1. Information about the umbrella fund and sub-funds

1.1 Constitution of the fund in Switzerland and legal status

The Fund Contract of UBAM (CH) was established by GERIFONDS SA, Lausanne, the fund management company, with the agreement of Banque Cantonale Vaudoise, Lausanne, the custodian bank, and submitted to the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority FINMA. The latter approved it for the first time on September 9, 2010.

UBAM (CH) is a contractual umbrella fund under Swiss law in the category of "Other funds for traditional investments" under the terms of the Federal Act on Collective Investment Schemes (CISA) of 23 June 2006, divided into the following sub-funds:

- Swiss Equity
- Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity
- High Grade CHF Income
- High Grade CHF Income Plus

The sub-funds are based on a collective investment contract (the Fund Contract), under which terms the fund management company undertakes by enabling investors to participate in the sub-funds in line with the number of units they own and by managing the sub-funds independently and in its own name in accordance with the provisions of the law and the Fund Contract. The custodian bank is party to the Fund Contract, in accordance with the tasks assigned on them by law and the Fund Contract. Investors are only entitled to the assets and income of the sub-fund in which they participate. Liabilities accrued in a sub-fund will only be met by the sub-fund in question.

In accordance with the provisions of the Fund Contract, the fund management company may at any time create new sub-funds, subject to the supervisory authority's approval, or merge or dissolve them.

1.2 Duration

The duration of the fund and its sub-funds is unlimited.

¹ All information related to the key information document are understood as also referring to documents recognized as equivalent according to Annex 10 of the Financial Services Ordinance (FinSO)

1.3 Useful tax regulations relevant to the sub-funds

The fund and sub-funds do not hold any legal personality in Switzerland. They are neither subject to income tax nor to capital tax. The withholding tax deducted from Swiss income can be reclaimed in full by the fund management company for the corresponding sub-fund.

Income and capital gains realized abroad may be subject to withholding taxes applicable in the country of investment. Wherever possible, such taxes will be reclaimed by the fund management company for the corresponding sub-fund and on behalf of investors domiciled in Switzerland, in accordance with existing double taxation treaties or other special agreements.

A sub-fund income distribution to investors domiciled in Switzerland and abroad are subject to a 35% withholding tax. Capital gains that are distributed by separate coupon are not subject to withholding tax.

The net income withheld and reinvested by the sub-funds is in principle subject to a 35% withholding tax.

Investors domiciled in Switzerland may reclaim the withholding tax withheld by declaring the corresponding income in their tax returns or by submitting a separate refund application.

Investors domiciled abroad may request a refund of the withholding tax in accordance with any double taxation treaties between Switzerland and their country of domicile. In the absence of any such treaties, reimbursement of the withholding tax will not be possible.

Income distributions to investors domiciled abroad shall be made without deducting withholding tax, provided that at least 80% of the income of the corresponding sub-fund is derived from foreign sources or, upon presentation of the declaration of domicile, withholding tax shall be credited to investors domiciled abroad who benefit from the affidavit procedure. In these cases, confirmation from a bank that the units in question are held in the custody account of the investor domiciled abroad and that the income is credited to the investor's account (declaration of domicile or affidavit) is required. It cannot be guaranteed that at least 80% of the sub-fund's income comes from foreign sources.

If an investor domiciled abroad is subject to a withholding tax deduction due to a missing declaration of domicile, the investor can apply for a tax refund directly to the Swiss Federal Tax Administration in Berne, based on Swiss law.

Furthermore, income and capital gains, whether distributed or reinvested, may be wholly or partially subject to a "paying agent tax", depending on the person who directly or indirectly owns the units.

The sub-funds have the following tax status:

1.10.5 Sub-funds investment restrictions

The fund management company may, in principle, invest up to 20% of the Swiss Equity sub-fund's assets, including derivative financial instruments and structured products, in transferable securities and money market instruments from a same issuer. The fund management company is authorized to reflect the structure of the SPI® index in this sub-fund and the limit of 20% is raised to 25% for three security issuers of the index among the five largest market capitalizations. In addition, only one issuer of securities in the index among the five largest market capitalizations is allowed to exceed the above-mentioned 25% limit, with a maximum overweight of 5% in relation to its weight in the index and a maximum of 33%. The total value of transferable securities and money market instruments from issuers with whom more than 10% of the sub-fund's assets are invested, cannot exceed 75% of the assets of that particular sub-fund. In addition, the sub-fund's assets must be invested in the securities of at least ten separate issuers.

The fund management company may invest up to 20% of the Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity, High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-fund's assets, including derivative financial instruments and structured products, in transferable securities and money market instruments from the same issuer or debtor, including in "metal" accounts.

The fund management company may invest up to 35% of the High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds into transferable securities or money market instruments of the same issuer if issued or guaranteed by a Swiss central mortgage bond institution, a member country of the OECD, a public corporation from the OECD, or by any other international public institution in which Switzerland or a member state of the European Union participates.

The fund management company may invest up to 100% of the assets of the High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds in transferable securities or money market instruments of the same issuer provided that these are issued or guaranteed by a member country of the OECD, a public corporation from the OECD, or by any other international public institution in which Switzerland or a member state of the European Union participates. In this case, the sub-fund must hold securities or money market instruments from at least six different issues and a maximum of 30% of the sub-fund can be placed in securities or money market instruments of the same issue. Issuers or authorized guarantors are all Member States of the OECD as well as governmental, intergovernmental or paragonovernmental bodies of these States.

1.10.6 The use of derivative financial instruments by the sub-funds

The fund management company may use derivative financial instruments (hereinafter referred to as derivatives). However, the use of derivatives, even under extraordinary market circumstances, cannot lead to a divergence from the investment objectives or a modification to the investment characteristics of the sub-funds.

Commitment approach I

Commitment approach I applies to the assessment of risk for the Swiss Equity and Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity sub-funds.

Derivatives are used mainly for the purpose of hedging investments and currency risk. They are used only incidentally for investment strategy purposes.

Only basic type of derivatives shall be used, meaning call or put options, swaps, and term contracts (futures and forwards), as described in more detail in the Fund Contract (see § 12), as long as their underlyings are permitted as investments by the investment policy. Derivatives can be traded on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public or concluded OTC (over-the-counter). Derivatives are subject to counterparty risk, in addition to market risk. In other words, there is a risk that the contracting party fails to honor its commitments thus causing a financial loss.

The use of derivatives should not, even under extraordinary market circumstances, lead to any leverage on the sub-funds' assets or correspond to short selling.

