5G Connectivity – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 22.37%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI All Country World Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index"), returned 13.93%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Markets were volatile given economic growth concerns, a regional banking crisis in the US, and continued geopolitical tensions
- A slower pace of rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve Bank led to general outperformance of Tech and Growth equity
- Mega cap growth stocks dominated and exuberance over artificial intelligence (AI) led to a rally in related exposures

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Security selection and an overweight versus the Index within Semiconductors
 - Security selection within Software, particularly in enterprise cloud and cybersecurity software
 - AI winners in high-performance semiconductors and high-speed networking
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Overweight to China versus the Index which was impacted by a slower than expected macro recovery and limited stimulus
 - Relative underweight versus the Index to mega cap tech stocks

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- Remained focused on leading-edge semiconductors and equipment given strategic investments by governments and enterprises, onshoring of supply chains, and structural trends in AI
- Solid outlook in industrial segments led us to increase exposure to enablers of industrial automation and providers of power management solutions
- Increased exposure to large cap tech, enterprise cloud software, and internet companies positioned for growth reacceleration
- Reduced exposure to China and companies with slower growth outlook

While the pace of rate hikes is slowing, macro uncertainty could persist. We thus continue to emphasise quality but are ready to capture tactical opportunities and position for cyclical growth. Volatility remains so we are keeping our focus on areas with strong earnings tailwinds and visibility while keeping valuation discipline. The 5G theme is strengthening as it has become a global priority and digitalisation of the economy is irreversible. We are positive on beneficiaries of the acceleration in AI and 5G take-up, a strategic semiconductor industry, and the proliferation of industrial Internet of Things ("IoT"). Being nimble is vital and we plan to take advantage of market dislocations to trade up for higher quality exposures where we see incremental positive outlook, better earnings power, and validation of our 5G investment thesis.

Asian Debt - Hard Currency – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 3.23%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the JPM Asia Hard Currency (Total Return, USD) (the "Index"), returned 2.92%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall market sentiment for Asia investment grade ("IG") credit was driven mainly by developments around inflation and monetary policy, particularly regarding US rates and their impact on high grade hard currency Asia credit markets. The key driver for Asia high yield ("HY") markets continued to be developments in the China High Yield property sector, where positive momentum at the start of the year faded towards the end of the reporting period.
- The property sector is still waiting for more concrete support after the 16-point measures announced last year by authorities.
- In frontier sovereign space, Sri Lankan authorities unveiled domestic debt restructuring plans. These plans hint at a more benign than expected restructuring for external creditors as well, which resulted in positive price movements in Sri Lanka USD denominated bonds.
- Asia IG spreads broadly tightened over the reporting period amidst resilient fundamentals for high grade issuers.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Asset allocation overall was positive, driven by overweights in Sri Lanka, India and South Korea, amongst others.
 - From a sector perspective, top contributors to relative return versus the Index were due to positioning in Sovereigns, Utilities and Industrials.
 - Regarding the above, key positioning highlights include the Portfolio's overweight stance to the Indian renewable energy sector, security selection in South Korea particularly within financials, as well as the Portfolio's overweight to Sri Lanka on the expectation of higher recovery values compared to current market prices.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - The Portfolio's overweight in the Transport sector detracted from relative performance, albeit to a narrow extent.
 - The Portfolio's underweight to the Oil & Gas sector detracted marginally from relative returns.
 - The Portfolio's underweight in short-dated IG China credits contributed to underperformance.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio increased allocation to Sri Lanka owing to higher recovery values compared to market pricing.
- The Portfolio increased allocation to Macau based on a constructive view for tourist visitation recovery and a clear deleveraging path.
- Elsewhere, the allocation to South Korea was also increased across selected financials and corporates including from primary issuance with attractive pricing.
- We reduced exposure in selective HY property developers as the price rebound appeared excessive on the back of policy rumours.

Half way through 2023, we believe that prospects for the asset class have turned more positive. With substantial monetary tightening behind us and inflation having likely peaked in both the US and in major Asian economies, pressures from rising rates should eventually abate and become a more two-sided risk going forward. In China, after the strong reopening bounce in the first quarter, sequential second quarter growth momentum has been sluggish. While default risks remain in Chinese HY credit due to renewed weakness in the property market, we anticipate Asian HY full year default rates to be lower in 2023 compared to 2022.

While re-opening momentum is softening in China, we do anticipate the official growth target of 5% to be met for 2023 and the broader China-related complex including Macau to likely benefit going forward.

We continue to hold Sri Lanka exposure after recent price upside and anticipate recovery values to be higher than current market prices. Elsewhere, we remain constructive on credit opportunities in particular across South and Southeast Asia including India given attractive fundamentals and valuations. In IG, valuations of Korean corporates and financials are attractive relative to their high rating. We are also constructive on financials as these benefit from resilient domestic economies, a supportive regulatory environment and accommodative central bank policy.

In our opinion, the key risks to our overall constructive view are either the unfolding of a deep global recession which would push emerging markets spreads materially wider, or an unexpected acceleration of inflation dynamics globally which could require substantially more rate hikes. While the potentially bumpy road to target inflation particularly in the US will likely take time and may cause further interest rate volatility, we believe valuations in Asian hard currency bonds are relatively attractive here in both absolute and relative terms compared to developed market credit.

China A-Share Equity – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return of the CNY I Accumulating Class was -3.85%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI China A Onshore Net Index (Total Return, CNY) (the "Index"), returned -0.12%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- China A shares edged lower on signs of a slowing economic recovery and a lack of meaningful government stimulus.
- Property-related activity growth and private sector investments also weakened.
- Communications Services, IT and Energy outperformed most, and Real Estate, Consumer Staples, and Health Care saw the sharpest declines.
- US-China tension, which had damaged investor sentiment, began to show signs of stabilisation given recent high-level meetings.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Stock selection in Materials, Health Care, and Consumer Staples
 - An underweight to lagging Materials and overweight to the top-performing Communications Services sector
 - After lagging most of the reporting period the Portfolio outperformed the Index during the last month
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Stock selection within Information Technology and Financials
 - An overweight to the weak Consumer Staples sector

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio remained focused on domestic growth via high-quality companies across the market-cap spectrum.
- Emphasis remained on companies we consider Quality Compounders; they have historically been consistent, reliable, high return equity names; and Secular Growth Beneficiaries, which are domestically oriented names that are benefiting from long-term trends and supportive policy.
- We made progress engaging management on ESG matters, with Governance providing greater clarity, and Environmental and Social, advantages versus peers.

Looking ahead, in our view, the macro concerns about the durability of China's post-COVID recovery and the lack of forceful stimulus that were at play this period are now priced in by the market. As such, we believe the China A-share market could rebound if the economy begins to stabilise, or more supportive policies are introduced. Moreover, valuations of some high quality names have become very attractive following recent declines, and we are also seeing improvements in many contact-intensive areas post the COVID shutdowns.

The Portfolio remains focused on domestically oriented businesses in areas poised for improvement either because of policy changes, rebounds in demand from low base levels, or longer-term secular growth. At the reporting period's close, we had an overweight to Consumer Staples, Consumer Discretionary, and Communications Services names, and an underweight to Materials, IT, and Energy.

The Portfolio will continue to be built around individual companies with solid fundamentals and attractive valuations, and we are identifying compelling medium- and longer-term attractive opportunities emerging across the investment universe.

China Bond – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the CNY I Distributing Class was 3.20%. Over the same period, the reference index, the FTSE Chinese Government and Policy Bank Bond 0-1 Year Select Index (the "Index"), returned 1.19%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- China markets had a fairly constructive start in 2023, with first quarter GDP recording 4.5% year over year growth. The new Premier Li Qiang reiterated the new government's vision (as laid out by President Xi during the 20th Party Congress in late 2022), focusing on high-quality growth and staying committed to structural reforms and reopening. Notably, he emphasised the importance of macro-economic stability, prevention of financial systemic risks as well as pledging further efforts towards private enterprises. The GDP target was unveiled at "around 5%".
- However, in the second quarter of 2023, we started to see the cyclical recovery in China losing steam, with noticeable easing in momentum in both manufacturing and services. The ailing property sector did not see a recovery. Credit impulse data showed a broad-based weakening trend in credit and sentiments remained poor. This caught the eyes of policymakers and led to a de facto deposit rate cut, orchestrated by the government. Subsequently, we saw a cut in the 7-day Reverse Repo Rate from 2% to 1.9%, 1-year medium-term lending facility ("MLF") rate from 2.75% to 2.65%, as well as a symmetrical cut in both the 1-year and 5-year Loan Prime Rate ("LPR"). Liquidity remained accommodative and Chinese Government Bond ("CGB") 10-year yield compressed towards 2022 lows, after a short spike towards 2.95% earlier in the year amid the reopening optimism.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Onshore credits were positive contributors as rates and credit spreads rallied across the board.
 - Offshore credits were positive contributors due to good yield differentials.
 - Rates positioning overall was positive, driven by tactical USD duration during the regional bank sell-off in March.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Our USD property holdings were among the main detractors.
 - Our onshore convertible bonds were among the main detractors.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The rally in onshore credit spreads YTD has caused us to be cautious from a valuations standpoint even as onshore investors are clamoring for yield. While we did not see any catalyst that could cause a material widening in credit spreads, the current uncertain global macro backdrop, and tight valuations, led us to keep our onshore credit spread duration low.
- Apart from the tight onshore credit spreads, the rates differentials between CNY and USD stayed significantly wide, this resulted in an attractive relative value proposition for Chinese USD credits.
- On the FX front, USDCNY had been rather rangebound in the first quarter, but convincingly broke out of the range in May on the back of the worsening economic outlook. We took advantage of the breakout of the range to add some active long USDCNH bets.

In our opinion, with substantial monetary tightening behind us and inflation having likely peaked in both the US and in major Asian economies, pressures from rising rates should abate and become a more two-sided risk going forward. In China, there have been recent headlines around debt servicing ability of Chinese Local Government Financing Vehicles ("LGFVs"). This has led to market participants worrying about the fiscal health of the local governments, which has arguably weakened given the declining land sales (a big part of their local government revenues) and the depressed economic activity over the lockdown period.

However, we think that the central government has both the willingness and the ability to adequately address the LGFV debt risks. In our view, we anticipate additional headlines on LGFVs going forward, and do not rule out the potential for more defaults.

China Equity – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was -9.70%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI China All Shares Net Total Return Index (the "Index"), returned -5.36%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Greater China equity markets remained volatile in the first half of 2023. At a high level, domestic growth conditions in China were improving although not necessarily at a pace anticipated by the market.
- During the National People's Congress in March, the government was also being intentionally conservative in setting a 5.0% growth target (versus consensus expectations of 5.5%) which was largely driven by its concerns around potential weaker external demand and its potential impact on exports.
- Collectively, year-to-date economic data and forward guidance by policymakers weighed on investor confidence.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Main contributors to performance relative to the Index included Consumer Staples (stock selection in beverages and food products), Real Estate (stock selection) and Industrials (stock selection in air freight & logistics).
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Main detractors from performance relative to the Index included Materials (stock selection in chemicals), Information Technology (stock selection in technology hardware storage & peripherals and electronic equipment instruments & components) and Communication Services (significant underweight).

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- We continued to identify high quality companies with good earnings visibility. Across the Portfolio's core holdings, most have been successful in capturing additional market share amidst the economic challenges in 2022, putting them in a better position to benefit from a prospective recovery that we anticipate later in 2023.
- At the end of the reporting period, the Portfolio's largest sector underweight relative to the Index was Communication Services (4.24% vs. 12.53%). The Portfolio's largest sector overweight relative to the Index was Materials (18.12% vs. 6.58%).

China's post-reopening growth has been uneven with strong recovery first taking place in sectors supported by countercyclical policy measures and pent-up demand. Specifically, consumption and services-related sectors have been holding up well although manufacturing capex and private sector confidence remained relatively weak. While market participants await for headline activity data to show that macroeconomic recovery is regaining momentum, management teams of our core holdings have indicated better visibility on improving earnings. Policymakers have also become much more pro-business and are anticipated to roll out more substantive policy easing measures to revive the confidence of business enterprises and consumers and support a broader consumption-led recovery. The step up in communication between key government officials from China and its counterparts and global business leaders has also been helpful for stabilizing geopolitical tensions and improving the business environment. Lastly, valuations remain attractive with the MSCI China All Shares trading at P/E of 9.8x and CSI 300 at 10.5x on a forward-looking basis, versus MSCI World at 16.5x and S&P 500 at 18.5x. As such, we remain constructive on the opportunity set in China.

CLO Income – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 8.31%. Over the same period, the ICE BofA US Dollar 3-Month Deposit Offered Rate Constant Maturity Index (Total Return, USD) (the "Index") returned 2.32%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- After exiting 2022 with higher quality Collateralised Loan Obligation ("CLO") BB debt spreads in the Secured Overnight Financing Rate ("SOFR")+850 context, CLO debt spreads tightened in January, as receding recession concerns and softening inflation indicators led to higher quality CLO BB debt spreads tightening to approximately SOFR+775 by late January, which helped further drive the CLO new issue market, as CLO managers sought to take advantage of tighter CLO liability spreads.
- This tightening in credit spreads that began the year was quickly reversed in February and March, as unexpectedly firm economic data drove increased investor speculation regarding the potential for additional interest rate increases, perhaps at an accelerated pace. These concerns were further exacerbated by regional banking failures and concerns in early-to-mid March, which pushed CLO BB debt spreads out beyond year-end 2022 levels into the SOFR+900 context in mid-March, before improved sentiment following US government assurances to stabilise the banking sector led to significant tightening into late March and early April with CLO BB spreads generally stabilising through May in the SOFR+800 to +825 area.
- In June, CLO BB spreads tightened as various economic data continued to point toward a bias to a slowing pace of rate hikes, with loans also increasing in price by approximately 1.5 points over the course of the month and approaching year-to-date highs for loan trading levels. At June month-end, CLO BB debt spreads in the secondary market were in the SOFR+775 context.
- As of 30 June 2023, the trailing 12 month par weighted default rate for loans was 1.71%, down 246 basis points from the peak of 4.17% in September 2020. Year to date, new issue volumes have declined by 34% versus last year's issuance pace. Despite what we viewed to be a more challenged equity arbitrage environment in the year-to-date reporting period, the CLO primary market has been active as managers have taken advantage of somewhat tighter CLO liability spreads.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to total returns:
 - Security selection within USD CLO mezzanine debt market
 - Allocation to EUR single B CLO debt
- Detractors to total returns:
 - Allocation to USD high yield market

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- While we have gradually increased exposure to European CLOs during the reporting period, the Portfolio's underlying credit exposure remains primarily to US credit with approximately 75% of CLO holdings in US CLO debt.
- During the reporting period, we took advantage of the CLO debt rally in June to reduce exposure to a number of more seasoned CLOs.

Despite macro concerns, we continue to be fundamentally confident in the significant structural protection provided against credit losses in the underlying loan portfolios. CLO structures in general, and CLO's rated BB in particular, have showed themselves once again to be very robust in the face of a significant recession in 2020. Our focus on investing in the highest quality underlying loan portfolios, we believe, will lead to continued outperformance versus the overall CLO market going forward.

Commodities – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was -7.23%. Over the same period, the Bloomberg Commodity Index (the "Index") returned -7.79%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Markets advanced in the first half of the year, supported by resilient job growth, easing inflation, and excitement around the long-term earnings growth potential offered by advancements in artificial intelligence.
- The US Federal Reserve Board (the "Fed") and other institutions stepped in to stabilise markets amid banking turmoil in the wake of rapid rate hikes, and the Fed paused rate hikes for the first time in June.
- The S&P 500 Index and the Bloomberg US Aggregate Bond Index rose 16.89% and 2.09%, respectively. The Index fell 7.79% as the Consumer Price Index (CPI) eased to 3.0% year-over-year with shelter costs remaining the largest contributor to elevated prices.
- Within commodities, palladium and natural gas were the worst-performing, while cocoa and sugar prices rose year-to-date.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

The precious metals, soft commodities and livestock sectors moved higher, while energy, industrial metals, and agricultural commodities were lower during the reporting period.

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - The Portfolio's underweight in natural gas within the Energy commodities sector, which helped avoid a significant portion of the -50% decline in natural gas during the first half.
 - Gold's positive performance contribution as the dollar weakened and investors fled to safety amid a banking crisis in the first quarter.
 - The Portfolio's underweight position in silver within the Precious Metals sector, which contributed positively to the sector's performance.
 - The Portfolio's positioning in Soft commodities, which benefited both in absolute and relative terms during the quarter. This was driven by gains from an out-of-benchmark position in cocoa and an underweight position in coffee.
 - The Portfolio's gains from an out-of-benchmark position in feeder cattle within the Livestock sector.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - The Portfolio's overweight position in the Industrial Metals sector, which resulted in underperformance relative to the benchmark, despite relative gains from underweights in copper being offset by an overweight in zinc.
 - Negative performance from out-of-benchmark positions in palladium and platinum within the Precious Metals sector, which offset the positive contribution from gold and silver.
 - Overweight position in Agricultural commodities, which led to a decrease in performance both in absolute and relative terms. The Portfolio underperformed the Index due to losses from an overweight in corn, which offset gains from an underweight in wheat.
 - Losses from the Portfolio's contract selection of further out contracts within the Livestock sector, which rallied less than the rapidly increasing nearby spot month contracts held by the Index.
 - The Portfolio's overweight position in cotton within the Soft commodities sector, which offset gains from an out-of-benchmark position in cocoa and an underweight position in coffee.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

Investing in 2023 has been unpredictable with resilient labor markets and economic growth despite aggressive monetary policies. The rest of the year is likely to see unexpected outcomes, with potential scenarios ranging from a shallow recession to a globally synchronised rebound. Given what we consider current recession-level prices, our outlook is positive.

On the macro and demand side, the Fed's monetary tightening may soon end, relieving pressures on commodities. The Fed's actions may have reached their limit, leading to a decrease in lending and exposing systemic fragilities in banks and real estate. As investor risk appetite returns, a no-recession outcome could benefit commodities, where recession pricing is the harshest, with comparatively smaller boosts for equities and fixed income.

From a supply perspective, OPEC+ production cuts and limited response from shale producers help limit downside risk. In the metals sector, tight inventories could lead to upside potential, while government mandates for greener practices through bills like the US's Inflation Reduction Act and Europe's Net-Zero Investment Act are boosting surprisingly high demand, which upside risk should China provide stimulus.

In summary, there is a growing consensus that the long-awaited recession in developed markets may not necessarily occur, or if it does, it might be a very shallow one. This shift in consensus could be highly beneficial for commodity markets, especially as a hedge against what can happen in stocks and bonds. Commodities were the weapon of choice to combat recession risks – in contrast, the yields of government bonds were slightly lower, benefitting from increased slowdown concerns, while stocks were not impacted at all, as investors were reluctant to sell generally upwards trending assets, especially during a restarting tech boom. Now, if recession risks recede, rates can increase, resulting in losses for bonds. Rate-sensitive tech stocks may take a significant hit due to their sensitivity to yield changes. However, commodities could experience a considerable comeback as investors acknowledge the reality of physical scarcity and increasing demand in a non-recessionary environment.

We recommend staying hedged and buying protection for such rate and inflation risks when the protection is cheap.

