sale of IS Bank occurred 03 July 2023, following regulatory approval. As a result, RBC Investor Services Ireland Limited has become CACEIS Investor Services Ireland Limited and RBC Investor Services Bank S.A., Dublin Branch has become CACEIS Investor Services Bank S.A., Dublin Branch

On 6th July 2023, a revised supplement was noted by the Central Bank of Ireland for the Third Avenue Real Estate Value Fund, with the update being the removal of references to A5 (Euro Institutional Accumulation) Share Class following closure of such share class.

On 6th July 2023, the Second Addendum to the Prospectus was noted by the Central Bank of Ireland to reflect the change of registered address of the Company and the Manager, and the change of Company Secretary.