Commitment approach II

Commitment approach II applies to the assessment of risk for the High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds.

For the High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds, derivatives are used for investment strategy purposes to replicate positions in a synthetic manner. They are also used for hedging investments and currency risk.

It shall be possible to use basic type of derivatives, as well as exotic derivatives, the latter to a negligible extent, as described in detail in the Fund Contract (see § 12), as long as their underlyings are permitted as investments by the investment policy. Derivatives can be traded on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public or concluded OTC (over-the-counter). Derivatives are subject to counterparty risk, in addition to market risk. In other words, there is a risk that the contracting party fails to honour its commitments thus causing a financial loss.

In addition to Credit Default Swaps (CDS), all other types of credit derivatives can be purchased (e.g. total return swaps [TRS], credit spread options [CSO], and credit linked notes [CLN]), which allow transferring credit risk to third parties, also known as buyers of risk. Buyers of risk are compensated in the form of premiums. The amount of the premium depends on, among other things, the probability of a loss and its maximum amount. These two factors are generally difficult to assess, thus increasing the risk associated with credit derivatives. The sub-funds can take on both roles of buyer and seller of risk.

The use of derivatives may lead to leveraging the sub-funds' assets or correspond to short selling. Total derivative commitments may represent up to 100% of the sub-fund's net assets, thus raising the sub-fund's total commitment to 200% of its net assets.

1.10.7 Collateral strategy

The Swiss Equity and Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity sub-funds do not conclude contracts for OTC derivative financial instruments providing for exchanges of collateral.

If the High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds enter into contracts covering OTC derivative financial instruments, they can require collateral to reduce counterparty risk, based on a threshold agreed with the said counterparty. The collateral must comply with the following requirements:

- Authorized collateral: sight deposits.
- Collateral margins: a 0% discount is applied.
- Reinvestment of the collateral into cash is not allowed.

1.11 Special risks

Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity sub-fund

Liquidity Risk

The sub-fund invests in small and mid-caps companies; its assets may, therefore, be exposed to reduced liquidity in the case of low or no demand.

Asset Risk

The concentration of the sub-fund's assets in small and mid-caps companies increases its risk due to the specificity of these securities.

High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-fund

Issuer risk

High yield securities carry a greater risk of default and credit event risk than high quality securities. In return, they generally offer higher yields.

1.12 Managing liquidity risk

The fund management company guarantees appropriate liquidity management. It assesses each sub-fund's liquidity on a quarterly basis, according to various scenarios documented by the fund management company. For each sub-fund, this evaluation takes into account, on the one hand, the liquidity of the portfolio's assets and, on the other hand, the unitholders' right to redeem their units in accordance with the terms of the Fund Contract. To this end, internal liquidity thresholds are determined in order to identify, monitor, and address any risks.

In addition to the flat management fee, the fund management company charges a 15% performance fee for the AP, IP, PP, and UP classes of the Swiss Equity sub-fund. The performance fee is calculated and accrued each time the net asset value is calculated, based on the out-performance of the assets of the class in question, after the deduction of the flat management commission and before the deduction of the performance fee, in comparison with the index stated 1.10.1 for the Swiss Equity sub-fund and taking into account the issued or redeemed units. The performance fee is debited, if due, at the time of each redemption of units on a pro rata basis and, for the other units, at the end of each accounting quarter for the entire period. If a performance fee has been paid out, the next performance fee shall be calculated and accrued but henceforth based on the resulting value of the class assets that determined the last performance fee, after the deduction made for the annual flat management commission and the performance fee ("High Water Mark"). The impact of the performance fee on the return obtained by investors is mentioned in 1.16.3 below.

Retrocessions and rebates can be paid on the flat management commission of the fund management company.

The fund management company and its agents may pay retrocessions to compensate the activities in promoting the sale of sub-fund units in Switzerland or from Switzerland. This remuneration enables payment the following services notably:

- Providing the sales force and setting up processes for the subscription of units;
- Training of client advisors in the field of collective investment schemes;
- Preparing advertising material;
- Analyzing investors' needs;
- Fulfilling due diligence duties in areas such as anti-money laundering and sales restrictions (e.g. US Persons).

Retrocessions are not considered as rebates even if, ultimately, they are fully or partially paid back to investors.

The beneficiaries of the retrocessions must ensure transparent communication and inform spontaneously and free of charge the investors about the amount of remuneration they could receive for the sales promotion activities.

Upon request, the beneficiaries of the retrocessions will reveal the amounts actually received for the sales promotion activities of the collective investment schemes to investors.

The fund management company and its agents may provide rebates directly to investors upon request in respect of the sales promotion activities in Switzerland or from Switzerland. Rebates are used to reduce the charges and costs incurred to the investors concerned. Rebates are permitted subject to the following:

- they paid out of the fund management company fees and are not charged against the sub-fund's assets;
- they are granted based on objective criteria;
- they are granted under the same conditions and to the same extent for all investors meeting the objective criteria and asking for such rebates.

The objective criteria for granting rebates by the fund management company include the following:

- the volume subscribed for or held by the investor in the collective investment scheme, or in the promoter's range of products;
- the amount of fees generated by the investor;
- the investor's financial behavior (e.g. planned holding period);
- willingness of the investor to provide support during the launch phase of a collective investment scheme.

At the investor's request, the fund management company shall make available the amount corresponding to the rebates free of charge.

§ 20 of the Fund Contract lists the fees and expenses that are not included in the flat management fee.

The management fee for the target funds in which the assets of the sub-funds are invested may amount to a maximum of 3%, taking into account any retrocessions and rebates. The maximum management fee for the target funds in which the assets of the sub-funds are invested must be stated in the annual report, taking into account any retrocessions and rebates.

UBP, being a banking institution, is regulated by the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority FINMA. UBP is one of the largest private banks in Switzerland. Their head office is situated in Geneva. The bank came into being in 1990 following the merger of TDB American Express Bank (founded in 1956) and Compagnie de Banque et d'Investissement (founded in 1969). UBP specializes in private and institutional asset management, by offering all the relevant services pursuant to these activities. It possesses an international network stretching throughout Europe and beyond, to the Middle East, United States, Latin America, and Asia.

2.6 Exercising shareholder and creditor rights

The fund management company shall exercise shareholder and creditor rights connected to the sub-funds' assets in an independent manner and solely in the interest of investors. Upon request, investors may receive from the fund management company any information regarding the exercising of shareholder and creditor rights.