Corporate Hybrid Bond – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 1.99%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the ICE BofA Global Hybrid Non-Financial 5% Constrained Custom Index (Total Return, Hedged, Euro), (the "Index") returned 2.73%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall market risk-off sentiment was driven by problems in the US regional banks, as well as Credit Suisse in the first quarter, followed by a renewed focus on inflation in the second quarter.
- For Corporate Hybrids, the asset class continued to be impacted by the Real Estate sector and whether or not those issues will call or extend their upcoming bonds.
- Despite this backdrop, the first half of the year was busy in terms of primary activity. We have had EUR12.3bn issuance YTD – equivalent to the whole of last year. Call and replacement activity continues to be prevalent, even amongst higher risk lower quality issuers.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative and absolute total returns:
 - Positive security selection across Utilities; in particular EDF, National Grid and Centrica
 - Positive security selection across Telecommunications; particularly Vodafone, Rogers and Telia
 - Positive security selection across Healthcare; particularly Bayer
- Detractors from relative and absolute total returns:
 - Cash-drag; holding cash in a rising market has been costly
 - Negative security selection from our Real Estate exposure; in particular Aroundtown and Heimstaden

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- We remained defensive on high quality, high coupon credits with barriers to entry and stakeholder support, i.e. Utilities and Telecommunications.
- We have recently reduced our cyclical exposure – sold down part of our exposure in Volkswagen and Solvay. We believe that we were not getting compensated for taking exposure to cyclicals. The opportunities today sit in defensive names in the Telecommunications and Utilities sectors. Thus, we have added to our exposure in BT, Vodafone, Stedin, and Vattenfall.
- The Portfolio's largest holdings are regulated utilities, large telecoms, integrated energy giants and large blue-chip industrials with strong market leadership and significant pricing power.

We believe investors are getting overly compensated for the hybrid optionality. Excluding real estate hybrids, the average sub-senior spread is currently around 210 basis points ("bps"), up from approximately 127 bps at the tightest back in 2021 (around 150 bps average). We would expect some additional compression of the sub-senior differential over the medium term. The weighted average portfolio price currently sits in the mid-eighties with time to the first call date at just over three years; therefore, we anticipate capital appreciation to represent an important source of portfolio returns as our holdings benefit from a gradual pull-to-par in the coming months. Moreover, the Portfolio benefits from an attractive income level of close to four percent, and we intend to further boost the return profile through security selection, active participation in the primary market, and through some degree of market timing.

Emerging Market Debt - Hard Currency – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 4.98%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the JPM EMBI Global Diversified Index (Total Return, USD), returned 4.09%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall market sentiment was driven by developments around inflation and monetary policy. China's reopening was a supportive theme while defaulted names continued to make progress towards a restructuring agreement with official and private creditors.
- US Treasury 10-year yields ended the period at 3.85%, roughly flat since the start of the year, however, saw significant volatility, the level of which was last seen in the 2008 financial crisis.
- Emerging markets ("EM") benchmark spreads tightened to 432bps from 452bps, with a peak of 510bps in March. El Salvador was the best performer with 57.84% return as its fiscal outlook improved. The worst performer was Ecuador with -21.74% as it faced heightened political volatility.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Country allocation overall, with overweights to high yield credits such as Sri Lanka, El Salvador, Argentina, and Zambia
 - Security selection was a net contributor
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Overweights to higher yielding Ecuador and Egypt, which faced idiosyncratic political and financing challenges, and absence from higher yielding Pakistan.
 - Top-down positioning was a net detractor

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio maintained a high yield bias over investment grade credits. We added to our overweight allocations in Colombia, El Salvador, Ivory Coast, Serbia, and Zambia, where we see resilience to tighter global funding conditions.
- We reduced our overweight allocation to Ecuador and went underweight in Iraq on rising political and financial risks.
- Allocation to EUR-denominated bonds and corporate bonds was 17.7% and 12.6%, respectively, at the end of the reporting period.

We anticipate a positive environment for EM debt for the rest of the year, built on improved technicals, stable fundamentals and reasonably attractive valuations, coupled with the coming end to aggressive monetary policy in the US. Chinese growth impacts across EM should be modest and uneven, but ultimately net positive. We anticipate default rates for sovereigns to decline to the low single digits in 2023, while increasing IMF engagement by different EM countries should support funding needs and reform agendas. The key risks to our constructive view are either the unfolding of a deep global recession which would push EM risk premia materially higher, or an unexpected acceleration of inflation dynamics globally which would require substantially more rate hikes.

Emerging Market Debt - Local Currency – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 8.97%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the JPMorgan GBI Emerging Markets Global Diversified Index (Total Return, Unhedged, USD), returned 7.79%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall market sentiment was primarily driven by developments around inflation and monetary policy, with signs of a peak in interest rates and disinflation across various emerging countries supporting local bond returns over the period.
- Emerging markets ("EM") currencies strengthened versus the USD on average, with high carry currencies such as Colombian peso, Mexican peso and Hungarian forint leading the way and posting double digit returns.
- Meanwhile, the Turkish local market was the main laggard, mainly driven by a sharp depreciation of the Turkish Lira amid mounting external imbalances, low real rates and high inflation, followed by Egypt which devalued its currency in January.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Rates positioning overall was positive, driven by the duration overweights across the Portfolio such as in Colombia, Hungary and Indonesia, and holdings in Argentina sovereign credit.
 - Rates positioning in Turkey was also positive to underweight duration and holding inflation-linked bonds rather than nominal bonds.
 - FX allocation added value through underweights in Turkish lira, Egyptian pound, as well as by overweights in Latin America including the Uruguayan peso, Mexican peso and Brazilian real.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - The overweight in Israel duration was among the main detractors in rates positioning
 - In currencies, the overweight in South African rand was the main detractor, followed by an underweight in Polish zloty.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio reduced some EM FX risk following the recent rally but maintains a modest overweight position, primarily in currencies with high carry such as Colombian peso, Brazilian real and Hungarian forint.
- On the rates side, the Portfolio maintains an overweight duration as signs of disinflation are strengthening and hiking cycles have peaked across different EM countries. Key duration overweights include Brazil, Mexico, Czech Republic, Indonesia, South Korea, Israel and South Africa.
- We have duration underweights in a few low yielding countries where we see limited upside such as China and Thailand, as well as in Poland. We also maintain an underweight duration and FX in Turkey where we see scope for further downside as policymakers seek to address external imbalances and inflation pressures.

We anticipate a positive environment for the asset class for the rest of the year, built on improved technicals, stable fundamentals, reasonably attractive valuations across various rates and currency markets, coupled with the coming end to aggressive monetary policy in the US. Questions remain around China's stalled recovery, but we believe the country's 5% growth target remains achievable, even if only targeted and measured stimulus is deployed, as signaled by recent monetary policy easing. Chinese growth impacts across emerging markets should be modest and uneven, but ultimately net positive. Importantly, the process of disinflation is now accelerating in most emerging economies, with easing cycles within view following long monetary pauses at elevated interest rate levels, which should support currencies and local bonds. The key risks to our constructive view are either the unfolding of a deep global recession which would push EM risk premia materially higher, or an unexpected acceleration of inflation dynamics globally which would require substantially more rate hikes.

Emerging Market Debt Blend – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 6.09%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, a blend comprising of 50% weighting to JPMorgan GBI Emerging Markets Global Diversified Index (Total Return, Unhedged, USD), 25% weighting to JPMorgan EMBI Global Diversified Index (Total Return, USD), and 25% weighting to JPMorgan CEMBI Diversified Index (Total Return, USD) returned 5.74%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall market sentiment was driven by developments around inflation and monetary policy, with signs of peaking interest rates and disinflation across various emerging countries supporting local bond returns over the period. China's reopening was a supportive theme while defaulted names continued to make progress towards a restructuring agreement with official and private creditors.
- US Treasury 10-year yields ended the reporting period at 3.85%, roughly flat since the start of the year, however, saw significant volatility, the level of which was last seen in the 2008 financial crisis. Emerging markets ("EM") benchmark spreads tightened to 432bps from 452bps, with a peak of 510bps in March.
- EM currencies strengthened versus the USD on average, with high carry currencies leading the way and some posting double digit returns.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns :
 - Local currency positioning across rates and FX, notably in Turkey, Colombia and Egypt.
 - Hard Currency country allocation overall, with overweights to high yield credits such as Sri Lanka, El Salvador, Argentina, and Zambia.
- Detractors from relative total returns :
 - Asset allocation detracted due to the average underweight to local currency which outperformed. The exposure to CDX, which we hold as a defensive hedge and the overweight interest rate duration position in the overlay also detracted.
 - Corporates security selection in Brazilian industrials and Chinese real estate

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio tactically moved the allocation across the sleeves throughout the period to manage the risk profile and take advantage of the volatility in the markets. We ended the period with a neutral exposure to hard currency and an underweight to the local currency and corporate sleeves. We ended the period with an overweight developed market interest rate duration position.
- Within the local currency sleeve, the Portfolio reduced EM FX risk relative to the start of the year, but maintains a modest overweight position, primarily in currencies with high carry. On the rates side, the Portfolio maintains an overweight. We have duration underweights in a few low yielding countries where we see limited upside.
- The Portfolio maintained a high yield bias over investment grade credits within the hard currency sleeve.
- In the corporate space, the Portfolio increased exposure to financials as well as Oil & Gas companies. We reduced exposure to the consumer and transport sectors relative to the beginning of the year as the reemergence of tourism following COVID restrictions faded across EM.

We anticipate a positive environment for EM debt for the rest of the year, built on improved technicals, stable fundamentals and reasonably attractive valuations, coupled with the coming end to aggressive monetary policy in the US. Chinese growth impacts across EM should be modest and uneven, but ultimately net positive. We anticipate default rates for sovereigns to decline to the low single digits in 2023, while increasing IMF engagement by different EM countries should support funding needs and reform agendas. The key risks to our constructive view are either the unfolding of a deep global recession which would push EM risk premia materially higher, or an unexpected acceleration of inflation dynamics globally which would require substantially more rate hikes.

 - Local currency positioning across rates and FX, notably in Colombia, Mexico and Hungary.
 - Hard Currency country allocation with overweights to Romania and underweights to Saudi Arabia (for ESG reasons) and Qatar. Security selection in Peru, Panama, and Indonesia.
 - Security selection in Peru, Panama and Indonesia.

 - Asset allocation detracted due to the average underweight to local currency which outperformed. The overweight developed market ("DM") interest rate duration position in the overlay.
 - Top-down positioning in the hard currency sleeve.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio tactically moved the allocation across the sleeves throughout the period to manage the risk profile and take advantage of the volatility in the markets. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Emerging Markets ("EM") equities advanced this period, but lagged the developed markets, weighing an improving outlook for US interest rates with a slower-than-anticipated Chinese recovery.
- By sector, Information Technology ("IT"), Energy and Communications Services outperformed the average. Health Care, Utilities, and Real Estate declined most.
- Individually, Greece, Hungary, and Mexico posted the largest gains, and Turkey, Malaysia, and Thailand posted the largest losses.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Stock selection within Health Care, IT, and Real Estate
 - Sector positioning including an overweight to IT, and underweight to Utilities
 - Holdings based in Taiwan, UAE, and South Africa
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Stock selection within Consumer Discretionary, Financials, and Materials
 - Overweights in Consumer Staples and Health Care
 - Holdings based in China, off-benchmark EM-linked miners domiciled the UK, and Mexico

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- A result of bottom-up stock selection, the Portfolio closed the reporting period overweight in IT, Consumer Staples, and Health Care, and underweight in Consumer Discretionary, Utilities and Materials.
- Largest country overweights at period close included off-benchmark Hong Kong (linked to China), EM-linked miners domiciled in the UK, and India. China, Saudi Arabia and Taiwan were the key underweights.

While the team anticipated a bumpy economic recovery in China, the extent of investor pessimism recently has been unexpected, leaving select securities at very attractive levels. The team acknowledges ongoing US-China government policy tussles are a negative, but believes the nations have the opportunity to put "guard rails" on their relationship, as seen during recent US diplomatic trips to China. With this evolving backdrop, the team continues to adapt its Chinese exposures based on company earnings and changes in individual stock convictions while keeping an eye on policy.

Elsewhere, the period's late rally in Brazil supports the team's belief that disinflation across EM may help generate positive returns in individual markets for the next several quarters. This could also help interest rate-sensitive areas of the Portfolio such as Financials, where the Portfolio is overweight banks. Elsewhere, while the team believes artificial intelligence hype may be getting ahead of itself, the team has identified other niche opportunities across a variety of IT segments, which helped build back an overweight to that sector, at the expense of previously larger overweight in Consumer Staples. The team remains underweight more cyclical segments such as metals and mining.

These positioning decisions mean the Portfolio is poised to benefit from idiosyncratic opportunities, rather than a cyclical uplift, which feels appropriate given slower global growth.

Euro Bond Absolute Return – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 1.52%. Over the same period, the ICE BofA 0-1 Year AAA Euro Government Index (Total Return, EUR) (the "Index") returned 0.79%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- High volatility in bond yields followed the rapid rise in key European Central Bank ("ECB") interest rates. The ECB's tone was hawkish because there was no clear evidence that underlying inflation had peaked. Moreover, the economy held up well amidst the banking system turmoil. Such hawkish ECB policy led to a yield curve inversion. The German 2-year government bond yield rose significantly by 45 bps while the German 10-year government bond yield eased slightly by -17 bps. The market feared the Central Bank had overreacted to the inflation jump.
- Inflation prints for the eurozone drove ECB policy and market moves. The headline inflation rate fell significantly from 9.2% in December 2022 to 5.5 % in June in the wake of a fall in energy prices followed by food inflation. However, the core inflation rate, which excludes energy and food, rose slightly during the period from 5.2% in December 2022 to 5.4 % in June 2023, with the service component still rising.
- Nevertheless, economic activity was in mild recession from the fourth quarter of 2022 into the first quarter of 2023. German GDP growth for the first quarter of 2023 was down to -0.3% quarter on quarter ("qoq") following a contraction in the fourth quarter of 2022. Private consumption contracted significantly by -1.2% qoq but capital investment rebounded by 3.9% qoq. Government spending fell by -4.9% due to less state financed COVID measures. Net exports added to GDP growth when imports contracted by -0.9%. But services activity remained at a very robust level while Manufacturing fell sharply reaching 43.4 in June, a very low level. Good GDP growth for southern Europe coupled with the view that the peak rate hike cycle had been reached led to strong performance of the peripheral government debts as well as the credit bond market.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Our long exposure to credit and especially to the banking sector and to the low rated issuers ("high yield" segment)
 - Long swap spreads via IRS and proxy swaps
 - Long Iberia countries and Eastern European countries
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Credit exposure hedge with iTraxx Crossover
 - Steepeners of rates curve (mainly the difference in the 30 -year US Treasury yield and the 5-year US Treasury yield, or 5s30s)

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- We increased the duration exposure in the second quarter as we anticipated the ECB key rate to peak soon, especially in light of banking system tensions. We bought mainly 5-year maturities while we reduced exposure to very long maturities.
- We reduced our credit exposure as a precaution against a protracted recession. After the regional bank crisis, we reallocated from the industry to banking sector. In addition, at the end of period, we bought an iTraxx Crossover protection to reinforce our long credit exposure hedge.

Going forward, our aim is to decrease portfolio beta, following strong spread rally in European credit in the first half of 2023, to have a lighter spread duration if spreads were to widen in the next few months. We do believe that ECB monetary policy transmission is working and could have an impact on credit spreads sooner or later. The impact will be higher for HY and subordinated bonds. We think that core inflation is close to the peak and favor a long duration bias for maturities higher than 3 years via receiving interest rates swaps.

Euro Opportunistic Bond – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 3.21%. Over the same period, the Bloomberg Euro Aggregate Index (Total Return, Hedged, EUR) (the "Index") returned 2.25%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Good GDP growth for southern Europe coupled with the view that the peak rate hike cycle had been reached led to strong performance of the peripheral government debts as well as the credit bond market.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- The relative outperformance of the Portfolio versus the Index came from long exposure to credit bonds, through our overweight exposure to the banking sector and to the low rated issuers ("high yield" segment).
- Long swap spreads via interest rate and proxy swaps versus governments were among performance contributors.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- Slight long duration exposure since we anticipate the peak in the ECB key rate, in light of banking system tensions. We bought mainly 5-year maturities while we increased our underweight position in very long maturities.
- We reduced our credit overweight to acknowledge the risk of a protracted recession. After the regional banking crisis, we reallocated from industry to the banking sector. In addition, at the end of period, we bought an ITRAXX Crossover protection to reinforce our long credit exposure hedge which detracted from performance.

Over the upcoming months, the bond market should focus on how fast inflation will fall and how low it will fall, which will be influenced by the outcome of wage negotiations. Economic recession risk is still there due to weakness in consumer spending: the likelihood of a low growth era has increased in a context of still high energy prices, credit spread widening, yield surge and persistent war in Ukraine.

The ECB is committed to raising rates until there is a meaningful fall in core inflation, reinforcing the risks of hiking too much. Such a scenario could limit the rise in real yields which would be supportive of the bond market. In conclusion, inflation falling back to its usual level is a question of time, as we believe euro rates have already seen their peak.

European High Yield Bond – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 4.78%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the ICE BofA European Currency Non-Financial High Yield 3% Constrained Index (Total Return, EUR) (the "Index"), returned 4.38%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The European high yield bond market finished the reporting period with solid returns, mostly driven by more resilient than expected economic data and earnings results from most issuers. This was despite bouts of volatility from concerns over higher inflation, more hawkish central banks, the mini banking crisis and a rising recession risk in the first half of the year.
- From a macroeconomic perspective, we anticipate below-trend levels of growth, exacerbated by tightening conditions in the banking sector, to leave the risk of recession in Western economies at uncomfortably high levels. That said, in light of the relatively robust way in which corporates and consumers have adjusted to the challenges thrown at them over the past 18 months, a move towards a severe recessionary environment is not our base case. In lieu of this, and looking at current valuations, particularly the material running yield on offer in the European High Yield space, we are cautiously constructive on the asset class.
- Although defaults have risen from last year's very low levels, the default rate remains relatively low and issuer fundamentals of free cash flow, interest coverage and leverage have stayed in relatively favorable ranges with the default outlook for 2023 still around the long-term average.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Security selection within and an overweight versus the Index to securities rated B, security selection within and an underweight to securities rated BB and CCC & below and security selection within Not Rated issuers
 - Security selection within Automotive & Auto Parts, security selection within and an overweight to Packaging and an underweight to and security selection within Food & Drug Retail (the Portfolio benefitted from the team avoiding Casino, an issuer that defaulted)
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - An overweight versus the Index and security selection within securities rated BBB & above and security selection within securities rated CCC & below
 - Security selection within Real Estate & Homebuilders, an underweight versus the Index and security selection within Gaming and security selection within and an overweight to Leisure

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio remained very much weighted toward EUR and GBP issuance, accounting for approximately 99% of the Portfolio at the end of the reporting period.
- Allocation to bonds was approximately 95% at the end of the reporting period.
- Shifts in credit rating exposure were primarily a function of individual credit decisions but also in the context of the evolving credit cycle and macroeconomic outlook. The Portfolio's exposure to securities rated B, Not Rated and BB was increased and exposure to securities rated CCC and BBB was decreased over the reporting period.

We anticipate levels of spread dispersion between issuers, sectors, ratings categories and geographies to remain high, which we believe affords opportunities for enhanced returns from security selection. We also believe that market technicals will continue to provide a positive tailwind, as net of coupons and redemptions, primary issuance we expect will remain negligible if not negative. Against this market backdrop, we believe that diligent bottom-up credit analysis, and remaining in close contact with management teams, sponsors and counterparties in the street, will remain critical in allowing us to optimise our portfolios to take advantage of this opportunity set.

European Sustainable Equity – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 13.83%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI Europe Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, EUR) (the "Index"), returned 11.12%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market, and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall market risk-off sentiment was driven by mixed economic data, high interest rates, elevated inflation, and continued central bank hawkishness.
- Global yields were higher across major economies, with the US Treasury 10-year interest rate rising to 3.85%.
- The European Central Bank ("ECB") raised interest rates by 0.25%, bringing the rate of main refinancing operations to 4%, the highest level since the 2008 financial crisis.
- In China, year-over-year inflation was moderate, with the reopening economic momentum showing signs of a slowdown.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to total returns:
 - Security selection in Financials, Industrials, and Communication Services added significantly to relative performance, as they outperformed peers thanks to their resilient business models in the context of a slowing economic environment. Having no exposure to traditional banks and insurers served performance well, as these segments faced increasing stress due to monetary tightening by central bank authorities.
 - Business model resilience was also reflected in the latest results of portfolio holdings that reported in these sectors, surpassing consensus expectations.
 - During the period, US large capitalisation stocks delivered the strongest performance, followed by non-US developed and emerging market equities.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Security selection in Consumer Discretionary detracted from performance as consumer spending slowed down while slowing macro-economic indicators called for a softer outlook.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- During the period, we added two new positions in the Digital Enterprise value chain and one new position in the Conscious Consumer value chain.
- We exited our remaining position in a security in the Fintech & Financial Inclusion value chain. The proceeds were used to finance more attractive investments with stronger compounding characteristics.
- The portfolio had to be repositioned for a rebalancing of its Index, where we had to adjust for the reclassification of payment processing companies from the Information Technology sector to the Financials sector.