In day-to-day business, the fund management company is free to exercise shareholder and creditor rights on its own, delegate them to the custodian bank or to third parties, or waive the exercise of these rights.

For all other circumstances liable to have a significant impact on investors' concerns, notably in exercising shareholder and creditor rights by the fund management company as a shareholder or creditor of the custodian bank or associated legal entities, the fund management company is free to exercise those voting rights, or to give explicit instructions. It may rely on information received from the custodian bank, asset manager, the company, or outside advisers on proxy voting and other third parties or reported in the news media.

3. Information about the custodian bank

3.1 General information about the custodian bank

The custodian bank's functions are exercised by Banque Cantonale Vaudoise (BCV). The bank was established by decree of the Grand Council of Vaud on 19 December 1845. Its duration is unlimited. BCV is a limited company under public law. Its head office and general management are located at Place St-François 14, Lausanne (Switzerland). It can have subsidiaries, branches, agencies, and representative offices.

Further information can be found in the annual reports of Banque Cantonale Vaudoise available under the link <https://www.bcv.ch/La-BCV/Actualite-et-medias/Publications>.

3.2 Other information about the custodian bank

BCV can call upon over 170 years of experience. It has nearly 2000 employees and over 60 outlets across the Canton of Vaud. BCV aims to offer proximity banking services to clients. As such, it is present throughout the different regions of the Canton of Vaud, contributing to the development of the various sections of local economy or supporting financially community associations and other public corporations, in addition to providing mortgage services in the canton. It performs all the usual banking transactions on its own account or for third parties (Article 4 BCV Law and Article 4 of statutes). The bank operates primarily in the canton of Vaud. In the interest of the Vaud economy, it is authorized to trade elsewhere in Switzerland or abroad. In its capacity as a cantonal bank, one of its central missions is ensuring the development of the cantonal economy in accordance with the principles of economic, environmental, and social sustainability.

The BCV is registered with the US tax authorities as a foreign financial institution subject to reporting according to model 2 of the intergovernmental agreement (Model 2 FFI Reporting) under sections 1471 - 1474 of the US Internal Revenue Code (Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act, including decrees relating thereto, "FATCA").

The custodian bank may entrust custody of the sub-funds' assets to a third party or central securities depository located in Switzerland or abroad, provided this is in the interests of proper custody. Regarding financial instruments, custody can only be entrusted to a third party or central securities depository that is subject to supervision. Exception can be made to this rule if the transfer of custody to a third party or central securities depository subject to supervision is impossible, notably if there should exist binding legal regulations or special conditions attached to a particular investment product. In the case of third-party and centralized custody, the fund management company no longer has sole possession of the sub-fund assets concerned, but only co-ownership, particularly in Switzerland. In the case of foreign custody, the relevant sub-fund assets are subject to the laws and customs of the jurisdiction of the foreign third-party custodian or central custodian. In the event of their bankruptcy, the rights of the fund management company in respect of the relevant sub-fund assets and their security may differ from Swiss law. Furthermore, if the third party or central securities depository is not subject to supervision, it does not have to meet the organizational requirements imposed on Swiss banks.

The custodian bank bears responsibility for damage caused by the agents, unless it can prove all care was taken in its choice, instruction, and supervision according to the circumstances.

The fund management company, the custodian bank, and their agents reserve the right to refuse or prevent the acquisition or legal or economic ownership of units by any person acting in contravention of any law or regulation, both Swiss and foreign, or if the acquisition or detention is likely to expose the sub-fund to adverse regulatory or tax consequences, including refusing subscriptions or by compulsorily redeeming units in accordance with the provisions of the Fund Contract.

§ 2 Fund Contract

The legal relationship between the investors, on one side, and the fund management company and custodian bank, on the other, are governed by this present Fund Contract and existing legal provisions of the Collective Investment Schemes Act.

§ 3 Fund management company

1. The fund management company manages the sub-funds on behalf of investors in an independent manner and in its own name. It decides, in particular, on the issue of units, investment of assets and their valuation. It calculates the net asset values, fixes the issue and redemption prices, and handles the distribution of income. It exercises all rights associated with the fund and sub-funds.
2. The fund management company and its agents must adhere to the obligations of loyalty, due diligence and disclosure. They must act in an independent manner and solely in the interest of investors. They must take all necessary organisational measures with the aim of managing the assets in an irreproachable manner. They report on the collective investments schemes they administer and disclose all fees and costs charged directly or indirectly to investors as well as remunerations from third parties, in particular commissions, discounts or other financial benefits.
3. The fund management company may delegate investment decisions and specific tasks to third parties, provided this is done in the interests of proper management. It shall only appoint persons having the skills, knowledge, and experience required for this activity, as well as the necessary authorizations. It carefully instructs and monitors the third parties to whom it entrusts its services.

Investment decisions may only be delegated to asset managers holding the required authorizations.

The fund management company bears responsibility for compliance with the prudential requirements and for safeguarding the interests of investors in the event of any delegation of tasks. The fund management company is liable for the actions of the persons to whom it delegates tasks as well as for its own actions.

4. The fund management company, with the custodian bank's consent, must submit any changes to the Fund Contract for approval by the supervisory authority (see § 27).

2. The custodian bank and its agents must adhere to the obligations of loyalty, due diligence and disclosure. They must act in an independent manner and solely in the interest of investors. They must take the necessary organizational measures with the aim of managing the assets in an irreproachable manner. They report on the collective investments schemes they hold and disclose all fees and costs charged directly or indirectly to investors as well as remunerations from third parties, in particular commissions, discounts or other financial benefits.
3. The custodian bank is responsible for handling the sub-funds' accounts and deposits, but cannot hold all of the sub-funds' assets by itself.
4. The custodian bank ensures that the equivalent value is transferred in a timely manner for transactions relating to the sub-funds' assets. It informs the fund management company if the equivalent value is not paid within the usual time and requires the counterparty to compensate the asset value to the extent that this is possible.
5. The custodian bank manages the records and accounts distinguishing at all times the various assets in custody of the different collective investment schemes.
It records the ownership of the fund management company and manages the corresponding registers when assets cannot be held.
6. The custodian bank may entrust custody of the sub-fund assets to a third party or central securities depository located in Switzerland or abroad, provided this is in the interests of proper custody. It checks that third party or central securities depository:
 - a) is adequately organised, have the financial guarantees and technical qualifications required for the type and complexity of assets entrusted to them;
 - b) is subject to regular external audits that ensures that the financial instruments are indeed in their possession;
 - c) ensures that the assets received from the custodian bank are held so that the custodian bank can identify them unequivocally at any time as belonging to the sub-fund concerned, through regular checks for consistency between the portfolio and accounts;
 - d) ensures compliance with the requirements for the custodian bank regarding the performance of tasks delegated to it and the prevention of conflicts of interest.

The custodian bank is liable for damage caused by the agent, unless it can prove all care was taken in its choice, instruction, and supervision according to the circumstances. The prospectus contains information on the risks associated with the transfer of custody to a third party or central securities depository.

Regarding financial instruments, custody can only be entrusted, as defined in the preceding paragraphs, to a third party or central securities depository that is subject to supervision. Exception can be made to this rule if the transfer of custody to a third party or central securities depository subject to supervision is impossible, notably if there should exist binding legal regulations or special conditions attached to a particular investment product. The prospectus must inform the investor that custody is being carried out by a third party or a central securities depository not subject to supervision.

7. The custodian bank must ensure that the fund management company adheres to both the law and Fund Contract. It must verify that the calculation of net asset values, the issue and redemption prices of units, as well as decisions relating to investments, are all made in compliance with the law and Fund Contract, and income is used in accordance with the said Fund Contract. Under the provisions governing investments, the custodian bank is not responsible for the choice of investments made by the fund management company.
8. The custodian bank is entitled to the fees stipulated in § 20, be released from the liabilities assumed in the proper execution of the Fund Contract and be reimbursed for expenses incurred in connection with such liabilities.
9. The custodian bank is not responsible for the custody of assets of the target funds in which the sub-fund invests unless this task has been delegated to it.

§ 5 Investors

1. The sub-funds are all open to the public, although some classes may be restricted to qualified investors, as defined by CISA, and/or provide for the other conditions of access (see § 6).
2. Upon signing the contract and making the cash payment or, for the Swiss Equity sub-fund only, the payment in kind, investors obtain, as a result of acquired units, a receivable against the fund management company, under the form of a participation in the assets and income of the sub-fund for which they have subscribed. Their receivable is based on the number of units. The issuance of units in kind, authorized for the Swiss Equity sub-fund only, is subject to the conditions of § 18.
3. Investors are only entitled to the assets and income of the sub-fund in which they participate. Each sub-fund is only liable for its own commitments.
4. Investors shall only be liable for payment of the subscribed units. Their personal liability does not extend to the liabilities of the fund and sub-funds.
5. The fund management company must inform investors, upon their request, on the method used for calculating the net asset values of units. If investors desire detailed information about specific operations of the fund management company, such as the exercise of shareholder and creditor rights, on risk management or contributions in kind, the fund management company must at all times provide this information. Investors may apply to the court of the locality where the fund management company has their head office, to have an auditing company or another expert to investigate any matter requiring clarification on their behalf and to provide them with the corresponding report.
6. Investors may terminate the Fund Contract on every bank business day in accordance with the provisions of § 17 and prospectus and demand a cash repayment of the value of their units.
7. Investors must be able to prove, upon request, to the fund management company, and/or the custodian bank, and their agents that they meet, or continue to meet, the legal or contractual conditions regarding participation in a sub-fund or a class. They must immediately inform the fund management company, the custodian bank, and their agents, when they no longer fulfil these conditions.
8. A sub-fund or a class may be subject to a “soft closing”. This means that this sub-fund or class is closed to new subscriptions if the fund management company considers this necessary to protect the interests of existing unitholders. Soft closing applies to new subscriptions or conversions within the sub-fund or class concerned, but not to redemptions, transfers, or conversions from that sub-fund or class. A sub-fund or a class may be subject to a soft closing without the investors being informed.
9. An investor’s units must be forcibly redeemed, at the corresponding redemption price, by the fund management company in collaboration with the custodian bank if:
 - a) this action is necessary to preserve the reputation of the financial centre, especially as regards the fight against money laundering;
 - b) the investor no longer fulfils the legal, regulatory, contractual or statutory conditions necessary to participate in a sub-fund or a class.
10. In addition, an investor’s units may be forcibly redeemed, at the corresponding redemption price, by the fund management company in collaboration with the custodian bank if:
 - a) the participation of the investor is likely to significantly impact on the economic interests of other investors, notably where participation may result in tax losses suffered by the fund and/or sub-fund in Switzerland or abroad;
 - b) investors have acquired or held their units in violation of the provisions of a Swiss or foreign law, the Fund Contract or the relevant prospectus;
 - c) the economic interests of investors are affected, especially in cases where certain investors seek to make pecuniary profits through systematic subscriptions followed by immediate redemptions, by exploiting the time differences between the setting of closing prices and valuation of the sub-fund assets (Market Timing).

§ 6 Units and classes

1. The fund management company may, for each sub-fund and subject to the custodian bank’s consent and the supervisory authority’s approval, create, terminate, or merge the classes at any time. All classes entitle participation in the sub-fund total assets, which are not segmented. This participation may differ in terms of charges, distributions, and income specific to the class, just as the different classes of a same sub-fund can each return a different net asset value per unit. A sub-fund's assets as a whole are liable for the costs specific to each class.

2. The creation, termination and merger of the classes are published in the medium of publication. Only a merger shall be deemed an amendment to the Fund Contract pursuant to § 27.
3. The different classes may differ from one another especially in terms of their cost structures, reference currencies, hedging against exchange risk, distribution or reinvestment of income, minimum investment amount, or circle of investors.
4. Fees and expenses are only charged to the classes to which a specific service has been provided. Fees and expenses that cannot be allocated with certainty to a particular class shall be distributed among all the classes in proportion of the sub-fund's assets held by each.
5. The sub-funds are subdivided into several classes, as described below:

6. Investors requesting the allocation, conversion, or maintenance of their units in either of classes A+, I, IP, I+, P, PP or U+, must provide all necessary documents and information proving their compliance with the conditions of acceptance into the class concerned.
 7. Units are not issued in the form of securities but as registered transactions. The investor is not entitled to receive a registered or bearer certificate. The right of investors to require a statement under the terms of Article 16 of the Federal Act on Intermediated Securities (FISA) is reserved.
 8. Under the terms of § 17, the fund management company and the custodian bank shall instruct investors who no longer fulfil the conditions for the retention of units in a class, to return them within 30 calendar days, or transfer them to a person who meets the said conditions or exchange them against units in another class for which they qualify. If any investor fails to respond to this instruction, the fund management company must, in collaboration with the custodian bank, undertake the forced exchange for units in another class, and if this proves not to be possible, the compulsory redemption under § 5 section 9 of the relevant units.