Our analysts anticipate more economic headwinds as tighter monetary conditions are starting to bite, with declining real estate prices being a potential risk. We maintain our view that stable, high-quality stocks should continue to outperform riskier ones. Given the challenging market backdrop, we believe the success of most quality companies now increasingly depend on the development of intangible capital: innovative technology, research and development, human capital, and brand or platform reputation to create a durable competitive position. This durable competitive position can be reinforced via good corporate citizenship through careful management of Environmental, Social, and Governance ("ESG") practices. We believe the forward-looking analysis of this combination of quality attributes, ESG factors, and idiosyncratic characteristics, is key to identifying the "Transition Winners" of the new economy.

Event Driven – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 0.20%. Over the same period, the S&P 500 Index* (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index") returned 16.60%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- As a whole, merger arbitrage has been a challenging space over the past year. Deal flow slowed dramatically in 2022 given elevated market volatility thereby limiting the investible universe in early 2023.
- Starting in late 2022 there have also been several deal breaks (Rogers/DuPont, Tegna/Standard General, and First Horizon/Toronto Dominion) ("Deal Breaks") driving large realised losses and several mergers being challenged by global regulatory bodies increasing both spread levels and volatility in the strategy.
- M&A activity is picking up rapidly, and even more importantly new spreads are pricing at attractive premiums to the risk-free rate; oftentimes as high single-digit to low double-digit annualised rates of return.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to absolute total returns:
 - The two principal sub-strategies, Risk-Arbitrage and Market Neutral Catalyst, contributed positively to returns.
 - Option Care Health, Liberty Media and Apollo Global Management were top contributors to performance.
- Detractors from absolute total returns:
 - Salesforce, Western Digital and Ferguson PLC detracted from performance.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- Given our disciplined philosophical approach, we avoided all three Deal Breaks since November 2022.
- The team has also taken advantage of dislocations by actively trading positions over the course of the transactions.
- We have sought to focus on situations where we 1) have a strong fundamental view of the target where there are multiple ways to win apart from the instant regulatory outcomes; 2) the risk/reward contemplates litigation and based on what we believe the facts of the case may be (ex-ante), the spread is adequately discounting the likely outcome of litigation; and 3) select situations where the regulatory risk is more straightforward. Given the asymmetrical payoffs in merger arbitrage, we are prepared to sacrifice the upside in deals that may close, but in which our confidence is limited, in order to avoid exposure to failed transactions, in which our confidence could be misplaced. This approach, and the concomitant discipline it encourages, have served us well so far this year.

We employ a risk/reward-oriented approach with a focus on constructing a portfolio of mispriced, positive expected value positions, where we believe we can qualify and quantify the risks. "Risk/reward" is shorthand for a complex assessment of how the market is pricing risk in a transaction. We are looking for situations where we have confidence, after qualifying the potential risks, that the market's implied probability for an event occurring (usually the close of a merger, but also intervening events during a deal's life cycle) is too low. When the market's implied probability is lower than our expectation then we say that the transaction has favorable risk/reward or positive expected value. Given the evolving global regulatory landscape, we have had less confidence in some approval processes. With respect to the catalyst strategy, we have made small gains across a number of position blocks as some of our theses are playing out. We are seeing extremely high levels of corporate activity and if management teams are not already pursuing strategic actions, they have identified a number of "levers" they can implement to drive value. This creates a great opportunity for idea generation for the strategy. Companies realise that macro-economic conditions are challenging, and they are forced to drive value in other ways; this is what we are looking for in the strategy. As we are tightly hedged, we can be patient while management teams pursue these initiatives that will ultimately unlock value. We believe that the markets remain tenuous and very highly valued.

Most of the market gains have been concentrated in a handful of large-cap technology shares although the breadth has improved over the past month as there are signs of investor excitement around the prospect of a soft landing. We continue to be concerned that there is a wide range of potential outcomes for the markets, and we believe we will do best by continuing to focus on idiosyncratic ideas that are thoughtfully hedged.

* The Portfolio is actively managed and does not intend to track the Index which is included here for performance comparison purposes.

Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Fixed income market and economic performance diverged globally, as investor focus shifted from banking sector concerns to hawkishness from developed markets' central banks and how businesses and consumers are positioned for the second half of the year.
- Developed markets' interest rates climbed over the period, led by the front end.
- Investment grade and non-investment grade credit spreads compressed over the reporting period, reflecting solid demand for credit assets.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Exposure to global inflation-linked bonds, credit risk transfers and emerging markets debt
 - Security selection in global investment grade credit and agency Mortgage Backed Securities ("MBS")
 - Positioning and US, Norway and UK rates
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Underweight in developed markets sovereigns.
 - Positioning in Japan and core European rates

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- Over the reporting period, we increased exposure to European investment grade credit, agency MBS and covered bonds.
- We reduced exposure to developed markets sovereign, US investment grade credit and global inflation-linked bonds.
- Looking ahead, we favor a quality bias to defend against economic weakness.

In a slowing environment, we see high quality as offering value relative to lower-rated issues, which have seen spreads pull in given the recently resilient economy. In contrast to trends in place since the Global Financial Crisis, we believe that monetary policy will be less forgiving, reinforcing the importance of credit research and attention to the underwriting of particular issuance. Such an environment, in our view may enhance the value that active managers can provide across the fixed income universe.

- Detractors from absolute total returns:
 - There were no material detractors from a sector perspective

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- In keeping with the buy-and-maintain nature of the portfolio, no significant positioning changes were made during the reporting period.

In a slowing environment, we see high quality as offering value relative to lower-rated issues, which have seen spreads pull in given the recently resilient economy. In contrast to trends in place since the Global Financial Crisis, we believe that monetary policy will be less forgiving, reinforcing the importance of credit research and attention to the underwriting of particular issuance. Global Equity Megatrends – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 15.68%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI World Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index"), returned 15.09%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Through the first half of 2023, strong labor markets continued to drive consumption globally, and inflation pressures in the US began to ease meaningfully.
- However, debt ceiling negotiations in the US, sticky inflation in Europe and a slow economic recovery in China contributed to ongoing investor angst.
- Meanwhile, businesses across a number of industries continued to exhibit remarkable resilience. In recent weeks, the geopolitical rhetoric between the US and China seems to have taken on a more productive tone.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to absolute total returns:
 - Top contributors to investment performance through the first half of the year include Pets At Home (Humanisation of Pets), Delta Airlines (Evolving Global Consumer) and Alphabet (Smart Systems).
- Detractors from absolute total returns:
 - ModivCare (Health & Wellbeing), Gen Digital (Smart Systems) and Stericycle (Health & Wellbeing) were among the top detractors.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- We initiated two new investments thus far in 2023, namely Uber Technologies (Evolving Global Consumer) and Element Solutions (Energy Efficiency).
- We also added to existing investments including Stericycle (Health & Wellbeing), ModivCare (Health & Wellbeing) and Alibaba (Evolving Global Consumer).
- We funded these investments primarily by trimming exposure to Quanta Services (Energy Infrastructure) and ATI Inc (Energy Efficiency), and by exiting Paya Holdings (Evolving Global Consumer), which was taken private in a strategic acquisition early in 2023.

Looking ahead, equity valuations remain mixed, with equity indices trading at historically elevated levels led by only a few mega cap tech companies that are perceived as enablers of the emerging Artificial Intelligence (AI) revolution. However, many other listed companies seem to be 'left for dead', even many of our portfolio companies, implying a business environment very different from the current reality. While we acknowledge the ongoing investor debates, we believe the current setting presents an encouraging opportunity for patient investors like ourselves.

 - Exposure to CLOs and credit risk transfers contributed modestly
- Detractors from absolute total returns:

Global High Yield SDG Engagement – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 3.46%. Over the same period the benchmark index, the ICE BofA Global High Yield Constrained Index (Total Return, Hedged, USD) (the "Index"), returned 4.94%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The global high yield bond market finished the reporting period with solid returns, mostly driven by more resilient than expected economic data and earnings results from most issuers. This was despite bouts of volatility from concerns over higher inflation, more hawkish central banks, the mini banking crisis and rising recession risk in the first half of the year.
- Year to date, the CCC and below rated credit tier of the Index outperformed with returns of 4.94% by a wide margin with a return of 8.30%, as compared to the BB and B rated segments of the Index which returned 3.91% and 5.65%, respectively.
- Default rates in US, Europe and other Developed Markets are expected to remain around average after having moved up from the all-time lows of last year. While Emerging Markets ("EM") defaults are on the rise, we are focused on select opportunities away from the higher risk regions and sectors. For EM high yield corporates, the overall default rate started this year in the mid-teens due to non-payment by Russian and Ukrainian issuers, and due to the elevated defaults in the China property sector. Excluding those specific areas, we anticipate the EM high yield corporate default rate to be relatively benign as EM corporates have entered this reporting period with reasonable liquidity on average.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - An underweight versus the Index to BB, overweights to Not Rated and B and security selection within BBB & above rated issuers.
 - Security selection within and an overweight versus the Index to Support-Services, security selection within and an underweight to Media-Broadcast and security selection within and an overweight to Automotive & Auto Parts.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Security selection within and an underweight versus the Index to CCC & below and security selection within BB, Not Rated and B rated securities.
 - Security selection within and an overweight versus the Index to Telecommunications, an overweight to and security selection within Real Estate & Homebuilders and security selection within Technology & Electronics.
 - The Portfolio was modestly underweight credit beta, which was a detractor from returns relative to the Index as spreads tightened and risk outperformed during the period. Additionally, trading and other effects detracted from performance which was a result of a large inflow on the last trading day of 2022 (and subsequent swing pricing in early 2023) as well as higher transaction costs in early January from investing part of the cash flow into European and EM high yield where transaction costs were still elevated.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio remained weighted toward USD and EUR issuance, accounting for approximately 72% and 21% of the Portfolio, respectively, at the end of the reporting period.
- Allocation to bonds was 96.3% at the end of the reporting period.
- Shifts in credit rating exposure were primarily a function of individual credit decisions but also in the context of the evolving credit cycle and macroeconomic outlook. The Portfolio's exposure to BB, B and BBB rated securities was increased and exposure to CCC & below rated securities was decreased over the reporting period.

Our analysts remain focused on the specific credit fundamentals of individual issuers in their coverage, assessing the base and downside cases in the event of a soft-landing or recession. Relatively healthy consumer and business balance sheets and growing nominal GDP should continue to remain supportive for issuer fundamentals, in our view. While the incoming macroeconomic data and overall credit cycle dynamics can move the loan market day-to-day, we remain very focused on industry-specific trends and idiosyncratic risks to individual issuers. Despite the potential for short-term volatility resulting from heightened uncertainty on economic growth, we believe our bottom-up, fundamental credit research that focuses on security selection, avoiding credit deterioration, and putting only our "best ideas" into portfolios, will position us well to take advantage of any volatility.

* Portfolio liquidated on 16 June 2023.

Global Investment Grade Credit – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating class was 3.08%. Over the same period, the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Corporate Index (Total Return, Hedged, USD) (the "Index") returned 3.13% (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Portfolio performance was largely driven by coupon income and slightly tighter spreads supported by falling US consumer price inflation data and generally stable economic data.
- Stresses in the US banking sector emerged among a select number of smaller US regional banks and Credit Suisse in early March. Policy makers reacted promptly with the Federal Reserve on 12 March announcing a new Bank Term Funding Program (BTFP) to provide loans of up to one year in length to banks on qualifying collateral, if required. The situation with Credit Suisse was rapidly dealt with by Swiss officials with the brokered takeover of Credit Suisse by UBS announced on 19 March and closed by the transaction on 12 June.
- Overall, policy makers responded rapidly to financial market stresses that appeared in early March, while investors viewed tighter financial conditions from banking sector stress as implying that Central Banks would moderate the pace of future policy rate hikes.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Security selection across Basic, Technology/Communications, and Consumer Cyclical added positive performance to the Portfolio. Sector allocation in terms of overweight in Technology/ Communications and underweight in Consumer non-Cyclical sector also contributed positively to performance.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Our sector allocation in Utility (overweight) and Banking (overweight) detracted from performance.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- We participated in a number of attractively priced primary new issue deals in the first half of 2023 which generated positive returns for the Portfolio. We purchased bank Tier 2 subordinated bonds from large UK and European national champions and also added to our strong conviction view on the large US money center banks during periods of market volatility in early March 2023. We maintained our position in the senior unsecured Holdco bonds of Credit Suisse which saw spreads rapidly tighten post the brokered takeover by UBS with material outperformance in spreads.
- Portfolio duration position was largely maintained near Index levels during the period however, we have recently tilted duration preference away from US dollar currency bonds given spreads have outperformed relative to euro and sterling currency bonds with a particular focus on sterling corporate bonds given larger relative underperformance.

Heading into the second half of 2023, we remain overweight some of the more defensive sectors like Utilities and Banking as well as some of the higher beta and cyclical sectors like Finance. We continue to be overweight sectors that have strong fundamentals and are currently in deleveraging mode such as Communications which we believe will continue to benefit from a rising rate environment. We have an underweight in sectors like consumer non-cyclicals that we view as being at a higher risk of using debt to finance shareholder returns via stock buybacks and merger and acquisition and trade at relatively tight valuations.

Global Opportunistic Bond – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 2.02%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index (Total Return, Hedged, USD), returned 2.96%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Fixed income market and economic performance diverged globally, as investor focus shifted from banking sector concerns to hawkishness from developed markets central banks and how businesses and consumers are positioned for the second half of the year.
- Developed markets interest rates climbed over the period, led by the front end.
- Investment grade and non-investment grade credit spreads compressed over period, reflecting solid demand for credit assets.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to total returns relative to the benchmark:
 - Exposure to European high yield, emerging markets debt and credit risk transfers
 - Security selection in agency mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") and global investment grade credit
 - The portfolio's active currency overlay
- Detractors from total returns relative to the benchmark:
 - Interest rate positioning
 - Underweight in global investment grade credit
 - Overweight to agency MBS

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- Over the period, we increased exposure to agency MBS and developed markets sovereign debt.
- We reduced exposure to European high yield, emerging markets debt and credit risk transfers.

Looking ahead, we favor a quality bias to defend against economic weakness. In a slowing environment, we see high quality as offering value relative to lower-rated issues, which have seen spreads pull in given the recently resilient economy. In contrast to trends in place since the Global Financial Crisis, we believe that monetary policy will be less forgiving, reinforcing the importance of credit research and attention to the underwriting of particular issuance. Such an environment, in our view, will enhance the value that active managers can provide across the fixed income universe.

Global Real Estate Securities – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 0.16%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the FTSE EPRA/Nareit Developed Real Estate Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index"), returned 1.06%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any.)

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The global equity market rallied sharply during the six-month reporting period.
- The market overcame several headwinds, including persistently high inflation and central bank rate hikes, concerns that the global economy could fall into a recession, contentious debt ceiling negotiations, turmoil in the banking industry, and several geopolitical events.
- Investor sentiment was generally positive, as the global economy was resilient and several of the uncertainties hanging over the market were resolved.
- All told, MSCI All Country World Index returned 13.93% during the six-month reporting period. In contrast, the FTSE EPRA/Nareit Developed Real Estate Index returned 1.06%. Real estate securities were negatively impacted by rising interest rates.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Security selection within the Real Estate Holding & Development sector
 - Security selection within the Office sector
 - Underweights to Sweden and Japan
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Security selection within the Industrial sector
 - Security selection within the Retail sector
 - Underweight to the US and an overweight to the UK

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- While the Portfolio's sector positioning is mainly driven by bottom-up stock selection, at the end of the reporting period its largest overweight allocation versus the benchmark was Infrastructure REITS. In contrast, the Portfolio's largest sector underweights relative to the Index were Office and Diversified.
- The largest country overweights were in the UK and Spain, and the largest underweights were to the US and Sweden.

The failures of regional banks have led to increased concern that US regional banks' ability to lend to the real estate sector is likely impaired. Additionally, recent borrower defaults within the office sector have pushed the overall sentiment toward US commercial real estate largely negative. Elevated cost of capital, paired with slowing fundamentals, will likely weigh on overall demand and earnings growth for REITs. The effect on the listed REITs market is not expected to be pronounced, as REITs own mainly high-quality assets, maintain strong balance sheets, and tend to use the larger banks. While market rents generally fared well in the UK and Continental Europe, the lack of real estate transactions is seen merely delaying the inevitable downward repricing of European real estate values. Asia's performance this quarter was dragged down by Hong Kong and Singapore. Higher for longer US interest rates and the softening China economy contributed to their pullback. While we believe the macro backdrop could continue to weigh on the stocks, we will continue to focus on select companies with better fundamentals, diverse demand drivers and strong balance sheets that we believe can withstand increased market volatility.

Global Sustainable Equity – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 15.29%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI World Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index"), returned 15.09%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market, and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall market risk-off sentiment was driven by mixed economic data, high interest rates, elevated inflation, and continued central bank hawkishness.
- Global yields were higher across major economies, with the US Treasury 10-year interest rate rising to 3.85%.
- The European Central Bank ("ECB") raised interest rates by 0.25%, bringing the rate of main refinancing operations to 4%, the highest level since the 2008 financial crisis.
- In China, year-over-year inflation was moderate, with the reopening economic momentum showing signs of a slowdown.
- During the period, US large capitalisation stocks delivered the strongest performance, followed by non-US developed and emerging market equities.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Security selection in Financials and Communication Services added significantly to performance, as holdings in these sectors outperformed peers thanks to their resilient business models in the context of a slowing economic environment. Having no exposure to traditional banks and insurers in Financials served performance especially well, as these segments faced increasing stress due to monetary tightening by central bank authorities.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Security selection in Consumer Discretionary and Staples detracted from performance as consumer spending slowed down while slowing macro-economic indicators called for a softer outlook.
 - Positions in Life Science tools within Health Care saw headwinds from a post-COVID inventory overhang.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- During the period, we added a new position in the Digital Enterprise value chain. The company is one of the two market leaders in Electronic Design Automation and is at the intersection of two of our favourite segments within the Digital Enterprise value chain: semiconductors and software.
- The portfolio had to be repositioned for a rebalancing of its Index, where we had to adjust for the reclassification of payment processing companies from the Information Technology sector to the Financials sector.

Our analysts anticipate more economic headwinds as tighter monetary conditions are starting to bite, with declining real estate prices being a potential risk. We maintain our view that stable, high-quality stocks should continue to outperform riskier ones. Given the challenging market backdrop, we believe the success of most quality companies now increasingly depend on the development of intangible capital: innovative technology, research and development, human capital, and brand or platform reputation to create a durable competitive position. This durable competitive position can be reinforced via good corporate citizenship through careful management of Environmental, Social, and Governance ("ESG") practices. We believe the forward-looking analysis of this combination of quality attributes, ESG factors, and idiosyncratic characteristics, is key to identifying the "Transition Winners" of the new economy.