III. Investment policy guidelines

A. Investment principles

§ 7 Observance of investment guidelines

1. When choosing where to invest the sub-fund assets, the fund management company must observe the principle of balanced-risk allocation, in line with the limits expressed in percentages below. These limits are given for the assets of each sub-fund, estimated at their market value, which must be respected at all times. The sub-funds must maintain the investment limits up to six months after the end of the subscription period (launch).
2. If those limits are exceeded as a result of market fluctuations, the investments must be reduced to the permitted rate within a reasonable period of time, taking into account the interests of investors. If the limits relating to derivative financial instruments are affected by a change in delta according to § 12 further below, the status quo must be restored within three bank business days whilst safeguarding the interests of investors.

§ 8 Sub-funds investment policies

1. The fund management company may, under the specific investment policy of each sub-fund, invest the assets of each sub-fund in the different investments listed here below. The risks associated with these investments must be mentioned in the prospectus.
 - a) Securities or paper securities issued in large numbers under unincorporated rights with similar functions (value rights), that are traded on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public and incorporating a participation right, claim or acquisition right for these types of securities or paper securities by subscription or exchange, such as warrants. Investments in newly issued securities are only permitted if their admission onto an exchange or other regulated market open to the public is stated in the conditions of issue. If such acceptance has not been obtained within one year of the acquisition of the securities, the latter must be sold within one month or included in the limitation rule according to section 1 letter i.
 - b) Derivative financial instruments, when (i) their underlyings are represented by securities pursuant to letter a), derivative financial instruments pursuant to letter b), units of collective investment schemes pursuant to letter d), money market instruments pursuant to letter e), precious metals, financial indices, interest rates, exchange rates, credits or currencies, and when (ii) their underlyings are permitted as a possible investment under the terms of the Fund Contract. Derivative financial instruments are traded on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public or concluded OTC. Investments in OTC derivative financial instruments (OTC transactions) are allowed only (i) if the counterparty is a specialist financial intermediary for this type of transaction and is subject to supervision, and (ii) if the OTC derivative financial instruments are able to be traded daily or possibly redeemed at any time by the issuer. In addition, the derivative financial instruments must be able to be valued reliably and in a transparent manner. Derivative financial instruments pursuant to § 12 can be used.
 - c) Structured products when (i) their underlyings are represented by securities pursuant to letter a), derivative financial instruments pursuant to letter b), structured products pursuant to letter c), units of collective investment schemes pursuant to letter d), money market instruments pursuant to letter e), financial indices, interest rates, exchange rates, credits or currencies, and when (ii) their underlyings are permitted as a possible investment under the terms of the Fund Contract. The underlyings may also be represented by precious metals, precious metal indices or collective investment schemes investing most of their assets in precious metals. Structured products are traded on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public or concluded OTC. OTC structured investments are allowed only (i) if the counterparty is a specialist financial intermediary for this type of transaction and is subject to supervision, and (ii) if the OTC structured products are able to be traded daily or possibly redeemed at any time by the issuer. In addition, they must be able to be valued reliably and in a transparent manner.
 - d) Units of collective investment schemes (target funds), if (a) their own documentation restricts the investment into other target funds to 49% in total; (b) it exists for these target funds – as regards their purpose, organization, investment policy, investor protection, risk allocation, asset segregation, borrowing, lending, short selling of paper securities and money market instruments, issue and redemption of units, as well as the content of annual and semi-annual reports – comparable provisions as those of a securities fund or other fund for traditional investment; (c) these target funds are authorized as collective investment schemes in the country where they are based and are subject to supervision designed to protect investors in a manner comparable to that practiced in Switzerland, and whereby international legal assistance is guaranteed for the investors.
 - e) Money market instruments, if liquid and able to be valued and able to be traded on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public. Money market instruments that are not able to be traded on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public can only be acquired if the issue or issuer is subject to the provisions on the protection of creditors and investors, and if these instruments are issued or guaranteed by the issuer pursuant to Art. 74 paragraph 2 CISO.
 - f) Precious metals, notably gold, silver, palladium, and platinum.
 - g) Currencies.
 - h) Bank sight or term deposits with a term to maturity of up to twelve months with banks based in Switzerland or in a member state of the European Union, or in any other state provided the bank is subject in its country of origin to supervision comparable to that practiced in Switzerland.

Not permitted are (i) commodities investments and commodity certificates and (ii) real short-selling of any type of investment. Precious metals pursuant to f) above are not considered as commodities for the purposes of this present provision.

B. Investment techniques and instruments

§ 10 Securities lending

The fund management company does not trade in securities lending transactions.

§ 11 Securities repurchase agreements (Repo and Reverse Repo)

The fund management company does not enter into repo and reverse repo arrangements.

§ 12 Derivative financial instruments (Commitment approaches I and II)

1. The fund management company may use derivative financial instruments (hereinafter referred to as derivatives). It shall ensure that the use of derivatives does not lead by its economic impact, even under extraordinary market circumstances, to a divergence from the investment objectives as reflected in the Fund Contract, the prospectus, and the key information document, or in a modification to the investment characteristics of the sub-funds. In addition, the derivatives' underlyings must be permitted as investments for the particular sub-fund, in accordance with the Fund Contract.
For the Swiss Equity sub-fund, derivatives are used mainly for the purpose of hedging investments and currency risk. They are used only incidentally for investment strategy purposes.
For the High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds, derivatives are used for investment strategy purposes to replicate positions in a synthetic manner. They are also used for hedging investments and currency risk.
2. Commitment approach I applies to the assessment of risk for the Swiss Equity and Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity sub-funds. Taking into account the hedging required pursuant to this paragraph, the use of derivatives must neither leverage the sub-fund's assets, nor correspond to short selling.
Commitment approach II applies to the assessment of risk for the High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds. The sub-fund's total commitments to derivatives shall not exceed 100% of net assets, just as total commitments shall not exceed 200% of net assets. Taking into account the possibility of temporary borrowing of up to 25% of net assets, as prescribed in § 13 section 2, the total commitments of the sub-fund may reach 225% of net assets. Total commitment is calculated in accordance with Art. 35 CISO-FINMA.