High Yield Bond – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 4.00%. Over the same period the benchmark index, the ICE BofA US High Yield Constrained Index (Total Return USD) ("the Index"), returned 5.42%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The high yield bond market finished the reporting period with solid returns, mostly driven by more resilient than expected economic data and earnings results from most issuers. This was despite bouts of volatility from concerns over higher inflation, more hawkish central banks, the mini banking crisis and rising recession risk in the first half of the year.
- Year to date, the CCC and below rated credit tier of the ICE BofA US High Yield Constrained Index outperformed the overall Index (up 5.42%) by a wide margin with returns of 9.80%, as compared to the BB and B rated segments which returned 4.17% and 5.72%, respectively. The distressed issuers in the Index returned 10.98% which was more than twice the return of the non-distressed index which was up 4.86%.
- While default rates have risen off the lows reached last year, we anticipate defaults in 2023 and 2024 to remain in a range that is below or around the long-term average. This outlook is based on our bottom-up assessment of issuers, and driven by the higher-quality ratings mix in high yield (49% of issuers with credit ratings of BB), less aggressive new issuance, fewer near-term maturities, as well as an energy sector that is far healthier than in the past few cycles.
- High yield issuer fundamentals of free cash flow, interest coverage and leverage have stayed in relatively favourable ranges.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Security selection within B, an overweight versus the Index to Not Rated, an underweight to BB and security selection within BBB and above rated issuers
 - An underweight to and security selection within Media-Broadcast, security selection within and an overweight to Diversified Financial Services and security selection within Automotive & Auto Parts
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Security selection within CCC and below, Not Rated and BB as well as an overweight versus the Index to BBB & above rated securities
 - Security selection within Telecommunications and Technology & Electronics as well as security selection within and an underweight versus the Index to Super Retail
 - The Portfolio was modestly underweight credit beta, which was a detractor from returns relative to the Index as spreads tightened and risk outperformed during the period.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio's allocation to bonds was 88.1% of net assets at the end of the reporting period while the allocation to floating rate loans was 5.0% of net assets.
- Shifts in credit rating exposure were primarily a function of individual credit decisions but also in the context of the evolving credit cycle and macroeconomic outlook. The Portfolio's exposure to BB, B and BBB rated securities was increased and exposure to CCC and below rated securities was decreased over the reporting period.

Our analysts remain focused on the specific credit fundamentals of individual issuers in their coverage, assessing the base and downside cases in the event of a soft-landing or recession. Relatively healthy consumer and business balance sheets and growing nominal GDP should continue to remain supportive for issuer fundamentals, in our view. While the incoming macroeconomic data and overall credit cycle dynamics can move the loan market day-to-day, we remain very focused on industry-specific trends and idiosyncratic risks to individual issuers.

Despite the potential for short-term volatility resulting from heightened uncertainty on economic growth, we believe our bottom-up, fundamental credit research that focuses on security selection, avoiding credit deterioration, and putting only our "best ideas" into portfolios, will position us well to take advantage of any volatility.

InnovAsia 5G – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 20.93%. Over the same period the benchmark index, the MSCI All Country World Index (ACWI) (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index"), returned 13.93%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Markets were volatile given economic growth concerns, a slower than expected recovery in China, a regional banking crisis in the US, and continued geopolitical tensions
- Slower pace of rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve Board led to general outperformance of Tech and Growth equity
- Exuberance over artificial intelligence ("AI") led to a rally in related exposures, benefiting enablers within the Asian tech supply chain

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Security selection and an overweight versus the Index in Japan and Taiwan
 - Security selection and an overweight versus the Index to Semiconductors and Electronic Equipment
 - AI winners in high-performance semiconductor enablers, high-speed networking, and software
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Overweight to China versus the Index which has been impacted by a slower than expected macro recovery and limited stimulus
 - Security selection and an overweight to Southeast Asia versus the Index as some companies are going through near-term cyclical headwinds

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- Remained focused on leading-edge semiconductors and equipment given strategic investments by governments and enterprises, onshoring of supply chains, and structural trends in AI
- Solid outlook in industrial segments led us to increase exposure to enablers of industrial automation, advanced semiconductor production equipment, and providers of power management solutions
- Increased exposure to innovative software / internet companies that are driving digital transformation
- Cautious on the impact of geopolitical tensions and reduced exposure to areas with higher sensitivity
- Reduced exposure to China and companies with slower growth outlook

While the pace of rate hikes is slowing, rates are likely to be kept higher for longer and macro uncertainty could persist. We thus continue to emphasise quality but are ready to capture tactical opportunities and position for cyclical growth. We are constructive on the growth opportunity in Asia especially within advanced semiconductors, structural growth in AI, robust 5G data center capex, and digital content lifestyle proliferation. Asia is a vibrant region with increasingly digital economies and is leading in early stage innovative 5G applications. We remain focused on the leaders and are ready to take advantage of market dislocations to build high quality exposure where we see incremental positive outlook and validation of our investment thesis.

Japan Equity Engagement – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the JPY I Accumulating Class was 15.17%. Over the same period, the MSCI Japan Small Cap Index (Net) (Total Return, JPY) ("the Index") returned 15.36%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Japanese small caps saw a positive performance thanks to a combination of a resilient domestic economy, loose monetary policy as well as growing investor expectations for Japanese companies to raise capital efficiency on the back of new regulatory reforms.
- Risk appetite for Japanese equities was favorable during the reporting period as the US Federal Reserve Board ("Fed") signaled it was approaching the end of its tightening cycle.
- The market saw a temporary correction in March following the collapse of several financial institutions in the US and Europe but the fallout for Japan remained relatively contained.
- Japan's economy continued to surprise on the upside as second quarter GDP was revised higher supported by robust domestic spending from rising inbound tourist demand and emerging signs of wage growth. With this backdrop, the Bank of Japan ("BOJ") under the newly appointed Governor Kazuo Ueda, signaled that it would maintain accommodative monetary policy until it gains confidence consumer prices can sustain trend growth of more than 2%.
- The Japanese Yen depreciated against major currencies on expectations that the interest rate differentials between Japan and other economies would remain elevated for the foreseeable future.
- Japanese companies announced record share repurchases for the month of May following the Tokyo Stock Exchange's ("TSE") guideline to over 3,000 companies pushing management to disclose plans to raise capital returns sustainably over cost of capital. Prospects for higher shareholder returns prompted foreign buying of Japanese equities during the April to June period. Consequently, while Japanese smaller companies performed favorably during the reporting period, larger-cap companies saw higher returns supported by investor inflows into passive indexes and expectations that the weak currency would act as tailwinds for earnings of export-dependent large-caps.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - The Portfolio underperformed the benchmark net of fees and expenses. Core holdings in Real Estate and Consumer Staples saw positive returns, while our fund's traditional underweight exposures in these sectors also contributed to performance.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Investments in Consumer Discretionary and Industrials detracted from performance while our overweight exposure to Financials also weighed on returns.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The fund continued to invest in Japanese small to mid-size companies with strong business fundamentals, solid growth outlook at reasonable valuations with potential to unlock value through engagement.
- The fund was most overweight in the Financials and Communications Services sectors while being most underweight in Materials and Consumer Staples. The sector exposure is a result of our team's bottom-up fundamentals-driven process to investment.
- On Financials, we have historically held diversified financials involved in businesses such as mortgage loan guarantees and personalised insurance but in recent months, we have taken a more constructive view on select regional banks on the back of the shifting monetary policy and prospects of capital efficiency improvements. Our exposure to Communications Services was to telco and content publishing companies with strong market share and technology.
- On Materials, we saw increased rivalry with cost competitive emerging Asian companies as an issue for many companies in this sector and as a result were selectively invested in companies with a strong global market share in the semiconductor value chain protected by technological moats. Although we were seeing green shoots of price inflation, we continued to maintain a cautious view on Consumer Staples based on our view that many companies in this sector may have faced challenging passing on input costs for lack of pricing power.
- Our team conducted over 300 engagement meetings, half of which were with management level speakers including c-suite executives and external directors. During the reporting period, capital management was the most covered agenda with balance sheet efficiency and business portfolio being the central focus of discussions.

Over the mid-term, we continue to believe Japanese small to mid-size companies ("SMIDs") are well positioned to drive the next leg of the equity market rally in Japan. First, we view this segment of the market as rich with undervalued and under researched high-quality businesses with attractive growth potential. Furthermore, we believe prospects for a valuation rerating from capital efficiency improvements to be greater among SMIDs than large-caps given the former's higher net cash to shareholder's equity and lower price-to-book multiples¹, which would suggest that SMID companies may drive the next wave of stock repurchases. Second, we see strong similarities between the current market conditions and that of the 2010's when the late Prime Minister Shinzo Abe embarked on his reforms sparking foreign buying among large caps. However, we then witnessed four consecutive years of SMIDs outperforming bigger peers until 2018² as global investors began to rotate into the deep SMID market. We believe the SMID market may be poised for a similar outcome and could see further tailwinds from the latest-round of regulatory reforms aiming to raise Japanese capital returns sustainably above cost of capital.

¹ Bloomberg data as of June 2023. Net Debt-to-Equity (latest fiscal year) and Price to Book Ratio (current). SMID = MSCI Japan Small Cap Net Total Return Index (JPY). Large Cap = Topix 500 (JPY).

² Bloomberg data as of May 2023. MSCI Japan Small Cap Net Total Return (JPY) relative return to Topix 500, Nikkei 225 and Topix indexes (JPY).

Macro Opportunities FX – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 0.87%. Over the same period the benchmark index, the ICE BofA 0-1 Year AAA Euro Government Index (Total Return, EUR) (the "Index"), returned 0.79%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Over the first half of the year the best performing major currencies were the British pound and the Swiss franc, the worst performing major currencies were the Japanese yen and Norwegian krone.
- Economic data improved over the period on an absolute basis but declined relative to expectations. Yields continued to rise globally with US 2-year yields ending the period close to 5% but with volatility along the way.
- Currency markets have been trading with high correlations to short term interest rate differentials since the start of the year.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - The Portfolio generated a positive return for the period.
 - An underweight to the Swedish krona and overweight the Australian dollar were the best contributors to performance.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - An underweight to the Swiss franc and British pound detracted from performance.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Strategy adopted a more tactical trading style over the period as intraweek and intramonth volatility offered trading opportunities whilst most major currencies showed little direction over the longer-term.
- Currencies followed shorter-term factors whilst having a weaker relationship to longer-term factors.

Heading into the summer months when market liquidity is often lower and central banks may continue reducing their balance sheets, should financial conditions continue to tighten we may see periods of risk aversion as concerns over economic activity grow. Data on economic activity in Europe continue to show signs of weakness, however whilst the European Central Bank's ("ECB") policy outlook remains relatively hawkish the euro should be supported. Heading into the second half of the year much attention will be on labour markets globally for signs that the significant monetary policy tightening is beginning to weigh on economic activity. So far there has been little sign of policy tightening feeding into labour market weakness and that has helped support the ECB's hawkish stance.

Multi-Asset Income – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 2.67%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Despite continued central bank tightening and a regional banking crisis, economic data proved resilient with growth slowing but broadly beating expectations, inflation trending down from peaks, unemployment remaining low and the consumer strong.
- Stock markets performed best, led by mega cap growth stocks, buoyed by excess liquidity, flows and optimism around Artificial Intelligence and its implications.
- In most developed market economies inflation readings fell back, largely due to favorable base effects from oil prices moving lower since peaking in June 2022, though core measures remained more persistent. In the UK, wage growth and core services inflation accelerated, causing more hawkish action from the Bank of England
- Global bond yields moved higher at the short end of the curve, leading to deeper yield curve inversion for many developed markets. Credit performed well as spreads narrowed, with lower grade credits performing best as near-term recession risk receded.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to absolute total returns:
 - High income strategies delivered a strong positive contribution to return with both equity and fixed income components additive. The options strategy was also a strong contributor as volatility in equity markets declined.
 - Within equity, the largest contribution came from high dividend developed market equities, followed by emerging markets ("EM").
 - Within fixed income, the strongest performing strategy was European high yield bonds off the back of tightening spreads. Long corporate bond, treasuries and EM debt strategies were all also positive.
- Detractors from absolute total returns:
 - The uncorrelated strategies component posted a negative return over the period as the tactical and strategic adjustment detracted, driven by short equity and long Japanese Yen views.
 - Within equities, the allocation to alternative equity strategies was negative as both listed energy infrastructure and real estate investment trusts underperformed.
 - Within fixed income, the worst performer was the allocation to preferred securities as banking stress weighed over the financial sector, particularly impacting hybrid securities.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio remained diversified across high income strategies; fixed income, high income and alternative equities, options income and uncorrelated strategies.
- During the reporting period, the portfolio was rebalanced through trimming of the treasury and real estate investment trusts strategies and adding to the EM equity strategy.
- As per the shareholder notice issued on 6 June 2023 on the closure of the Portfolio, the portfolio management team began liquidating holdings as of 20 June 2023, ahead of the Portfolio termination date 7 July 2023.

Our perspectives on the global economic landscape remain fluid amidst mixed economic data, sticky core inflation, and tightening credit conditions. We believe there is still potential for an economic slowdown to emerge over a 12–24-month horizon, but near-term risks of a global recession have moderated. We believe global central bank policy rates are approaching their peaks but could be maintained at elevated levels until there is clear evidence that price pressures can moderate toward targets. As a result, in bond markets, we continue to favour high-quality, shorter-duration exposures as well as cash. Given more resilient short-term economic growth and the potential for positive momentum to continue, we are moving toward a more neutral stance on equities in the short term.

Next Generation Mobility – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 23.17%. Over the same period, the MSCI All Country World Index (ACWI) (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index") returned 13.93%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Equity market returns were broadly positive during the first half of 2023 following a challenging 2022. This transpired against a backdrop of moderating inflation and generally receding recessionary fears, most notably toward the end of the reporting period. This backdrop supported valuation multiples, particularly for growth stocks.
- As such, growth-oriented equities substantially outperformed value stocks during the reporting period. Mega-cap stocks generally fared better across the Communication Services and Information Technology sectors, the performance of which was enhanced by growing excitement around AI following NVIDIA's earnings report.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- The Portfolio outperformed the Index by 924 basis points over the reporting period.
- Contributors to total returns:
 - Exposure to the Information Technology sector was the biggest contributor to relative performance, aided by outperformance for growth-oriented stocks during the first half of the year.
 - From a security perspective, NVIDIA, Rambus, and Tesla were the largest positive contributors to absolute performance during the reporting period.
- Detractors from total returns:
 - Exposure to the Communication Services sector was the biggest detractor from relative performance due in part to an underweight position in mega-cap stocks which are less thematically relevant.
 - From a security perspective, JD.com, StarPower Semiconductor, and Deere were the largest detractors from absolute performance during the first half of the year.
- While the Index captures the global nature of the Portfolio, its scope is broader than the investable universe of the Portfolio and therefore has limitations for comparative performance purposes. Sectors which have little or no thematic relevance such as Consumer Staples, Energy, Healthcare, and Utilities, underperformed during the first half of 2023, positively impacting relative performance during the period.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- Three new positions were added to the portfolio during the period, Albemarle, LG Energy Solution, and BYD.
 - Albemarle is a leading global producer of lithium with low-cost assets in key geographies such as Chile and Australia. Electric Vehicle ("EV") batteries rely extensively on lithium, which we anticipate remaining the backbone of EV battery chemistry for the foreseeable future. Lithium prices corrected alongside decelerating EV demand in China this year, but we ultimately think EV demand will experience strong growth in the coming years on a global basis.
 - LG Energy Solution is one of the largest battery manufacturers in the world and is a key beneficiary and enabler of EV proliferation. Batteries are a gating factor to EV growth and auto manufacturers are seeking to aggressively build out their EV product portfolios and associated vehicle assembly capacity, thus providing strong battery growth for LG along with rising profit margins.
 - BYD is the leading new energy vehicle ("NEV") manufacturer in China. As one of the few high-volume producers in the China market, BYD has a leading approximately 30% share in NEVs. The company is also a major producer of batteries for NEVs and stationary storage.
- One position that was removed from the portfolio was Coherent (COHR). COHR was eliminated following recent strength related to the potential reorganisation of the company's silicon carbide business. COHR remains hampered by high levels of debt, and we see better investment opportunities elsewhere.

We anticipate that the macroeconomic backdrop will remain fluid as central banks respond to incoming data in their quest to wring out inflation. We believe the lagged effect of more restrictive monetary policy will likely result in a slower pace of economic growth. Encouragingly, decelerating inflation readings in important geographies such as the United States suggest that central banks are generally closer to the end of their respective interest rate hiking cycles. We also believe we will see equity markets grapple with the recent performance of mega-capitalisation companies that have been substantial contributors to market returns this year. Despite economic crosscurrents, the key pillars of the Next Generation Mobility theme are solidly intact. We anticipate additional penetration gains and healthy growth for both autonomous and electric vehicles in the second half of 2023, underpinned by supportive regional policies among other factors. We maintain our focus on investing in high quality, fundamentally attractive companies that are key enablers and beneficiaries of this long-term theme.

Next Generation Space Economy – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 17.69%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the MSCI All Country World Index (ACWI) (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD), returned 13.93%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall, global equity markets remained very resilient despite the uncertainty that existed throughout the reporting period such as the ongoing Russia-Ukraine conflict, several regional US bank failures, persistently high inflation coupled with the impacts of rapidly rising interest rates and weakening macro-economic data points, etc.
- Market performance has largely been affected by the weighting and performance of a few mega-cap tech companies such as AAPL, GOOG, MSFT, AMZN, META, TSLA, and NVDA. For example, within the US, performance excluding these securities would have resulted in S&P returns of 6% as compared to the 16.6% return of the reporting period.
- As such, we have seen a lack of market breadth transfer to heightened volatility which has led to six movements of +/- 5% within the MSCI All Country World Index year-to-date.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Structural underweight to less thematically relevant sectors (e.g. Health Care, Financials) which have lagged during the reporting period.
 - Strong security selection within Industrials
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Security selection and underweight to Communication Services
 - Slight cash drag from opportunistically deploying capital upon inflows as markets have rallied

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- Given our expectation of market volatility, the Portfolio continued to take a barbell approach between growth and defensive positions. Throughout the year, we have used dislocations as opportunities to initiate and scale both fundamentally and thematically relevant positions.
- An increased number of securities within the portfolio addressed the growing multi-sector opportunity set and helped diversify risk.
- Increased our exposure to Japan during the reporting period but overall we remain constructive on the thematic universe across geographies as the current portfolio is balanced across regions.

During the reporting period, we saw several exciting developments as they relate to the space ecosystem from multiple satellite-to-cell service announcements to start the year and Virgin Galactic's first commercial suborbital flight in June. Additionally, John Deere issued a satellite request for proposals ("RFP") and Deloitte stood up a space-focused division of their consulting practice. These examples highlight one of our core views that space-based capabilities will expand outside of legacy space-based industries. Despite the uncertain macro environment, revenue streams attached to space continue to demonstrate growth due to underlying demand, improving capabilities, and end-market expansion. We continue to focus on our best fundamental ideas that are associated with the space theme and believe the Portfolio is well-positioned to take advantage of the anticipated growth.

Short Duration Emerging Market Debt – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 2.46%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the ICE BofA 3-Month US Treasury Bill Index (Total Return, USD) returned 2.25%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall market sentiment was driven by developments around inflation and monetary policy. China's reopening was a supportive theme while emerging markets ("EM") default rates declined.
- US Treasury 2-year yields widened by 47bps, ending the period at 4.90%, as markets priced out the possibility of rate cuts by the US Federal Reserve Board later in the year.
- EM sovereign spreads tightened to 432bps from 452bps on average, with a peak of 510bps in March around the banking crisis in the US and Europe. EM corporate spreads also tightened to 300bps from 308bps.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Holdings in Sri Lanka were the largest contributor to the positive spread returns, as bonds were supported by progress in the debt restructuring process.
 - El Salvador, Argentina, Ukraine and Ivory Coast were among the other main high yield sovereign positions which contributed positively over the quarter.
 - On the corporate side, the main positive contributors included positions in the mining sector in India, as well as financials in the UAE and in Colombia.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Corporate exposures in Brazil were the main detractor as bonds from fertilizer company Unigel sold off after results missed expectations.
 - Sovereign bonds in Egypt also detracted amid ongoing financing challenges.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio maintained a balanced allocation to EM Corporates and Sovereigns/quasi-sovereigns and a duration close to 2 years.
- We added exposure to high quality issuers from South Korea across sectors via the primary market. We also added to other investment grade countries including Hungary, Romania and Hong Kong.
- On the high yield side, we mainly added exposure to BB-rated credits where we see resilience to tighter global funding conditions, such as Serbia, Ivory Coast, Colombia and Dominican Republic.
- Meanwhile we reduced exposure in Brazil corporates where we see rising vulnerabilities amid tighter conditions, and sold out of Polish sovereign bonds amid tight spreads and as recent legislative changes may worsen relations with the EU and the funding outlook. Exposure to Qatar, Azerbaijan and Malaysia was reduced via bond maturities.

We anticipate a positive environment for EM debt for the rest of the year, built on improved technicals, stable fundamentals and reasonably attractive valuations, coupled with the coming end to aggressive monetary policy in the US. Questions remain around China's stalled recovery, but we believe the country's 5% growth target remains achievable, even if only targeted and measured stimulus is deployed, as signaled by recent monetary policy easing. Chinese growth impacts across EM should be modest and uneven, but ultimately net positive.

We anticipate default rates for sovereigns to decline to the low single digits in 2023, while increased IMF engagement by different EM countries should support funding needs and reform agendas. Also in EM high yield corporates we anticipate default rates to decline, from 14.0% last year to 5.2% in 2023, with the majority of defaults relating to China property developers and Ukrainian issuers. Excluding those specific areas we anticipate the EM high yield corporate default rate to be broadly in line with the historical average at 3.3%, as EM corporates have maintained robust balance sheets on average.

We anticipate technicals to be supportive thanks to spread momentum, investor positioning and low net issuance. Against this backdrop, valuations in short duration EM debt remain attractive in our view, and we see room for further spread compression particularly across high yield rated EM hard currency bonds.

The key risks to our constructive view are either the unfolding of a deep global recession which would push EM spreads materially higher, or an unexpected acceleration of inflation dynamics globally which would require substantially more rate hikes.

Short Duration High Yield SDG Engagement – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 4.07%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The high yield bond market finished the reporting period with solid returns, mostly driven by more resilient than expected economic data and earnings results from most issuers. This was despite bouts of volatility from concerns over higher inflation, more hawkish central banks, the mini banking crisis and rising recession risk in the first half of the year.
- Year to date, the ICE BofA US High Yield Constrained Index (the "Index") returned 5.42%. The CCC and below rated credit tier of the Index returned 9.80%, outperforming the overall Index. The BB and B rated segments returned 4.17% and 5.72%, respectively. The distressed issuers in the Index returned 10.98% which was more than twice the return of the non-distressed Index which was up 4.86%. The ICE BofA 0-5 Year BB-B US High Yield Constrained Index returned 4.62% over the reporting period.
- While default rates have risen off the lows reached last year, we anticipate defaults in 2023 and 2024 to remain in a range that is below or around the long-term average. This outlook is based on our bottom-up assessment of issuers, and driven by the higher-quality ratings mix in high yield (49% of issuers with credit ratings of BB), less aggressive new issuance, fewer near-term maturities, as well as an energy sector that is far healthier than in the past few cycles.
- High yield issuer fundamentals of free cash flow, interest coverage and leverage have stayed in relatively favorable ranges.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to absolute total returns:
 - Positioning in B, BB, CCC & below and BBB & above rated issuers
 - Positioning in Gas Distribution, Support-Services and Diversified Financial Services
- Neutral to absolute total returns:
 - Positioning in Not Rated issuers
 - Positioning in Gaming, Environmental and Banking

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio's allocation to bonds was 91.2% at the end of the reporting period while the allocation to floating rate loans was 5.6%.
- Shifts in credit rating exposure were primarily a function of individual credit decisions but also in the context of the evolving credit cycle and macroeconomic outlook. The Portfolio's exposure to BB and BBB rated securities was increased and exposure to B and CCC & below rated securities exposure was decreased over the reporting period.

Our analysts remain focused on the specific credit fundamentals of individual issuers in their coverage, assessing the base and downside cases in the event of a soft-landing or recession. Relatively healthy consumer and business balance sheets and growing nominal GDP should continue to remain supportive for issuer fundamentals, in our view. While the incoming macroeconomic data and overall credit cycle dynamics can move the loan market day-to-day, we remain very focused on industry-specific trends and idiosyncratic risks to individual issuers. Despite the potential for short-term volatility resulting from heightened uncertainty on economic growth, we believe our bottom-up, fundamental credit research that focuses on security selection, avoiding credit deterioration, and putting only our "best ideas" into portfolios, will position us well to take advantage of any volatility.

Strategic Income – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 3.67%. Over the same period the benchmark index, the Bloomberg US Aggregate Bond Index (Total Return, USD), returned 2.09%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Fixed income market and economic performance diverged globally, as investor focus shifted from banking sector and US debt ceiling concerns to hawkishness from developed markets central banks and how businesses and consumers are positioned for the second half of the year.
- Front-end US interest rates climbed over the reporting period, whereas intermediate and longer-term rates were unchanged to slightly lower. US yield curve inversion persisted, with front-end rates higher than longer-term rates.
- Investment Grade ("IG") and non-investment grade credit spreads compressed over period, reflecting solid demand for credit assets.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Exposure to US and European high yield and credit risk transfers
 - Security selection within agency MBS and IG credit
 - Exposure to US TIPS, emerging markets debt and municipal bonds
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Interest rate positioning
 - Exposure to financial hybrids
 - Underweight in IG credit

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- Over the reporting period, we increased exposure to agency MBS, US TIPS and CMBS.
- We reduced exposure to high yield, IG credit and municipal bonds.
- Looking ahead, we favor a quality bias to defend against economic weakness.

In a slowing environment, we see high quality as offering value relative to lower-rated issues, which have seen spreads pull in given the recently resilient economy. In contrast to trends in place since the Global Financial Crisis, we believe that monetary policy will be less forgiving, reinforcing the importance of credit research and attention to the underwriting of particular issuance. Such an environment, in our view will enhance the value that active managers can provide across the fixed income universe.

Sustainable Asia High Yield – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 0.60%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the JP Morgan ESG Asia Credit (JSEC JACI)– High Yield (Total Return, USD) (the "Index"), returned 1.47%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall market sentiment for Asia High Yield ("HY") markets was driven predominantly by developments in the China HY property sector, where positive momentum at the start of the year faded towards the end of the reporting period.
- The property sector is still waiting for more concrete support after the 16-point measures announced last year by authorities.
- In frontier sovereign space, Sri Lankan authorities unveiled domestic debt restructuring plans. These plans hint towards a more benign than expected restructuring for external creditors as well which resulted in positive price movements in Sri Lanka USD denominated bonds.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Security selection was a positive contributor over the reporting period.
 - Specifically, security selection within the Portfolio's allocation to India contributed positively, in addition to Sri Lanka, Macau and South Korea.
 - Regarding the above, key positioning highlights include the Portfolio's overweight stance to the Indian renewable energy sector, overweight to Macau, as well as the Portfolio's overweight to Sri Lanka on the expectation of higher recovery values compared to current market prices.
 - Overall yield curve positioning was also a marginal contributor to relative return.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Overall spread duration exposure was a detractor from relative returns.
 - The Portfolio's underweight position in financials and Local Government Funding Vehicles ("LGFVs") in China was a detractor to relative returns.
 - Elsewhere the Portfolio's underweight spread duration in Hong Kong detracted

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio increased allocation to the Philippines over the reporting period, including to the sovereign bonds (IG rated) as well as to selected corporates including attractive names in the Oil & Gas/Energy and Telecommunications sectors.
- The Portfolio also increased allocation to Macau based on a constructive view for tourist visitation recovery and a clear deleveraging path.
- In frontier sovereigns, the Portfolio increased allocation to Sri Lanka owing to higher recovery values compared to market pricing.

Half way through 2023, we believe that prospects for the asset class have turned more positive. In our opinion, with substantial monetary tightening behind us and inflation having likely peaked in both the US and in major Asian economies, pressures from rising rates should eventually abate and become a more two-sided risk going forward. In China, after the strong reopening bounce in the first quarter of 2023, sequential second quarter growth momentum has been sluggish. While default risks remain in Chinese HY credit due to renewed weakness in the property market, we anticipate Asian HY full year default rates to be lower in 2023 compared to 2022. While re-opening momentum is softening in China, we believe the official growth target of 5% to be met for 2023 and anticipate the broader China-related complex including Macau to benefit going forward.

We continue to hold Sri Lanka exposure after recent price upside and believe recovery values to be higher than current market prices. Elsewhere, we remain constructive on credit opportunities in particular across South and Southeast Asia including India given attractive fundamentals and valuations.

In our view, the key risks to our overall constructive view are either the unfolding of a global recession which would push emerging markets spreads materially wider, or an unexpected acceleration of inflation dynamics globally which could require substantially more rate hikes. While the potentially bumpy road to target inflation particularly in the US will likely take time and may cause further interest rate volatility, we believe valuations in Asian HY hard currency bonds are attractive here in both in absolute and relative terms compared to developed market credit.

Sustainable Emerging Market Corporate Debt – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 2.73%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the JPMorgan JESG CEMBI Broad Diversified Index (Total Return, USD), returned 3.61%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall market sentiment was driven by developments around inflation and monetary policy. China's reopening was a supportive theme while defaults were limited.
- US Treasury 10-year yields ended the period at 3.85%, roughly flat since the start of the year, however, saw significant volatility, the level of which was last seen in the 2008 financial crisis.
- The benchmark spreads tightened to 326bps from 334bps, with a peak of 376bps in March. Ukraine was the best performer with 46.50% return as some companies in the country continued to operate. The worst performer was Poland with -2.15%.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative returns:
 - Overweight exposure to Romania
 - Overweight exposure to the Argentine energy sector
 - Overweight to Indian renewables and commodities companies
- Detractors from relative returns:
 - Overweight to China, particularly in the real estate sector which continues to lag given limited policy support
 - Overweight to Brazil, as well as exposure to a chemical company that was downgraded as its weak first quarter earnings resulted in prices dropping significantly which has led to a liquidity squeeze
 - Underweight to Ukraine where a key company continues operating amid the war

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio added exposure to Hong Kong and Korea as well as the UAE. In return it reduced exposure to South Africa, where the operating environment has become more challenged. We also reduced exposure to China via the Information Technology and Industrials sectors.
- By sector, the Portfolio increased exposure to Financials as valuations remain attractive as well as Oil & Gas as companies even as oil prices came off their recent highs. We reduced exposure to the Consumer and Transport sectors relative to the beginning of the year as the reemergence of tourism following COVID restrictions faded across emerging markets ("EM").

We anticipate a positive environment for EM debt for the rest of the year, built on improved technicals, stable fundamentals and reasonably attractive valuations, coupled with the coming end to aggressive monetary policy in the US. Questions remain around China's stalled recovery, but we believe the country's 5% growth target remains achievable, even if only targeted and measured stimulus is deployed, as signaled by recent monetary policy easing. Chinese growth impacts across EM should be modest and uneven, but ultimately net positive.

The key risks to our constructive view are either the unfolding of a deep global recession which would push EM spreads materially higher, or an unexpected acceleration of inflation dynamics globally which would require substantially more rate hikes. Considering current yield levels for EM corporate bonds, we believe that those risks are well compensated for and we see valuations for EM corporates as attractive.

Sustainable Emerging Market Debt - Hard Currency – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 5.27%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the JPM ESG EMBI Global Diversified Index (Total Return, USD) (the "Index"), returned 3.91%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Overall market sentiment was driven by developments around inflation and monetary policy. China's reopening was a supportive theme while defaulted names continued to make progress toward a restructuring agreement with official and private creditors.
- US Treasury 10-year yields ended the period at 3.85%, roughly flat since the start of the year, however, they saw significant volatility, the level of which was last seen in the 2008 financial crisis.
- Emerging markets ("EM") ESG benchmark spreads tightened to 353 basis points ("bps") from 377bps, with a peak of 426bps in March. El Salvador was the best performer in the broad market index with a 57.84% return as its fiscal outlook improved. The worst performer was Ecuador with a -21.74% return as it faced heightened political volatility.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to total returns:
 - Country allocation overall, with overweights to high yield credits such as El Salvador, Sri Lanka, and Argentina, and absence from Egypt due to ESG criteria
 - Security selection was a net contributor
- Detractors from total returns:
 - Overweights to Ecuador and lower beta Morocco, and security selection in Ghana
 - Top-down positioning was a net detractor

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio maintained a high yield bias over investment grade credits. We added to our overweight allocations in Armenia, Colombia, El Salvador, and Serbia, which meet the environmental and social goals of the Portfolio and where we see resilience to tighter global funding conditions.
- We reduced our overweight allocation to Ecuador due to rising political risks and sold out of UAE sovereign bonds due to revised sustainability assessments.
- The allocation to EUR-denominated bonds was approximately 31.9% at the end of the reporting period.

We believe that prospects for the asset class look positive in the remainder of the year. With substantial monetary tightening behind us and inflation having likely peaked in both the US and in many emerging countries, we believe pressures from rising rates are moderating, providing relief for EM economies and markets. We anticipate default rates for sovereigns to decline to the low single digits in 2023, while increasing IMF engagement by different EM countries should support funding needs and reform agendas. The key risks to our constructive view are either the unfolding of a deep global recession which would push EM risk premia materially higher, or an unexpected acceleration of inflation dynamics globally which would require substantially more rate hikes.

Systematic Global Sustainable Value – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 8.08%. Over the same period, the MSCI ACWI (All Country World Index) Value (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Primary Index") and the MSCI All-Country World Index (ACWI) (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Secondary Index"), returned 4.25% and 13.93%, respectively. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Global equity markets rallied in the first half of 2023 led by growth stocks.
- Information Technology was the best performing sector fueled by artificial intelligence excitement in the second quarter.
- The US Federal Reserve Board ("Fed") paused the rate hike scheduled for June 2023, the first time the Fed has not raised rates at its meetings since March 2022. US inflation ended the reporting period at its lowest in two years as measured by the personal consumption expenditures price index.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Overweight in Information Technology
 - Security selection in Information Technology
 - Security selection within Communication Services
 - Security selection in US and Europe, excluding UK regions
 - Volatility, Momentum, and Quality factors
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Security selection within Health Care
 - Security selection within Emerging Markets

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio maintained a modest overweight in Information Technology with the majority of that exposure concentrated in the industries where we find most Value stocks in the sector, which were Semiconductors and Hardware.
- The Portfolio was positioned toward lower duration, profitable stocks while inflation has remained elevated, and rates continued to increase.

Looking ahead to the second half of 2023, we anticipate the US and most developed global economies to see declining growth despite stimulus programs like US President Biden's Inflation Reduction Act, that are aiming to combat an economic slowdown. The current inflationary environment has proved to be stickier than anticipated and with credit conditions tightening the portfolio is well positioned focusing on low duration, profitable stocks.

Tactical Macro – Investment Manager's Report

The Neuberger Berman Tactical Macro Fund launched on 30 June 2023. The Portfolio's objective is to achieve positive returns regardless of the market environment by identifying market pricing imbalances across a broad range of asset classes, markets and regions in a highly risk-managed framework. The Portfolio employs a discretionary, fundamental approach to global macro investing which seeks to take advantage of thematic drivers of assets based on current and forecasted macroeconomic trends and policies, as well as mispricings caused by investor behaviour and biases. In order to implement these views, and gain exposure to the investment themes identified, the strategy invests in highly liquid instruments, primarily financial derivatives (such as futures, forwards, swaps and options) on equity, fixed income, commodity and currency markets.

The Portfolio does not have a stated benchmark and is designed to be nimble and capture the highest reward-to-risk opportunities across the global opportunity set. Execution, sizing and ongoing monitoring is crucial to position-level and portfolio-level risk management.

Ultra Short Term Euro Bond – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the EUR I Accumulating Class was 1.92%. Over the same period, the ICE BofA 0-1 Year AAA Euro Government Index (Total Return, EUR) (the "Index") returned 0.79%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The first half of the year was marked by high volatility in bond yields following the rapid and substantial rise in key European Central Bank ("ECB") interest rates. The ECB policy kept its hawkish tone as there was no clear evidence that underlying inflation peaked. Moreover, the economy held up well the banking system turmoil, which was prompted by liquidity issues in some US regional banks.
- Such hawkish ECB policy led to a yield curve inversion. The German 3-month Treasury Bund yield rose significantly by 177 bps, from 1.56% in December 2022 to 3.33% in June 2023, its highest level since 2008. The German 2-year government bond yield rose significantly by 45 bps, from 2.74% to 3.19%, while the German 10-year government bond yield eased slightly by -17 bps, from 2.56% to 2.39%.
- Inflation prints for the eurozone drove the ECB policy and market moves. The headline inflation rate fell significantly from 9.2% in December 2022 to 5.5% in June 2023, a 16-month low, in the wake of the drop in energy prices. However, the core inflation rate, excluding energy and food, rose slightly during the half of the year from 5.2% in December 2022 to 5.4% in June 2023, after having peaked to 5.7% in March, driven up by the service component.
- German GDP growth for first quarter 2023 was down to -0.3% quarter-on-quarter following a -0.5% contraction in fourth quarter 2022.
- The better-than-expected economic growth in the south of Europe led to the outperformance of the peripheral government debts in the first six months of 2023. Also, credit spreads tightened in the reporting period, given better-than-expected companies' results and a supportive technical backdrop for credit. Indeed, the very high level of yields, which was not seen since 2009, coupled with the fact that the hiking cycle is close to an end, has increased investor's appetite for the bond market in the first half of 2023.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Long credit bias
 - Full utilisation of the Tactical sleeve of the Portfolio, which was around its upper limit until May: the Tactical sleeve allows the strategy to invest in high beta credit like high yield and corporate hybrids.
 - Long bias to asset backed securities ("ABS")
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Overweight to financials and exposure to REIT bonds
 - Steepener of rates curve (2-10 years)
 - Short on iTraxx Crossover

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- We kept a long bias on credit throughout the reporting period and we managed to add exposure during the month of March when, the stress in the banking sector, prompted a generalised spread widening in credit.
- We reduced exposure to ABS given strong performance of floating rate notes in a rising rates backdrop and switched into covered bonds or financials, to add convexity in the strategy.
- We started to reduce exposure to the high beta bonds held in the Portfolio's Tactical sleeve at the end of May.
- We progressively increased the average rating of the Portfolio to prepare the strategy for spreads volatility in the second part of the year.
- We actively managed duration through rates futures, capturing volatility and creating alpha.
- We progressively added a steepener trade in the strategy (2-10 years) as the rates curve is deeply inverted and could possibly normalise in the second part of the year.
- We actively managed a short on iTraxx Crossover to hedge the strategy from spreads widening.

Going forward, we plan to reduce further the Portfolio's Tactical sleeve market value percentage, aiming to bring down the Portfolio beta, following a strong spread rally in European credit in the first half of 2023. The idea is to have a lighter spread duration if spreads were to widen in the next few months. We do believe that central banks policy tightening is having an impact on the economy and sooner or later could have an impact on credit spreads as well. If this were to happen, the impact may be higher for high yield and subordinated bonds.

Uncorrelated Strategies – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was -7.69%. Over the same period, the Portfolio's benchmark, the ICE BofA US Dollar 3-Month Deposit Offered Rate Constant Maturity Index (Total Return, USD) (the "Index"), returned 2.32%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The first four months of the year were certainly a challenging period for the Portfolio, after which we have seen a quieter period of flat returns while trying to keep an eye on downside protection in the face of a powerful risk rally. While we are disappointed with recent returns, we also recall that as recently as last year, we saw the Portfolio benefit strongly from the higher interest rate environment and we fundamentally believe that the impact of tighter conditions should be a positive for us over the medium term.
- The return to positive P&L for Equity Market Neutral was welcome and bucked a long-term trend of under-performance; we think there is more to come here if the headline macro dominance over individual stock moves is slightly more muted, as was the case in May.
- The global equity rally over the second quarter of 2023 came in spite of further rises in bond yields and hawkish central bank activity; we had surprise 50 basis point hikes in the UK and Norway, a "hawkish pause" from the US Federal Reserve Board, a renewal of hikes in Canada and Australia, along with continued tightening in Switzerland, Sweden and from the European Central Bank. It is somewhat difficult to square up this restrictive policy with the low volatility and higher valuations we witnessed in equities – looking at the Cboe Volatility Index ("VIX") as a proxy for volatility, for example, we note that it ended June at the lowest levels since the pandemic.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Positive returns came from Insurance-Linked Securities over the reporting period.
 - Currency trading was the main contributor to returns in the second quarter.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Allocations to Trend Following, Volatility Relative Value, Short Term Trading, Global Macro, Equity Market Neutral and Statistical Arbitrage detracted.
 - The Portfolio returned -6.52% for the first quarter of 2023 with performance in March largely responsible for the negative returns over the quarter with all six core allocations detracting from performance, notably Short-Term Trading and Trend Following
 - For the second quarter, equities was the largest detractor, followed by credit and interest rate/bond trading.
 - Global Macro was the largest negative contributor in the second quarter, followed by Statistical Arbitrage, with smaller losses from Short Term Trading, Equity Market Neutral and Volatility Relative Value.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- Allocations to sub-advisers were unchanged over the first half of the year.
- Volatility Relative Value saw the continued benefit of some of our more "hard to access" dispersion trades, while we view the negative side of the ledger there via convertibles as potential future P&L and are also biding our time for generally higher levels of opportunity should equity volatility pick up.
- Trend Following has been able to find some stickier momentum to take advantage of in certain areas such as Japanese equity, albeit within our tailored risk limits.