A. Common provisions for all sub-funds

3. The fund management company may use standardised or non-standardised derivatives. They may undertake derivative transactions on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public or concluded OTC (over-the-counter).
 - a) The fund management company shall only undertake OTC transactions with specialist financial intermediaries in these types of operations, who are subject to supervision and can guarantee irreproachable trading. If the counterparty is not the custodian bank, the said counterparty or its guarantor must present a high credit rating.
 - b) An OTC derivative must be able to be valued daily, reliably and in a transparent manner, and it must be able to be sold, liquidated, or unwound by a reverse transaction at any time and at market value.
 - c) If a market price is not available for an OTC derivative, its price must be able to be assessed at any time using appropriate valuation models recognised in practice, based on the market value of the underlyings. Before the transaction is concluded, solid offers from at least two counterparties fit for consideration must, in principle, be obtained.

In principle, the contract shall be concluded with the counterparty who submitted the most advantageous tender from the point of view of price. Derogations from this principle are allowed for reasons of risk-spreading, or if other aspects of the contract, such as the counterparty's solvency or supply of services reveals another offer that is more advantageous for the investors. In addition, this can be waived exceptionally after obtaining at least two potential counterparty offers, if they better serve the interest of the investors. The reasons for this renunciation as well as the conclusion of the contract and the price determination must be documented in a comprehensible manner.

- d) The fund management company and its agents can only accept collateral for OTC transactions meeting the requirements of Art. 51 CISO-FINMA. The issuer of the collateral must present a high credit rating and the collateral may not be issued by the counterparty or a company within the counterparty's group, or from a company dependent on this group. The collateral must be highly liquid, transacted at a transparent price on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public, and be priced at least every trading day. The fund management company and its agents must fulfil the obligations and requirements of Art. 52 CISO-FINMA for collateral management. They are especially required to diversify the collateral in a manner appropriate in terms of countries, markets, and issuers, with a diversification of issuers regarded as appropriate if the collateral held by a single issuer does not exceed 20% of the net asset value. Exceptions remain relating to investments or guarantees issued by institutions constituted under public law within the meaning of Art. 83 CISO. Furthermore, the fund management company and its agents must be able to obtain at any time, without intervention or the agreement of the counterparty, the power over and the ability to dispose of the collateral received in case of the counterparty's default. The collateral received must be held at the custodian bank. Collateral received can be held by a third-party custodian subject to supervision at the request of the fund management company, if the ownership of the collateral is not transferred, and if the third-party custodian is independent of the counterparty.
5. In compliance with the legal and contractual investment restrictions (maximum and minimum limits), derivatives must be taken into account in accordance with the laws on collective investment schemes.
6. The prospectus contains further guidance on:
 - the importance of derivatives as part of the investment strategy;
 - the effect of derivative usage on the sub-fund's risk profile;
 - the derivatives' counterparty risk;
 - the increased volatility as a result of the use of derivatives and the increased total commitment (leverage effect);
 - credit derivatives;
 - collateral strategy.
- B. Swiss Equity and Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity sub-funds (Commitment approach I)
7. Only basic type of derivatives can be used, namely:
 - a) call and put options with their maturity values linearly dependent on the positive or negative difference between the market value of the underlying and the strike price, equal to zero when this difference is between opposite signs;
 - b) swaps with payments linearly dependent, and in a "non path-dependent" manner, on value of the underlying or an absolute amount;
 - c) term contracts (futures and forwards), with their value linearly dependent on the value of the underlying.
8. In economic terms, a derivative commitment is either a sale (exposure-reducing derivatives) or a purchase (exposure-raising derivatives) of an underlying.
9. a) Exposure-reducing derivatives must be covered at all times by the corresponding underlyings, subject to b) and d) below.
 - b) Using other investments for covering is permitted, if the exposure-reducing derivative uses an index that is:
 - calculated by an independent external office;
 - representative of the investments serving as cover;
 - in proper correlation with these investments.
 - c) The fund management company must be able to call on the underlyings or the investments at all times and without restriction.
 - d) An exposure-reducing derivative may be delta-weighted when calculating the corresponding underlyings.
10. For exposure-raising derivatives, the underlying equivalent must be covered at all times by highly liquid assets within the meaning of Art. 34 para. 5 CISO-FINMA. The underlying equivalent is calculated in accordance with Annex 1 of the CISO-FINMA for futures, options, swaps, and forwards.
11. The fund management company must take into account the following rules when compensating derivative positions:
 - a) Opposite positions in derivatives of the same underlying as well as opposite positions in derivatives and investments of the same underlying can be offset despite the netting of the derivatives if the derivative transaction was made for the sole purpose of eliminating the risks in connection with the derivatives or investments acquired, if no material risks are disregarded in the process, and if the conversion amount of the derivatives is calculated according to Art. 35 CISO-FINMA.
 - b) During hedging operations, if the derivatives do not refer to the same underlyings as the assets being hedged, the following conditions must be met, in addition to the requirement mentioned under letter a, for hedging: derivative transactions should not be based on an investment strategy used to realize a gain, the derivative must lead to an actual verifiable reduction of risk, the risk of the derivative must be offset, the derivatives, underlyings, and assets to be offset must refer to the same category of financial instruments and the hedging strategy must be effective even during exceptional market conditions.

- c) Derivatives that are used for the sole purpose of hedging currency risks and do not use leverage nor involve additional market risks can be offset without having to meet the requirements mentioned under letter b when calculating the total commitment resulting from the derivatives.
- d) Hedging transactions that use interest rate derivatives are permitted. Convertible bonds must not be taken into account when calculating derivative commitments.