We observe that the strategy has delivered some of its best returns historically in some of the most turbulent times for risk assets and 60/40 portfolios. Today, exposures are quite diversified and stress tests generally show positive tail outcomes.

It seems dissonant to us that after 500 basis points of interest rate hikes in the world's largest economy, equity pricing remains serene and volatility levels reflect a relaxed confidence around the ability of central banks to guide us through a bout of "short term" inflation and towards a gentle landing with minimal economic pain. With equities sitting on double digit gains for the first half and the VIX hitting new lows, it seems now more than ever appropriate to look for genuine diversifiers. Finally, we are excited about the pipeline of new ideas for the Portfolio for the second half, both in terms of new manager research and the opportunity set for the existing book.

Uncorrelated Trading* – Investment Manager's Report

For the period beginning 1 January 2023 through the Portfolio's close on 24 May 2023, the total return for the USD X Accumulating Class was -2.40%. Over the same period, the ICE BofA US Dollar 1-Month Deposit Offered Rate Constant Maturity Index (Total Return, USD) (the "Index") returned 1.82%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The first four months of the year were certainly a challenging period for the Portfolio, after which we saw a quieter period of flat returns while trying to keep an eye on downside protection in the face of a powerful risk rally.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- The reporting period was a challenging trading environment for all six of our core allocations for a wide variety of reasons. The year began with a loss in January, followed by slight positive performance in February, before the whipsawing markets seen in March left the Portfolio down on the quarter. The second quarter was more muted from a performance perspective, with negative returns in April, before the portfolio was fully de-risked throughout May.
- For the first quarter, the Portfolio returned -1.90% with performance in January largely responsible for the negative returns over the quarter. By strategy, our allocation to Equity Market Neutral was a positive contributor, with Short Term Trading, Volatility Relative Value and Statistical Arbitrage negative. All asset classes were down over the quarter, led by fixed income and followed by currency and equity trading.
- For the second quarter, the Portfolio returned -0.51% with April and May both down. By strategy, our allocation to Short Term Trading was flat, with Equity Market Neutral, Volatility Relative Value and Statistical Arbitrage negative. By asset class, credit and interest rate trading was positive, with equities and currencies negative.

US Equity – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 23.55%. Over the same period, the benchmark index, the S&P 500 Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index") returned 16.60%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any.)

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The economic climate during the first half of the year was shaped by a diverse array of factors, with US Federal Reserve (the "Fed") officials raising rates in both quarters.
- Despite the cautious economic outlook, markets continued to rally, despite a modest decrease in overall S&P 500 earnings due to margin compression from elevated costs.
- Meanwhile, mixed economic data continued to fuel market volatility, with the most severe fluctuations seen in short-dated treasury yield curves. The rapid pace of interest rate increases also led to asset-liability mismatching at several US regional banks, exacerbating macroeconomic stability concerns.
- Despite these challenges, optimism around advances in AI and encouraging corporate earnings reports, primarily driven by mega-cap technology companies, provided some respite.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - For the period, security selection was most positive in the Communication Services and Financials sectors.
 - The Portfolio's overweight to Information Technology and underweight to Energy was most additive to returns from an allocation perspective.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Stock selection in Consumer Discretionary and Information Technology sectors detracted from relative performance.
 - From an allocation perspective an overweight to cash detracted for the period.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- During the period, the Portfolio remained most overweight to Information Technology and underweight to Health Care as a result of company-specific factors while balancing overall portfolio risk factors.
- The Portfolio's cash decreased during the period as a result of attractive valuations and better profitability in certain sub-segments of the market.

As we move through 2023, we recognise the economy is slowing, while at the same time, it seems that some progress has been made by the Fed in the fight against inflation, and company earnings on average are coming in above expectations. Yet, commentary around decelerating consumer trends and heightened uncertainty offer a clear indication that the Fed's tightening cycle is having a real impact to the broader economy. However, despite this, the Fed has remained steadfast in its commitment to fighting inflation and has shown no indication to date that it will pivot and cut rates this year, an idea the market has finally begun to comprehend, as continued core inflation in certain categories such as food, as well as certain strong economic data, only support this ideal. However, until we have more clarity on the balance between higher rates, the progress against inflation and an economic slowdown, we anticipate continued market volatility. So, in the current environment, we believe the divergence in underlying companies' operating performance will be ever more apparent going forward. As always, we continue our efforts to best understand company and portfolio-specific factors as we believe this environment is flush with a confluence of fiscal policy considerations, monetary policy stimulus, public health concerns, geopolitical uncertainty, commodity price volatility, inflation dynamics and sequencing question marks. As market dynamics change, this can cause company market values to dislocate from their long-term potential values, creating a volatile environment with potential opportunities.

US Equity Index PutWrite – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 10.58%. Over the same period, a blended benchmark comprising of 50% Cboe S&P One-Week PutWrite Index and 50% Cboe S&P 500 PutWrite Index (collectively, the "Index") returned 10.92%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Fuelled by a US Federal Reserve Board ("Fed") 'pause' in raising rates, an avoidance of US debt default, and the bullish expectations for breakthrough Artificial Intelligence ("AI") technology, the S&P 500 Index returned 16.60% in the first half of 2023. Not to be outdone by its 'slower growth' cousin, the NASDAQ 100 Index soared 39.35%.
- Implied volatility levels continued to wane as investors found fewer near-term risks to contemplate. Despite its decline during the quarter, the Cboe Volatility Index ("VIX") 2023 average level of 18.56 remains in line with its long-term average. Much will be made of VIX's retreat towards the low teens, but much like Goldilocks' search for porridge, VIX is always too high or too low for investors and they may not always appreciate that the average VIX is usually 'just right'. More specifically, focusing on the current level of VIX neglects the fact that most option strategies generally seek to earn money not on a single VIX move higher or lower, but on average implied volatility levels as option premiums decay with time.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - The Fund's S&P 500 options sleeve produced an attractive 11.18% return (gross) versus the Cboe S&P 500 PutWrite Index (PUT) return of 12.54%. Over the same period, the Cboe S&P 500 One-Week PutWrite Index (WPUT) accumulated 9.30%. Meanwhile, the collateral portfolio gained 1.51% versus the ICE BofA 0-3M U.S. T-Bill Index return of 2.32%.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - There were no detractors to portfolio performance over the reporting period.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- The Portfolio's average option notional exposure over the period remained consistent with strategic target of 100% S&P 500 Index.

We anticipate collateral yield levels to remain attractive despite the pause by the Fed as the threat of inflation persists due to relatively resilient US economic forecasts. We feel investors remain divided on if/when the Fed will raise interest rates after their recent pause. We continue to believe the 'genie is out of the bottle' and rates will need to be higher for longer given the apparent strength of the US economy thus far. Higher rates have offered investors more income from their investment portfolios than they have seen in years. This income may increase spending which reinforces upward price pressures, in turn, increasing the likelihood of persistent inflation. One additional driver of inflation may come from a lack of skilled labor as the average age of skilled US laborers continues to climb due to years of workers choosing other career paths. This begs the question of how AI might push workers back towards more labor-oriented jobs. Regardless, these trends will not likely resolve themselves in a matter of quarters.

US Large Cap Value – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was -1.95%. Over the same period the benchmark index, the Russell 1000 Value Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index"), returned 4.76%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance, and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The equity market rallied sharply during the reporting period.
- The market overcame several headwinds, including persistently high inflation and another US Federal Reserve Board (the "Fed") rate hike, concerns that the economy could fall into a recession, contentious debt ceiling negotiations, turmoil in the regional banking industry, and several geopolitical events.
- Investor sentiment was generally positive, as the economy was resilient, inflation trended lower, and several of the uncertainties hanging over the market were resolved.
- All told, the S&P 500 Index returned 16.60% during the reporting period outperforming the Index, which returned 4.76%.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Security selection within Health Care (led by Health Care Equipment & Supplies)
 - Security selection within Consumer Staples (led by Food Products)
 - Underweight to the Financials sector
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Security selection within Industrials (driven by Machinery)
 - Security selection within Materials (driven by Metals & Mining)
 - Underweights to the Communication Services and Information Technology sectors

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- We made a number of adjustments on the margin throughout the reporting period.
- While the Portfolio's sector positioning is driven by bottom-up stock selection, at the end of the reporting period its largest overweight allocations versus the Index were Consumer Staples and Utilities. In contrast, the Portfolio's largest sector underweights relative to the Index were Financials and Consumer discretionary.

In recent times we have been evaluating the implications of a weaker economy and have become more cautious on our outlook, notably the outlook implied by weakening demand. As such, we have been assessing what is the appropriate risk for our holdings within the portfolio and which stocks look most attractive given that backdrop. Until recently, market participants welcomed signs of a slowing economy, hoping that it meant the Fed would halt its aggressive pace of rate hikes to tame inflation. But following recent banking turmoil, weakening incoming economic data points to the risk that the economy could fall into recession. If the Fed continues pausing rate hikes to support the economy, it could confirm, in a way, to investors that the economy is in a much worse situation than initially imagined, putting the central bank between a rock and a hard place in attempting to achieve its monetary policy objectives. We continue to be an active large-cap value manager, remaining disciplined and trying to position the portfolio in the best opportunities we see in the current environment.

US Long Short Equity – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 6.97%. Over the same period, the two benchmark indexes, the S&P 500 Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) and the HFRX Equity Hedge Index (Total Return, USD), returned 16.60% and 2.96% respectively. What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - For the period, equity longs outperformed the broader market from a total return perspective and generated a positive contribution to Portfolio returns.
 - Equity long security selection was most positive in Communication Services and Financials
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Market Short exposure – including broad-based market capitalisation, sector and style-specific hedges – detracted from overall Portfolio returns during the period.
 - Equity long security selection detracted most in Consumer Discretionary and Information Technology.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- During the period, net Portfolio exposure increased incrementally to ~40-45% net long, while gross notional exposure increased to the ~125-130% area.
- Total fundamental short exposure decreased during the period led by a decline in shorts in the Consumer Discretionary, Financials, Materials and Communication Services sectors.
- Market short exposure related to hedging activity decreased during the period.

US Multi Cap Opportunities – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return of the USD I Accumulating Class was 12.32%. Over the same period, the S&P 500 Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index") returned 16.60%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- US equities generated strong returns for the period.
- The US economy continues to demonstrate resiliency, highlighted by positive GDP growth and a robust labor market.
- The rate of inflation is decelerating.
- Overall, equity markets were momentum-driven, with Large-Cap growth and technology-oriented companies demonstrating disproportional outperformance. To highlight the concentrated nature of the year-to-date return composition, the return difference between the Index and the Equal-Weight S&P 500 Index is 986 basis points. The Information Technology sector returned over 45% and Large-Cap Growth returned approximately 29%. This compares to returns of approximately 5% for Value and 8% for Small-Cap indices.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - For the reporting period, the Portfolio generated strong performance on an absolute basis.
 - Year-to-date, equity market returns for the Index were predominately driven by the outsized performance of Large-Cap growth and technology-oriented companies; segments of the market where the Portfolio is underexposed.
 - The Portfolio's bottom-up process and flexible investment style provide the ability to create value for clients in environments in which stock price movements are driven by company fundamentals. The Portfolio outperformed in April and June of this year, two months in which equity market returns were broad-based.
 - Relative performance benefited from strong stock selection within the Consumer Staples, Financials, Health Care, Industrials, Materials, and Utilities sectors.
 - The Portfolio benefitted from overweight positions to the Communication Services and Consumer Discretionary sectors, and underweight positions to the Energy and Health Care sectors.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - The Portfolio's overweight position to Financials detracted, as did stock selection within the Communication Services and Consumer Discretionary sectors.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- At the end of the reporting period, the Portfolio was fully invested with approximately 1.0% transactional cash.
- The Portfolio finished the reporting period with an overweight in Consumer Discretionary, Financials, and Materials. The Portfolio completed the reporting period with an underweight in Health Care and Information Technology, and had no exposure to Real Estate.

The core of our investment process is an unwavering focus on a company's generation of free cash flow and its use by management. We believe free cash flow is a cleaner measure of value creation than income statement earnings, which may be obfuscated by various accounting methods. Our analysis considers the stability and sources of free cash flow generation, as well as the potential uses of this capital. This investment focus enables us to look across sectors, market capitalisations, and risk profiles to find opportunities.

We continue to apply disciplined fundamental research to identify high quality business models with attractive free cash flow characteristics trading at compelling valuations. As equity markets adapt to a more moderate set of expectations for economic growth, we believe our investment strategy has the ability to effectively navigate the dynamic market environment and create long-term value for clients. Challenged supply chains, inflationary pressures, higher interest rates, and ongoing shifts in consumer behaviour, allow businesses to differentiate themselves from peers with company specific solutions. The depth of our Storehouse of Knowledge remains robust.

We continue to identify attractive investment opportunities as equity market conditions evolve. In our view, with the recent investor focus on Large-Cap growth and technology oriented companies, many areas of the market and select companies have been overlooked. We believe this is creating the opportunity to identify differentiated, idiosyncratic investments. Furthermore, we believe the resilient US economy and decelerating rate of inflation provide a supportive backdrop for equities. We continue to maintain our discipline and remain focused on company-specific opportunities. We believe the Portfolio is well-positioned to benefit from an increased focus on underlying fundamentals.

As we evaluate both potential new positions and current portfolio holdings, we will continue to do so with a long-term investment perspective in mind. As always, our focus is to grow our clients' assets through the disciplined application of our investment philosophy and process.

US Real Estate Securities – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 2.42%. Over the same period, the Portfolio's benchmark index, the FTSE Nareit All Equity REITs Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index"), returned 2.32%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance, and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any.)

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The equity market rallied sharply during the six-month reporting period.
- The market overcame several headwinds, including persistently high inflation and another US Federal Reserve Bank (Fed) rate hike, concerns that the economy could fall into a recession, contentious debt ceiling negotiations, turmoil in the regional banking industry, and several geopolitical events.
- Investor sentiment was generally positive, as the economy was resilient, inflation trended lower, and several of the uncertainties hanging over the market were resolved.
- All told, the large-cap S&P 500 Index returned 16.60% during the reporting period. In contrast, the Index returned 2.32%. Real estate securities were negatively impacted by rising interest rates.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Security selection within Specialty
 - Security selection within Apartments
 - Underweights to the Office and Diversified sectors
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Security selection within Data Centers
 - Security selection within Shopping Centers
 - Underweight Data Centers and overweight Infrastructure REITS

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- While the Portfolio's sector positioning was mainly driven by bottom-up stock selection, at the end of the reporting period its largest overweight allocations versus the Index were Self Storage and Manufactured Homes. In contrast, the Portfolio's largest sector underweights relative to the benchmark were Office and Data Centers.

The failures of regional banks have led to increased concern that US regional banks' ability to lend to the real estate sector is likely impaired. Additionally, recent borrower defaults within the office sector have pushed the overall sentiment toward US commercial real estate largely negative. The effect on the listed REITs market is not expected to be pronounced, as REITs own mainly high-quality assets, maintain strong balance sheets, and tend to use the larger banks. However, REITs continue to be weighed down by negative news headlines that suggest otherwise. In our opinion, elevated cost of capital, paired with slowing fundamentals, will likely weigh on overall demand and earnings growth for REITs. Most REITs are prepared for a meaningful disruption to demand, with strong balance sheets, relatively low new construction activity and diverse demand drivers that lean more defensive. While we believe the macro backdrop could continue to weigh on the stocks, we will continue to focus on select companies with better fundamentals, diverse demand drivers and strong balance sheets that we believe can withstand increased market volatility.

US Small Cap – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class was 12.03%. Over the same period the benchmark index, the Russell 2000 Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) (the "Index"), returned 7.85%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- The equity market rallied sharply during the reporting period.
- The market overcame several headwinds during the period, including persistently high inflation, another US Federal Reserve Board (the "Fed") rate hike, concerns that tighter monetary policy could tip the economy into a recession, contentious debt ceiling negotiations, and turmoil in the regional banking industry. Despite all of this, the economy remained resilient and investor sentiment was generally positive, pushing the market higher, especially mega-cap technology stocks.
- All told, the Index returned 7.85% while the S&P 500 Index returned 16.60% for the reporting period.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Security selection within Health Care (led by Life Science Tools & Services)
 - Security selection within Specialty Retail (led by Specialty Retail)
 - Security selection within Information Technology (led by Software) and an overweight to the sector
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - Security selection within Financials (driven by Banks)
 - Security selection in Industrials (driven by Machinery)
 - Security selection in Communication Services (driven by Media)

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- We made a number of adjustments on the margin throughout the reporting period. While the Portfolio's sector positioning is driven by bottom-up stock selection, at the end of the reporting period its largest overweight allocations versus the Index were Information Technology and Industrials. In contrast, the Portfolio's largest sector underweights relative to the Index were Real Estate and Financials. The Fed remains squarely focused on restoring price stability with the goal of suppressing demand to bring inflation under control. Over the past few months, the inflation outlook has been mixed, with some forward-looking indicators suggesting an economic cooling while some general macroeconomic data suggesting continued resilience in the economy. Given this, the Fed's messaging continues to be that further tightening may be needed and indications are that there will be at least one more rate hike this year. Considering this backdrop, equity markets have remained highly sensitive to incoming inflation-related data points. Taking a step back, it is clear that markets have entered a meaningfully different regime than the one present during the last decade. Risk aversion has returned, access to financing has become harder, and the cost of capital has risen materially. Furthermore, recent events in the banking sector might cause financial conditions to tighten further as lending standards become more stringent. The risk of recession both in the US and globally has grown but by no means is a certainty.

With the macro trajectory clouded, we are striving to maintain balance in the Portfolio. We remain confident that our high-quality portfolio of businesses with attractive financial characteristics, differentiated and durable business models, and sustainable earnings growth is well positioned to weather these uncertain times and deliver above-average risk-adjusted returns.

US Small Cap Intrinsic Value – Investment Manager's Report

For the six month reporting period ended 30 June 2023, the total return for the USD I Accumulating Class shares was 8.93%. Over the same period the benchmark index, the Russell 2000 Value Index (Total Return, Net of Tax, USD) returned 2.17%. (Performance data quoted represent past performance and do not indicate future results. Total returns shown are net of all fees and expenses and include the reinvestment of income dividends and other distributions, if any).

Macroeconomic, market and asset class conditions during the reporting period

- Year to date performance favours larger capitalisation equities and growth stocks. Financials, value stocks and smaller companies continue to lag their counterparts.
- Undoubtedly the regional banking crises and fears of recession have undermined confidence in the banking sector while the upward move in interest rates has worked against dividend paying REIT's. On the flip side, enthusiasm for technology and growth equities is being driven by investor sentiment around artificial intelligence ("AI") applications like Chat GPT which many believe will usher in a new wave of innovation and growth.