C. High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds (Commitment approach II)

- 12. The fund management company may use basic type of derivatives such as call and put options with their maturity values linearly dependent on the positive or negative difference between the market value of the underlying and the strike price, equal to zero when the difference is between opposite signs, credit derivatives (credit default swaps, CDS) or swaps with payments linearly dependent, and in a "non path-dependent" manner, on the value of the underlying or an absolute amount, or term contracts (futures and forwards) with their value linearly dependent on the value of the underlying. In addition, the fund management company may also use combinations of basic type of derivatives, or derivatives with a different economic impact to basic type of derivatives or from combinations of basic type of derivatives (exotic derivatives).
 - a) Opposite positions in derivatives of the same underlying as well as opposite positions in derivatives and investments of the same underlying can be offset despite the netting of the derivatives if the derivative transaction was made for the sole purpose of eliminating the risks in connection with the derivatives or investments acquired, if no material risks are disregarded in the process, and if the conversion amount of the derivatives is calculated according to Art. 35 CISO-FINMA.
 - b) During hedging operations, if the derivatives do not refer to the same underlyings as the assets being hedged, the following conditions must be met, in addition to the requirement mentioned under letter a, for hedging: derivative transactions should not be based on an investment strategy used to realize a gain, the derivative must lead to an actual verifiable reduction of risk, the risk of the derivative must be offset, the derivatives, underlyings, and assets to be offset must refer to the same category of financial instruments and the hedging strategy must be effective even during exceptional market conditions.
 - c) In the case of a predominant use of interest rate derivatives, the amount attributable to the resulting total commitment of the derivatives can be calculated using recognised international offset rules as long as such rules lead to a correct risk profile calculation of the sub-fund, that the main risks are taken into account, that the application of these rules does not lead to unwarranted leverage, that no interest rate arbitrage strategy is pursued, and that the sub-fund's leverage is not enhanced by the application of these rules nor by investments in short-term positions.
 - d) Derivatives that are used for the sole purpose of hedging currency risks and do not use leverage nor involve additional market risks can be offset without having to meet the requirements mentioned under letter b when calculating the total commitment resulting from the derivatives.
 - e) Payment commitments resulting from derivatives must be permanently hedged by highly liquid assets, debt instruments, or shares traded on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public, in accordance with the law on collective investment schemes.
 - f) Delivery commitments arising from derivatives must be covered by the corresponding underlyings, or other investments provided that such investments and underlyings are highly liquid and can be bought or sold at any time a delivery is ordered. The fund management company must be able to call on the underlyings or the investments at all times and without restriction.

§ 13 Borrowing and lending

- 1. The fund management company is not authorized to grant credits on behalf of any of the sub-funds.
- 2. The fund management company may temporarily borrow up to 10% of net assets for the Swiss Equity sub-fund and 25% of the net assets for the Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity, High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds.

§ 14 Sub-funds' assets pledging

- 1. The fund management company cannot pledge or put in guarantee more than 25% of the net assets of the Swiss Equity sub-fund or 60% of the net assets of the Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity, High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds.
- 2. Encumbrance of a sub-fund's assets by granting guarantees is not permitted.
- 3. Credit derivatives that increase exposure are not considered a pledge within the meaning of this paragraph.

C. Investment restrictions

§ 15 Risk allocation

- 1. The following must be integrated into the following provisions on risk allocation:
 - a) investments pursuant to § 8, with the exception of index-based derivative financial instruments, provided the index is sufficiently diversified, is representative of the market to which it relates and is appropriately published;
 - b) liquid assets pursuant to § 9;
 - c) claims against counterparties resulting from OTC transactions.
 The risk allocation provisions apply to each particular sub-fund.
- 2. Companies which form a group in accordance with international accounting standards are regarded as a single issuer or debtor.
- 3. The fund management company may, in principle, invest up to 20% of the Swiss Equity sub-fund's assets, including derivative financial instruments and structured products, in transferable securities and money market instruments from a same issuer. The fund management company is authorized to reflect the structure of the SPI® index in this sub-fund and the limit of 20% is raised to 25% for three security issuers of the index among the five largest market capitalizations. In addition, only one issuer of securities in the index among the five largest market capitalizations is allowed to exceed the above-mentioned 25% limit, with a maximum overweight of 5% in relation to its weight in the index and a maximum of 33%. The total value of transferable securities and money market instruments from issuers with whom more than 10% of the sub-fund's assets are invested, cannot exceed 75% of the assets of that particular sub-fund. In addition, the sub-fund's assets must be invested in the securities of at least ten separate issuers. The provisions under sections 4 and 5 below are reserved.

The fund management company may invest up to 20% of the Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity, High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-fund's assets, including derivative financial instruments and structured products, in transferable securities and money market instruments from a same issuer or debtor, including in "metal" accounts. The total value of transferable securities and money market instruments of issuers or debtors with whom more than 10% of a sub-fund's assets are invested, cannot exceed 60% of the assets of that particular sub-fund. The provisions under sections 4 and 5 below are reserved.

4. The fund management company may invest up to 20% of a sub-fund's assets in sight or term deposits at the same bank. This 20% limit shall include liquid assets pursuant to § 9, as well as investments in bank deposits pursuant to § 8.

5. The fund management company may invest up to 5% of a sub-fund's assets in OTC transactions with the same counterparty. If the counterparty is a bank with its head office in Switzerland or in a member state of the European Union, or in another country where it is subject to comparable supervision as in Switzerland, this investment limit shall be raised to 10% of the Swiss Equity sub-fund's assets, respectively 20% of the Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity, High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds' assets.

If receivables resulting from OTC transactions are guaranteed by collateral in the form of liquid assets in accordance with Art. 50 to 55 CISO-FINMA, these receivables are not taken into account in the calculation of counterparty risk.

6. Investments, deposits and claims from the same issuer or debtor as defined under sections 3 to 5 above, shall not exceed 20% of a sub-fund's assets, subject to the higher limits authorised in section 3 for the Swiss Equity sub-fund and the higher limits pursuant to sections 12 and 13 below.

7. Investments pursuant to section 3 above, from a same group of companies, must not exceed 20% of a sub-fund's assets, subject to the higher limits authorised in section 3 for the Swiss Equity sub-fund and the higher limits pursuant to sections 12 and 13 below.

8. The fund management company may invest not more than 20% of a sub-fund's assets in units from the same target fund.

9. The fund management company may not acquire participation rights representing more than 10% of the total voting rights or allow for major influence over an issuer's management decisions.

10. For any the assets of a sub-fund, the fund management company may acquire not more than 10% of non-voting equity securities, obligations, and/or money market instruments from a single issuer, as well as not more than 25% of units of a same collective investment scheme. These limits do not apply if, at the time of acquisition, the gross amount of bonds, money market instruments or units in collective investment schemes cannot be calculated.

11. The limits defined under sections 9 and 10 above shall not apply to securities and money market instruments issued or guaranteed by a member country of the OECD, a public corporation from the OECD, or by any other international public institution in which Switzerland or a member state of the European Union participates.

12. For the High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds, the 20% limit mentioned under section 3 is raised to 35% if the securities or money market instruments are issued or guaranteed by either a Swiss central mortgage bond institution, a member country of the OECD, a public corporation from the OECD, or by any other international public institution in which Switzerland or a member state of the European Union participates. The above mentioned securities or money market instruments are not considered when applying the 60% limit according to section 3. However, individual limits from section 3 and 5 may not be cumulated with the aforementioned limit of 35%.