What affected its performance during the reporting period

- Contributors to relative total returns:
 - Our overweight in technology and underinvestment in banks and REITs has served us well.
 - When you look at our better performers, several portfolio companies that are well-positioned to benefit from popular themes stand out. Rambus from the perception that AI applications will require faster processing. Clean energy will drive demand for hydrogen and the need for a more efficient electrical grid (KBR and Itron) and the growing popularity of gaming both online and in the casino will benefit International Game Technology.
- Detractors from relative total returns:
 - In spite of AI mania, not all our technology companies performed well. During the quarter, concerns mounted around over-ordering of technology hardware and systems, a slowdown in datacentre investment and the drawdown of backlogs. These fears pressured shares of Ciena, MACOM Technology Solutions, Infinera and Ribbon Communications.
 - For the period, our modest exposure to regional banks proved very expensive.

Overview of investment activities during the reporting period

- During the reporting period our new investments totalled five and eliminations four.
- For the last several quarters more of our activity has been rebalancing current holdings rather than new adds or sector repositioning. With greater clarity on the economic outlook, we would act more decisively but frankly, most economists and investment strategists we have listened to in the last year have been wrong. Economic growth continues to surprise to the upside, earnings have been more resilient than expected, and employment remains strong. The wild card remains the outlook for inflation. Although the worst has passed, improvement from current levels of just under five percent to the US Federal Reserve Board stated two percent target may prove elusive.
- We continue to engage with the Boards and management teams of several portfolio companies that have yet to generate positive returns but are selling at material discounts to our estimates of their intrinsic value. Generally speaking, we try to offer constructive advice around the company's messaging with a particular focus on setting long-term financial targets and helping companies craft better explanations for situations that investors may view as complex or confusing. In addition, when appropriate, we will provide short-term funding requirements to help companies in their turnaround. We remain guardedly optimistic that there is realisable alpha from these efforts but candidly, more patience will be required. Turnarounds typically have a greater chance of success earlier in an economic recovery than later and the current expansion is a bit long in the tooth.

Looking back, the unsettled feeling that many of us harbour is nothing new. In spite of the rancour and tension of the late 60's and 70's, the world, and our country somehow managed to move forward and stock markets appreciated dramatically. Had you succumbed to the negative sentiment then and de-emphasised stocks in your portfolios in favour of fixed income, the results would have been disastrous. A $10,000 investment in equities grew almost nine times more than the same investment in fixed income securities during the period from January 1, 1976 through June 30, 2023.

We're not suggesting that today's challenges aren't daunting, and we can't decidedly say whether the first half of 2023 market rally is a bear trap or the beginning of a new bull market. But, as we lurch between war, banking crises and inflation there will be winners and losers and more often than not, investors with patience and discipline will be rewarded for the risk and volatility they underwrite.

We're happy to see the portfolio recover from last year and remain guardedly optimistic that many companies in the portfolio remain significantly undervalued. We look forward to our next communication and as always are deeply committed to growing your investment with us at an attractive long-term rate.

NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED ABRIDGED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

FOR THE SIX MONTH PERIOD ENDED 30 JUNE 2023

1. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The significant accounting policies adopted by Neuberger Berman Investment Funds plc (the "Company") are as follows:

Basis of Preparation of Financial Statements

The financial statements presented are unaudited abridged financial statements for the six month period ended 30 June 2023. They have been prepared in accordance with Financial Reporting Standard ("FRS") 104: 'Interim Financial Reporting' issued by the Financial Reporting Council ("FRC"). The unaudited abridged financial statements should be read in conjunction with the financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2022 which were prepared in accordance with accounting standards generally accepted in Ireland, Irish Statute comprising the Companies Act 2014 (as amended), the European Communities (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations, 2011 as amended and the Central Bank (Supervision and Enforcement) Act 2013 (section 48(1)) (Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities) Regulations 2019 (the "Central Bank UCITS Regulations"). They have been prepared in accordance with FRS 102: 'The financial reporting standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland'. Accounting standards generally accepted in Ireland in preparing financial statements giving a true and fair view are those published by the Institute of Chartered Accountants in Ireland and issued by the FRC.

The financial statements are prepared under the historical cost convention as modified by the revaluation of the financial assets and financial liabilities held at fair value through profit and loss. Valuation time is market close on the relevant dealing day. The dealing day is each business day or such other day as the Directors may determine and notify to the administrator and to the shareholders in advance. The Directors have made an assessment of the Company's ability to continue as a going concern and are satisfied that the Company has the resources to continue in business for the foreseeable future and at least 12 months from the date these financial statements were approved. Furthermore, the Directors are not aware of any material uncertainties that may cast significant doubt upon the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. Therefore, the financial statements are prepared on the going concern basis.

The format and certain wordings of the financial statements have been adapted from those contained in the Companies Act 2014 (as amended) and FRS 102 so that, in the opinion of the Directors, they more appropriately reflect the nature of the Company's business as an investment fund. The Company meets the criteria to avail of the exemption available to certain open-ended investment funds under FRS 102 not to prepare a cash flow statement.

Distribution Policy

The Directors have determined to accumulate all net investment income and net realised capital gains attributable to the Accumulating Classes and therefore do not intend to declare dividends in respect of shares in such classes.

Source of Distributions

Pursuant to the Articles, the Directors may declare dividends, in respect of any shares out of net income (including dividend and interest income) and/or the excess of realised and unrealised capital gains over realised and unrealised losses in respect of investments of the Company (collectively "Net Income") and also out of capital. Dividends paid out of capital amount to a return or withdrawal of part of a shareholder's original investment or from any capital gains attributable to that original investment. Such dividends may result in an immediate decrease in the NAV of the relevant shares.

It is the current intention of the Directors, subject to any de minimis threshold, to declare and pay as a dividend at least 85% of the Net Income attributable to each of the Distributing Classes, other than (i) the (Weekly) Distributing Classes; (ii) the (Monthly) Distributing Classes; (iii) the (CG) Distributing Classes and (iv) such other Distributing Classes in a Portfolio which are specified in the relevant Supplement to pay dividends out of capital and Net Income. However, shareholders should note that the Directors may, in their discretion, decide not to make such declaration and payment in respect of a Distributing Class.

In respect of the (Weekly) Distributing Classes, the (Monthly) Distributing Classes and the (CG) Distributing Classes, the Directors intend to declare and pay a weekly, monthly or semi-annual dividend, respectively, attributable to the shares of each such class out of a combination of Net Income and capital, so that where Net Income during the relevant period is less than the amount declared, the balance will be paid of the capital represented by the relevant shares, which will enable the classes to distribute regular, set dividends. In the event that the Net Income attributable to the (Weekly) Distributing Classes, the (Monthly) Distributing Classes or the (CG) Distributing Classes exceeds the amount declared during the relevant period, the excess of Net Income over this amount will be retained in a distribution account in respect of the relevant shares and will form part of the dividend payable in respect of the succeeding distribution period. While the foregoing represents the Directors' current intention in respect of the declaration and payment of dividends in respect of the (Weekly) Distributing Classes, the (Monthly) Distributing Classes and the (CG) Distributing Classes, the Directors may in their discretion decide not to make such declaration and payment and there is no guarantee that any such dividends will be paid.

The Company is an investment company with variable capital due to its ability to issue and redeem shares on demand. The share capital of the Company is divided into different series of shares with each series of shares representing a separate investment portfolio of assets. The Portfolios manage capital in accordance with the UCITS Regulations and the investment objectives and policies applicable to such Portfolio as specified in this Prospectus and the relevant Supplement. The Portfolios are not subject to externally imposed capital requirements. While the Portfolios invest in transferable securities and other liquid financial assets, the Manager also employs an appropriate liquidity risk oversight process, which takes into account efficient portfolio management transactions employed by the Portfolios, in order that each Portfolio is able to comply with its stated redemption terms and conditions.

In order to mitigate potential liquidity risks, the Manager tailors its controls to different investment strategies, liquidity terms and historic client behaviour. As part of its risk oversight, the Manager may employ various liquidity tests, the results of which may lead to a variety of possible solutions, including adjusting asset composition, drawing on applicable overdraft or credit facilities or taking other appropriate actions that would maintain an acceptable level of liquidity. Any Portfolio specific arrangements will be reviewed by the Manager’s risk function, portfolio managers of the relevant Portfolio, Chief Investment Officer of the Manager as well as the board of directors of the Manager and the Directors. The Manager’s risk team stress-tests each Portfolio on a regular basis in the context of portfolio composition and current/potential market conditions. Stress scenarios are run at different hypothetical redemption levels and the ability of the Portfolios to meet redemption requests in an orderly fashion at these levels are evaluated. Should analysis reveal that any of the Portfolios have low liquidity coverage ratios, conversation and steps are taken by the Manager’s risk team and the portfolio team to evaluate these risks and the best way to mitigate them. In addition, daily liquidity buffer reports are monitored to gauge the liquidity risk of each Portfolio. Furthermore, market liquidity factors are monitored in order to capture potential anomalies in market liquidity.

There were 2 Subscriber Shares in issue at 30 June 2023 and 31 December 2022. The Manager may waive all or part of its fees in order to cap the Portfolios' Total Expense Ratios ("TERs"). These fee waivers are voluntary and may be discontinued by the Manager at any time without prior notice. Fees voluntarily waived are not subject to recovery by the Manager. A breakdown of the Portfolios' TERs is provided in Appendix I.

The Company will pay Administration Fees which shall not exceed 0.20% per annum of the NAV of the relevant Portfolio. The Administration Fee shall comprise of a fee payable to the Administrator in respect of the administration services which it provides for each Portfolio and a fee payable to the Manager in respect of the administrative support services which it provides for each Portfolio and will accrue monthly and be payable monthly in arrears.

The Company pays/paid administration fees to the Administrator based on the value of month-end net assets of Uncorrelated Strategies and Uncorrelated Trading at the following rates:

Assets from US$ 0 - US$ 500 million	0.055%
Between US$ 500 - US$ 2,000 million	0.05%
Above US$ 2,000 million	0.04%

FOR THE SIX MONTH PERIOD ENDED 30 JUNE 20235. MANAGEMENT, ADMINISTRATION, DISTRIBUTION AND DEPOSITARY FEES (CONTINUED)

The Company pays administration fees to the Administrator based on the value of month-end net assets of each of the remaining Portfolios administered by the Administrator at the following rates:

Assets from US$ 0 - US$ 25,000 million	0.008%
Above US$ 25,000 million	0.005%

The above fees are subject to a minimum monthly fee of US$ 4,000 per Portfolio and inclusive of four share classes per Portfolio. Any Portfolio which has in excess of four share classes will be charged a monthly fee of US$ 150 per each additional share class.

In addition, the Administrator is entitled to a further fee in respect of transfer agency services provided to the Portfolios.

In respect of the B Shares, C Shares, E Shares, C1 Shares and C2 Shares in each Portfolio, the Manager and/or the relevant Distributor shall be entitled to a distribution fee at the annual rate of 1.00% of the NAV of the relevant Classes in respect of the distribution services provided to such Classes, which shall accrue daily and be payable monthly in arrears at the end of each calendar month. In respect of the M Shares in each Portfolio, the Manager and/or the relevant Distributor shall be entitled to a distribution fee at an annual rate expressed as a percentage of the NAV of the relevant Classes in respect of the distribution services provided to such Classes, which shall accrue daily and be payable monthly in arrears at the end of each calendar month. The rate of such distribution fee varies between Portfolios and is disclosed in the Supplement for each Portfolio. In respect of all other Classes, the Manager may pay the Distributor a fee (which shall be at normal commercial rates), in respect of its distribution services, which shall also be payable out of the Management Fee.

Non-Affiliated Sub-Adviser fees

The fees paid to the Non-Affiliated Sub-Advisers appointed by the Manager and/or the Sub-Investment Manager, with the exception of Green Court Capital Management Limited and the sub-advisers on Uncorrelated Strategies, will be paid out of the assets of the Portfolio. The aggregate fees paid to all advisers were between 0.65% and 1.50% of the NAV of the Portfolio. The aggregate adviser fee for the six month period ended 30 June 2023 was US$ 1,145,544 (30 June 2022: US$ 30,627).

Performance Fees

For the period ended 30 June 2023 a performance fee is being calculated on US Long Short Equity, Global High Yield SDG Engagement, Event Driven, Tactical Macro, Uncorrelated Strategies and Uncorrelated Trading.

Performance Fee paid to the Manager and a Sub-Investment Manager

The Manager and a Sub-Investment Manager may be entitled to receive a performance fee (the "Performance Fee") payable out of the Portfolio's assets in respect of each PF Class in the relevant Portfolio. The Depositary shall verify the calculation of the Performance Fee. The Directors may, with the consent of the Manager, reduce the Performance Fee payable by any Class of Shares. Performance fees are payable on realised and unrealised capital gains taking into account realised and unrealised losses at the end of the Calculation Period defined below for each applicable Portfolio. Consequently, performance fees may be paid on unrealised gains which may subsequently never be realised.

Shareholders should note that, as the Performance Fee is calculated at Class level and not at an individual Shareholder level, they may be charged a Performance Fee even where the NAV of their Shares has remained the same or dropped, for example, where Shareholders purchase or redeem Shares at points other than the start and end of the Calculation Period.

If the Management Agreement or a Sub-Investment Manager is terminated before the end of a Calculation Period in any year the performance fee in respect of the then current Calculation Period will be calculated and paid as though the date of termination were the end of the relevant Calculation Period.

The performance fee will be accrued in the NAV on each Dealing Day and will normally be payable to the Manager or a Sub-Investment Manager in arrears within 30 Business Days of the end of each Calculation Period. However, in the case of Shares redeemed during a Calculation Period, the accrued performance fee in respect of those Shares will be payable to the Manager or a Sub-Investment Manager within 30 Business Days of the date of redemption. Crystallised performance fees shall remain in the relevant Class (but shall not participate in subsequent gains and losses of the relevant Class) until paid to the Manager or a Sub-Investment Manager and shall not be used or made available to satisfy redemptions or pay any fees and expenses of the relevant Class.

The methodology used to calculate the Performance Fee for each applicable Portfolio is as follows:

US Long Short Equity

The Manager may be entitled to receive a performance fee payable out of the Portfolio's assets in respect of each PF Class in the Portfolio.

Definitions

Calculation Period	The Calculation Period shall normally run from 1 January to 31 December in each year except that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • in the case of the initial issue of Shares in each PF Class, the first Calculation Period will run from the date of issue to 31 December; • in the case of the termination of a PF Class, the Calculation Period will terminate on the date of the termination; and • in the case of the termination of the Management Agreement in any year, the Calculation Period will terminate on the date of the termination. The first value used in determining the first Performance Fee for a PF Class shall be the Initial Offer Price.
Crystallisation	The point at which any Performance Fee becomes payable to the Manager. Crystallisation will occur either at the end of the Calculation Period or on a Dealing Day on which a Shareholder redeems or exchanges all or part of its Shareholding.
High Water Mark	The greater of: (i) the initial offer price per Share; and (ii) the NAV per share at the end of any previous Calculation Period in respect of which a Performance Fee was paid.

Methodology

For each Calculation Period, a Performance Fee in respect of each PF Class in issue becomes due in the event that the NAV per share at the end of the Calculation Period exceeds the High Water Mark for that particular PF Class.

The Performance Fee will be calculated on each Dealing Day and will be equal to 15% of the amount by which the percentage growth in the NAV per share over the Calculation Period exceeds that of the High Water Mark. The Performance Fee will be accrued on each Dealing Day and will form part of the NAV per share for each PF Class where applicable. Any Performance Fee accrual on a Dealing Day will be superseded by any accrual made on the following Dealing Day up to the last Dealing Day of the Calculation Period.

In all cases the NAV per share used in the calculation of the Performance Fee is unswung, i.e. it does not include any adjustment for swing pricing.

No Performance Fee will be paid until the NAV per share exceeds the High Water Mark and such fee is only payable on the outperformance of the NAV per share over the Hurdle Rate as described above.

Shareholders should note that, as the Performance Fee is calculated at Class level and not at an individual Shareholder level, they may be charged a Performance Fee even where the NAV of their shares has remained the same or dropped, for example, where Shareholders purchase or redeem Shares at points other than the start and end of the Calculation Period.

The Performance Fee will be accrued in the NAV on each Dealing Day and will normally be payable to the Manager in arrears within 30 Business Days of the end of each Calculation Period. However, in the case of Shares redeemed during a Calculation Period, the accrued performance fee in respect of those Shares will be payable to the Manager within 30 Business Days of the date of redemption.

The Depositary shall verify the calculation of the Performance Fee.

The Directors may, with the consent of the Manager, reduce the Performance Fee payable by any PF Class. Performance Fees are payable on realised and unrealised capital gains, which for the avoidance of doubt includes investment income, taking into account realised and unrealised losses at the end of the Calculation Period. Consequently, Performance Fees may be paid on unrealised gains which may subsequently never be realised.

There were no performance fees paid to the Manager by the Portfolio for the period ended 30 June 2023 and 30 June 2022.

Methodology

For each Calculation Period, a Performance Fee in respect of each PF Class in issue becomes due in respect of any Outperformance, i.e. the excess performance of the NAV per share over the performance of the Benchmark applicable to that particular PF Class during the Calculation Period. The Percentage Fee will be calculated on each Dealing Day and will be equal to 20% of the Outperformance applicable to that particular PF Class over the same period.

Methodology (continued)

In the event that the performance of a PF Class over a Calculation Period is less than that of the Benchmark, no Performance Fee shall be payable in respect of that PF Class until such cumulative underperformance relative to its Benchmark has been recovered.

In the event that the PF Class has achieved Outperformance over a Calculation Period, a Performance Fee shall be payable in respect of that PF Class. Upon payment the Benchmark will be reset, this process ensures the NAV per share and the Benchmark start from the same place at the start of the calculation period. Accordingly for the next Calculation Period the commencing Benchmark value will equal the NAV in respect of the PF Class on which the Performance Fee was paid i.e. if the NAV were to equal 110 the commencing Benchmark Value would also equal 110.

The Benchmark is a widely used benchmark for short-term interest rates, providing an indication of the average rates at which banks could obtain wholesale, unsecured funding for set periods in particular currencies.

For Classes denominated in currencies other than those provided for above, the Benchmark will be the ICE BofA US Dollar 3-Month Deposit Offered Rate Constant Maturity Index (Total Return, USD) hedged to the relevant class currency, as this better reflects an appropriate comparator for investors in those Classes.

Methodology

For each Calculation Period, a Performance Fee in respect of each Class in issue becomes due in respect of any Outperformance, i.e. the excess performance of the Net Asset Value per Share (net of all costs before the deduction of any accrued Performance Fee, provided that in doing so it is in the Shareholder's best interest) over the performance of the Benchmark applicable to that particular Class during the Calculation Period. The Performance Fee will be calculated on each Dealing Day and will be up to 20% of the Outperformance applicable to that particular Class over the same period.

In the event that the performance of a Class over a Calculation Period is less than that of the Benchmark, no Performance Fee shall be payable in respect of that Class until such cumulative underperformance relative to its Benchmark has been recovered.

In the event that the Class has achieved Outperformance over a Calculation Period, a Performance Fee shall be payable in respect of that Class. Upon payment the Benchmark will be reset, this process ensures the Net Asset Value per Share and the Benchmark start from the same place at the start of the calculation period. Accordingly for the next Calculation Period, the commencing Benchmark value will equal the Net Asset Value in respect of the Class on which the performance fee was paid i.e. if the Net Asset Value were to equal 110 at the end of a Calculation Period in which a Performance Fee was paid, the Benchmark value at the start of the following Calculation Period would also equal 110.

Shareholders should note that, as the Performance Fee is payable on the outperformance over the Benchmark, they may be charged a Performance Fee where the Net Asset Value of their Shares has declined but to a lesser extent than the Benchmark.

Shareholders should note that, as the Performance Fee is calculated at Class level and not at an individual Shareholder level and as no series accounting is applied in respect of the Performance Fee, they may be charged a Performance Fee even where the Net Asset Value of their Shares has remained the same or dropped, for example, where Shareholders purchase or redeem Shares at points other than the start and end of a Calculation Period.

The Performance Fee will be calculated and accrued daily as at each Valuation Point. The Performance Fee is calculated on the unswung Net Asset Value per Share, i.e. before any adjustment for swing pricing (for more information on "swing pricing" please see the "Determination of Net Asset Value – Adjustments of Valuations and Swing Pricing" section of the Prospectus).

The Performance Fee will normally be payable to the Sub-Investment Manager in arrears within 30 Business Days of 31 December each year. However, in the event of the Crystallisation of the Performance Fee during a Calculation Period, the accrued Performance Fee in respect of such amounts will be payable within 30 Business Days of the end of the calendar quarter during which the Crystallisation occurred.

JPY Hedged Classes	ICE BofA US Dollar 3-Month Deposit Offered Rate Constant Maturity Index (Total Return - JPY Hedged)

The Benchmark is a widely used benchmark for short-term interest rates, providing an indication of the average rates at which banks could obtain wholesale, unsecured funding for set periods in particular currencies.

For Classes denominated in currencies other than those provided for above, the Benchmark will be the ICE BofA US Dollar 3-Month Deposit Offered Rate Constant Maturity Index (Total Return, USD) hedged to the relevant class currency.

Methodology

For each Calculation Period, a Performance Fee in respect of each Class in issue becomes due in respect of any Outperformance, i.e. the excess performance of the Net Asset Value per Share (net of all costs before the deduction of any accrued Performance Fee, provided that in doing so it is in the Shareholder's best interest) over the performance of the Benchmark applicable to that particular Class during the Calculation Period. The Performance Fee will be calculated on each Dealing Day and will be up to 20% of the Outperformance applicable to that particular Class over the same period.

In the event that the performance of a Class over a Calculation Period is less than that of the Benchmark, no Performance Fee shall be payable in respect of that Class until such cumulative underperformance relative to its Benchmark has been recovered.

In the event that the Class has achieved Outperformance over a Calculation Period, a Performance Fee shall be payable in respect of that Class. Upon payment the Benchmark will be reset; this process ensures the Net Asset Value per Share and the Benchmark start from the same place at the start of the calculation period. Accordingly for the next Calculation Period, the commencing Benchmark value will equal the Net Asset Value in respect of the Class on which the performance fee was paid i.e. if the Net Asset Value were to equal 110 at the end of a Calculation Period in which a Performance Fee was paid, the Benchmark value at the start of the following Calculation Period would also equal 110.

Shareholders should note that, as the Performance Fee is payable on the outperformance over the Benchmark, they may be charged a Performance Fee where the Net Asset Value of their Shares has declined but to a lesser extent than the Benchmark.

Shareholders should note that, as the Performance Fee is calculated at Class level and not at an individual Shareholder level, they may be charged a Performance Fee even where the Net Asset Value of their Shares has remained the same or dropped, for example, where Shareholders purchase or redeem Shares at points other than the start and end of a Calculation Period.

The Performance Fee will be calculated and accrued daily as at each Valuation Point. The Performance Fee is calculated on the unswung Net Asset Value per Share, i.e. before any adjustment for swing pricing (for more information on "swing pricing" please see the "Determination of Net Asset Value – Adjustments of Valuations and Swing Pricing" section of the Prospectus).

The Performance Fee will normally be payable to the Sub-Investment Manager in arrears within 30 Business Days of 31 December each year. However, in the event of the Crystallisation of the Performance Fee during a Calculation Period, the accrued Performance Fee in respect of such amounts will be payable within 30 Business Days of the end of the calendar quarter during which the Crystallisation occurred.

Crystallised Performance Fees shall remain in the Portfolio until paid to the Sub-Investment Manager and shall not participate in subsequent gains and losses of the Portfolio. Crystallised Performance Fees shall not be used or made available to satisfy redemptions or pay any fees and expenses of the Portfolio or the Company (other than Performance Fees payable to the Sub-Investment Manager).

The Depositary shall verify the calculation of any Performance Fee and ensure that it is not open to the possibility of manipulation.

Performance Fees are payable on realised and unrealised capital gains, which for the avoidance of doubt includes investment income, taking into account realised and unrealised losses at the end of the Calculation Period. Consequently, Performance Fees may be paid on unrealised gains which may subsequently never be realised.

There were no Performance Fees earned by the Sub-Investment Manager in the period under review. Up to 31 December 2022, the advisers appointed by the Sub-Investment Manager ("Non-Affiliated Sub-Advisers") were entitled to receive a performance fee. 10. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENT DISCLOSURES

Fair Value of Investments

FRS 102 Section 11.27 on "Fair Value: Disclosure" requires disclosure relating to the fair value hierarchy in which fair value measurements are categorised for assets and liabilities. The disclosures are based on a three-level fair value hierarchy for the inputs used in valuation techniques to measure fair value.

The Company has classified fair value measurements using a fair value hierarchy that reflects the significance of the inputs used in making the measurements. The three levels of the fair value hierarchy under FRS 102 are described below:

Level 1 – Unadjusted quoted prices in active markets that are accessible at the measurement date for identical unrestricted assets or liabilities;

Level 2 – Inputs other than quoted prices included in Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly (as prices) or indirectly (derived from prices);

Level 3 – Inputs for the asset or liability that are not based on observable market data (unobservable inputs). Pricing inputs are unobservable for the investment and include situations where there is little, if any market activity for the instrument. The inputs into the determination of fair value require significant management, judgement or estimation. As observable prices are not available for these securities, the Portfolios would have used valuation techniques to derive the fair value if applicable.

The level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurement is categorised in its entirety is determined on the basis of the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety. For this purpose, the significance of an input is assessed against the fair value measurement in its entirety. For example, if a fair value measurement uses observable inputs that require significant adjustment based on unobservable inputs, that measure is a Level 3 measurement.

Assessing the significance of a particular input to the fair value measurement in its entirety requires judgement in considering the factors specific to the asset or liability.

Determining what constitutes "observable" requires judgment and is considered by the Manager's valuation committee.

The value of the Portfolios' investments in equity securities, exchange-traded funds, warrants, exchange-traded options purchased and written, for which market quotations are readily available, is generally determined by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services based on the latest sale price quoted on a principal exchange or market for that security (Level 1 inputs). Securities traded primarily on the NASDAQ Stock Market are normally valued at the NASDAQ Official Closing Price ("NOCP") provided by NASDAQ each business day. The NOCP is the most recently reported price as of 4:00:02 p.m., Eastern Time, unless that price is outside the range of the "inside" bid and asked prices (i.e., the bid and asked prices that dealers quote to each other when trading for their own accounts); in that case, NASDAQ will adjust the price to equal the inside bid or asked price, whichever is closer. Because of delays in reporting trades, the NOCP may not be based on the price of the last trade to occur before the market closes. If there is no sale of a security on a particular day, the independent pricing services may value the security based on market quotations.

The value of participatory notes is determined by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services based on the underlying equity security and applicable exchange rate (Level 1 inputs).

The value of the Portfolios' investments in debt securities is determined primarily by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services based on readily available mid quotations, or if quotations are not available, by methods which include various considerations based on security type (generally Level 2 inputs). If there is more than one quote security available, security is classified as Level 2. In addition to the consideration of yields or prices of securities of comparable quality, coupon, maturity and type, indications as to values from dealers, and general market conditions, the following is a description of other Level 2 inputs and related valuation techniques used by independent pricing services to value certain types of debt securities held by the Portfolios:

Corporate Bonds. Inputs used to value corporate debt securities generally include relevant credit information, observed market movements, sector news, US Treasury yield curve or relevant benchmark curve, and other market information, which may include benchmark yield curves, reported trades, broker-dealer quotes, issuer spreads, comparable securities, and reference data, such as market research publications, when available ("Other Market Information").

Convertible Bonds. Inputs used to value convertible bonds (including CoCos) generally include underlying stock data, conversion premiums, listed bond and preferred stock prices and Other Market Information, which may include benchmark curves, trade execution data, and sensitivity analysis, when available.

U.S. Treasury Obligations. Inputs used to value U.S. Treasury securities generally include quotes from several inter-dealer brokers and Other Market Information.

10. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENT DISCLOSURES (CONTINUED)

U.S. Government Agency Securities. Inputs used to value U.S. Government Agency securities generally include obtaining benchmark quotes and Other Market Information.

Asset-Backed Securities and Mortgage-Backed Securities. Inputs used to value asset-backed securities and mortgage-backed securities generally include models that consider a number of factors, which may include the following: prepayment speeds, cash flows, spread adjustments and Other Market Information.

Collateralised Loan Obligations (CLOs): The value of collateralised loan obligations is primarily determined by cash flow data, relevant loan pricing data and market color, and research from market participants and trading desks (Level 2 or 3 inputs).

High Yield Securities. Inputs used to value high yield securities generally include a number of observations of equity and credit default swap curves related to the issuer and Other Market Information.

Emerging Markets Debt and Foreign Government Securities. Inputs used to value emerging markets debt and foreign government securities generally include dealer quotes, bond market activity, discounted cash flow models, and other relevant information such as credit spreads, benchmark curves and Other Market Information.

The value of term loans is determined primarily by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services based on broker quotes (generally Level 2 or Level 3 inputs depending on the number of quotes available).

The value of futures contracts is determined by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services at the settlement price at the market close (Level 1 inputs).

The value of forward foreign currency contracts is determined by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services based on actual traded currency rates on independent pricing services' networks, along with other traded and quoted currency rates provided to the pricing services by leading market participants (Level 2 inputs).

The value of credit default swaps is determined by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services using a model that considers a number of factors, which may include default probabilities, credit curves, recovery rates and cash flows (Level 2 or 3 inputs).

The value of inflation swaps is determined primarily by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services based on references to the underlying inflation rates including forward inflation expectation rate and the respective interbank offered forward rate to produce the daily price. The present value is calculated based off of expected cash flows based on swap parameters along with reference to the underlying forward inflation curve and reference rate (Level 2 inputs).

The value of interest rate swaps is determined primarily by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services based on references to the underlying rates including the local overnight index swap rate and the respective interbank offered forward rate to produce the daily price. The present value is calculated based off of expected cash flows based on swap parameters along with reference to the underlying yield curve and reference rate (Level 2 inputs).

The value of total return swaps is determined by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services using the underlying asset and stated benchmark interest rate (Level 2 inputs).

The value of cross currency swaps is determined by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services based on present value of expected cash flows based on swap parameters along with reference to the underlying yield curve and reference rate (Level 2 inputs).

The value of volatility swaps is determined primarily by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services and is based on a predetermined volatility level versus the actual amount of volatility realised over a period data of the reference asset (Level 2 or 3 inputs).

The value of variance swaps is determined primarily by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services and is based on the historical realised and expected future variance (or fair variance) of the reference asset (Level 2 or 3 inputs).

The value of correlation swaps is determined primarily by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services and is based on the difference in the realised correlation and a fixed correlation value (Level 2 or 3 inputs).

The value of contracts for difference ("CFD") is determined primarily by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services, which are based on references to the underlying asset and the stated reference rate (Level 2 or 3 inputs).

The value of swaptions is determined by obtaining valuations from independent pricing services or counterparty pricing source (Level 2 inputs).

Option contracts that are traded over-the-counter are generally valued on the basis of quotations provided by broker dealers or prices provided by independent pricing services who use a series of techniques including simulated pricing models and/or curve fitting (bootstrapping), which aids in determining the present value of the contracts. The pricing models use inputs that are observed from actively quoted markets such as issuer details, indices, spreads, interest rates, yield curves, credit curves, volatility surfaces, and exchange rates (Level 2 inputs).

Certificates of deposit are valued at amortised cost (Level 2 inputs).

Reverse repurchase agreements are evaluated at par, by pricing services (Level 2 inputs).

The Manager has appointed a valuation committee, which reviews independent pricing service providers across all relevant types of securities.

Investments in non-exchange traded investment companies are valued using the respective fund's daily calculated net asset value ("NAV") per share (Level 2 inputs).

If a valuation is not available from an independent pricing service, or if the Manager has reason to believe that the valuation received does not represent the amount a Portfolio might reasonably expect to receive on a current sale in an orderly transaction, the Manager seeks to obtain quotations from brokers or dealers (generally considered Level 2 or Level 3 inputs depending on the number of quotes available). If such quotations are not available, the security is valued using methods the Board of Directors has approved in the good-faith belief that the resulting valuation will reflect the fair value of the security.

Inputs and assumptions considered in determining the fair value of a security based on Level 2 or Level 3 inputs may include, but are not limited to, the type of the security; the initial cost of the security; the existence of any contractual restrictions on the security's disposition; the price and extent of public trading in similar securities of the issuer or of comparable companies; quotations or evaluated prices from broker-dealers and/or pricing services; information obtained from the issuer and/or analysts; an analysis of the company's or issuer's financial statements; an evaluation of the inputs that influence the issuer and the market(s) in which the security is purchased and sold.

The value of the Portfolios' investments in foreign securities is generally determined using the same valuation methods and inputs as other Portfolio investments, as discussed above. Foreign security prices expressed in local currency values are normally translated from the local currency into US dollars using the exchange rates as of 4:00 p.m., Eastern Time on days the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE") is open for business. The Board of Directors has approved the use of ICE Data Pricing & Reference Data LLC ("ICE") to assist in determining the fair value of foreign equity securities when changes in the value of a certain index suggest that the closing prices on the foreign exchanges may no longer represent the amount that a Portfolio could expect to receive for those securities or on days when foreign markets are closed and US markets are open. In each of these events, ICE will provide adjusted prices for certain foreign equity securities using a statistical analysis of historical correlations of multiple factors (Level 2 inputs). The Board of Directors has also approved the use of ICE to evaluate the prices of foreign debt securities as of the time as of which a Portfolio's share price is calculated. ICE utilizes benchmark spread and yield curves and evaluates available market activity from the local close to the time as of which a Portfolio's share price is calculated (Level 2 inputs) to assist in determining prices for certain foreign debt securities.

In the case of both foreign equity and foreign debt securities, in the absence of precise information about the market values of these foreign securities as of the time as of which a Portfolio's share price is calculated, the Board of Directors has determined on the basis of available data that prices adjusted or evaluated in this way are likely to be closer to the prices a Portfolio could realise on a current sale than are the prices of those securities established at the close of the foreign markets in which the securities primarily trade.

Fair value prices are necessarily estimates, and there is no assurance that such a price will be at or close to the price at which the security is next quoted or next trades.

FOR THE SIX MONTH PERIOD ENDED 30 JUNE 202313. SOFT COMMISSIONS ARRANGEMENTS

The Manager and connected persons have entered into soft commission arrangements with brokers in respect of research products in limited instances, subject to its receiving best execution to support the investment decision process.

The types of research received includes all standard forms of research, including but not limited to current and historical data concerning particular companies, industries and the financial economy as a whole, as well as information and opportunities, risks and trends, and analysis involving special situations. The Manager considers these arrangements are to the benefit of the Portfolios and has satisfied itself that it obtains best execution on behalf of the Portfolios.

14. SEGREGATED LIABILITY

The Company has multiple Portfolios and further Portfolios may be created in the future. With the approval of the Company's Shareholders, by way of a special resolution passed on 3 November 2006, the Company adopted segregated liability between its Portfolios. As at that date, each Portfolio bears its own liabilities and none of the Company, any of the service providers appointed to the Company, the Directors, any receiver, examiner, liquidator nor will any other person have access to the assets of a Portfolio in satisfaction of a liability of any other Portfolio.

15. EFFICIENT PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT

The Company may employ investment techniques and instruments relating to transferable securities and/or other financial instruments including financial derivative instruments under the conditions and within the limits laid down by the Central Bank, provided that such instruments are used for efficient portfolio management purposes (i.e. hedging, reducing risks or cost, or increasing capital or income returns) or investment purposes. Techniques and instruments utilised may only be used in accordance with the investment objectives of the relevant Portfolio.

At the discretion of the Manager or the Sub-Investment Manager, each Portfolio may enter into securities lending transactions ("Securities Lending Agreements"), subject to the conditions and limits set out in the Central Bank UCITS Regulations, in respect of each of the types of assets in which the Portfolio may invest, as described in the "Instruments/Asset Classes" section of the relevant Supplement for the Portfolio. Any such securities lending transactions may be used for efficient portfolio management purposes.

Securities Lending Agreements are transactions through which a Portfolio lends its securities to another party, the borrower, which is contractually obliged to return equivalent securities at the end of an agreed period. While securities are on loan, the borrower pays the Portfolio (i) a loan fee and (ii) any income from the securities.

The Company received, for each Portfolio that participates in Securities Lending Agreements, collateral that is at least equivalent to 102% of the value of the lent securities. Portfolios may only enter into Securities Lending Agreements under which (i) they are entitled at all times to request the return of the securities lent or to terminate any securities lending transactions and (ii) the transactions do not jeopardise the management of the Portfolio's assets in accordance with its investment policy. Unless otherwise specified in the relevant Supplement, the maximum proportion of a Portfolio's Net Asset Value that can be subject to Securities Lending Agreements is 50% and the expected proportion of a Portfolio's Net Asset Value that will be subject to Securities Lending Agreements is 0-10%.

The Company has appointed Brown Brothers Harriman & Co. (the "Lending Agent") to carry out the Securities Lending Agreements, notably the selection of counterparties, subject to the Company's pre-approval, and the management of the collateral. Portfolios entered into Securities Lending Agreements received all revenue generated from the Securities Lending Agreements, net of direct and indirect operational costs, which represented 90% of the total revenue generated. The remaining 10% was paid to the Lending Agent in consideration of the direct and indirect operational costs of the provision of its services and the guaranty that it provided. The Company left Securities Lending Program in July 2022, securities lending income earned by the Portfolios during the relevant period is disclosed separately in the Profit and Loss Account.

GLOSSARY OF INDICES

Bloomberg Commodity Index

The index is a rolling index composed of exchange-traded futures contracts on physical commodities. The index relies primarily on liquidity data of futures contracts, along with US dollar-adjusted production data, in determining the relative quantities of included commodities. The index is designed to be a highly liquid and diversified benchmark for commodities investments. The version of the index that is calculated on a total return basis reflects the returns on a fully collateralised investment in the underlying commodity futures contracts, combined with the returns on cash collateral invested in US Treasury Bills.

Bloomberg Euro Aggregate Bond Index (Total Return, Hedged, EUR)

The index includes fixed-rate, investment-grade euro denominated bonds. Inclusion is based on the currency of the issue, and not the domicile of the issuer. The principal sectors in the index are the Treasury, corporate, government-related and securitised.

In addition to securities from these three indices, the index also includes investment grade Eurodollar, Euro-Yen, Canadian, and 144A index-eligible securities not already in these three indices. The index is fully hedged back to USD.

Fixed income securities are subject to the risk of an issuer's ability to meet principal and interest payments on the obligation (credit risk) and may also be subject to price volatility due to such factors as interest rate sensitivity, market perception of the creditworthiness of the issuer and general market liquidity (market risk). Fixed income securities are also exposed to the risk that their or their issuers' credit ratings may be downgraded, which can cause a significant drop in the value of such securities.

Lower rated or unrated (i.e. non-investment grade or high yield) securities are more likely to react to developments affecting market and credit risk than are more highly rated securities, which primarily react to movements in the general level of interest rates. Investors should carefully consider the relative risks of investing in high yield securities and understand that such securities generally are not meant for short-term investing. Investors who subscribe in a currency other than the base currency of the Company are exposed to currency risk. Fluctuations in these exchange rates may affect the return on investment.

Past performance is not indicative of future results. For details of the investment risks, which may include but are not limited to liquidity, interest rate, credit and currency risk, see the current prospectus. Please note that any dividends/interest which the Company may receive may be subject to withholding tax. The benchmark does not take into account the effects of tax and the deduction is therefore not reflected in the benchmark return illustrated herein. The investment objective and performance benchmark is a target only and not a guarantee of the Company performance. The index is unmanaged and cannot be invested in directly. Index returns assume reinvestment of dividends and capital gains and unlike fund returns do not reflect fees or expenses. Adverse movements in currency exchange rates can result in a decrease in return and a loss of capital. The investments of each Portfolio may be fully hedged into the Portfolio's base currency: this may reduce currency risks but may also expose the Portfolio to other risks such as the default of a counterparty. As noted above for further information relating to risks specific to this strategy please see the current prospectus.