13. For the High Grade CHF Income and High Grade CHF Income Plus sub-funds, the 20% limit mentioned under section 3 is raised to 100% if the securities or money market instruments are issued or guaranteed by a member country of the OECD, a public corporation from the OECD, or by any other international public institution in which Switzerland or a member state of the European Union participates. In this case, the sub-fund must hold securities or money market instruments from at least six different issues and a maximum of 30% of the sub-fund can be placed in securities or money market instruments of the same issue. The above mentioned securities or money market instruments are not considered when applying the 60% limit according to section 3. Issuers or authorized guarantors are all Member States of the OECD as well as governmental, intergovernmental or paragonovernmental bodies of these States.

IV. Calculation of net asset values and issue or redemption of units

§ 16 Calculation of net asset values

1. The net asset value of each sub-fund and the proportion for the different classes are calculated at market value, in the base currency of the particular sub-fund and at the end of an accounting year, as well as on each day when units are issued or redeemed. On those days when the exchanges or markets of the main investment countries where the concerned sub-fund are invested are closed (e.g. bank and stock exchange holidays), net asset values are not calculated.

2. Investments traded on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public shall be valued at the current prices paid on the principal market. Other investments, including those for which no current prices are available, must be valued at the price that could be obtained through a diligent sale at the time of valuation. To determine the market value, the fund management company shall use valuation models and principles that are appropriate and recognized in practice.

3. Open-ended collective investment schemes are valued at their redemption price or net asset value. If they are regularly traded on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public, the fund management company may value them under the terms of section 2 above.

4. The value of money market instruments that are not traded on an exchange or other regulated market open to the public is determined as follows: the valuation price of the investments is successively adjusted to the redemption price, taking the net acquisition price as the basis and keeping as constant the calculated investment yield. In the event of significant changes in market conditions, the valuation basis of the various investments is adjusted to the new market yield. In the absence of a current market price, reference is generally made to the valuation of money market instruments with similar characteristics (quality and domicile of issuer, issue currency, duration).

5. Bank deposits are valued at the amount of the receivable plus accrued interest. In the event of significant changes in market conditions or solvency ratings, valuation of term deposits in banks shall be adjusted to reflect the new situation.
6. The value of physical gold is calculated on the basis of its fixing price at 3 p.m. (GMT) in London.
7. The net asset value of a unit of a class of a sub-fund is calculated as the proportion of the market value of the sub-fund's assets attributable to the class in question, less any sub-fund's liabilities allocated to this class, divided by the number of outstanding units of this same class. The net asset value is rounded off to two decimal places.
8. The proportions of the market value of the sub-fund's net assets (sub-fund assets minus liabilities) to be allocated to the various classes shall be determined for the first time when several classes are issued for the first time, if this takes place simultaneously, or when a new class is issued for the first time, on the basis of the amounts due to the sub-fund concerned for each class. Each proportion is recalculated for each of the events below:
 - a) when units are issued or redeemed;
 - b) on the distribution record date, to the extent that (i) such distributions are made to only certain classes (distribution classes), or (ii) the distributions to the different classes differ as a percentage of their respective net asset value, or (iii) different fees or commissions are charged on the distributions to the different classes as a percentage of each distribution;
 - c) when calculating the net asset value, in the context of allocating liabilities (including fees and commissions due or accrued) to the various classes, insofar as the liabilities of the various classes, expressed as a percentage of their respective net asset value, are different, in particular if (i) different rates of commission are applied to the various classes or if (ii) cost charges specific to each class are applied;
 - d) when calculating the net asset value, in the context of allocating income or capital gains to the various classes, insofar as the income or capital gains result from transactions that were carried out solely in the interests of one class or in the interests of several classes, but not in proportion to their share of the sub-fund's net assets.

§ 17 Issue and redemption of units

1. Applications for subscription and redemption of units are received on the day the order is placed until a time specified in the prospectus. The issue and redemption prices are determined at the earliest time on a bank business day after the day the order is placed (valuation day; forward pricing). The prospectus sets out the details.
2. The issue and redemption prices are determined based on the net asset value per unit pursuant to § 16 on valuation day, taking into consideration the day's closing prices as mentioned in the prospectus. The issue and redemption prices are rounded to two decimal places.

When issuing units, an issuing commission pursuant to § 19 section 1 may be added to the issue price. No redemption fee is charged.

Incidental costs linked to the purchase and sale of investments (notably standard brokerage fees, commissions, duties, and taxes), incurred for amounts paid out of a sub-fund or for the sale of investment assets corresponding to the units that have been redeemed, are charged to the assets of that sub-fund.

3. The fund management company may at any time suspend the issue of units ("soft closing", § 5 section 8) as well as to refuse requests for subscription or conversion of units.
4. In the interest of all investors, the fund management company may suspend the redemption of a sub-fund's units temporarily and exceptionally:
 - a) if the market constituting the basis for the valuation of a substantial portion of the particular sub-fund's assets is closed, or if trading on such a market has been restricted or suspended;
 - b) when emergencies arise, be those political, economic, military, financial or of another nature;
 - c) when, due to restrictions imposed on currency exchanges or on other asset transfers, the sub-fund's activities are suspended;
 - d) when a large number of a sub-fund's units are redeemed, which subsequently affects significantly the interests of other investors.
5. The fund management company shall immediately inform the auditing company, the supervisory authority, and, as appropriate, the investors of its decision to suspend.
6. For as long as the redemption of a sub-fund's units is deferred, for the reasons listed in section 4 a) to c) above, there shall be no further issue of units of the sub-fund.

§ 18 Issuance of units in kind

1. The issuance of units in kind is authorized for the Swiss Equity sub-fund only.
2. At the request of an investor, the fund management company may accept, in whole or in part, subscriptions in kind if they comply with the Fund Contract, in particular to the investment policy of the relevant sub-fund, and if the interests of other investors are not compromised. The fund management company has full decision power regarding the acceptance of contributions in kind. Costs related to such contributions in kind are the responsibility of the investor.
3. For each subscription in kind, the fund management company draws up a report that mentions:
 - Separately, the investments made in kind to the sub-fund concerned;
 - The value of these investments on the day of the contribution;
 - The number of units subscribed;
 - Any additional cash payments made at the time of the transaction.

4. For each subscription in kind, the custodian bank verifies compliance with the subscription conditions, the obligation of loyalty, as well as the evaluation of the contributions in kind. It announces without delay to the auditing company any reservations, irregularities, or rectification requests.
5. Subscriptions in kind are mentioned in the sub-fund's annual report.

V. Fees and expenses

§ 19 Fees and expenses charged to the investor

1. When issuing units of the Swiss Equity and Swiss Small and Mid Cap Equity sub-funds, an issuing commission may be charged to the investor on behalf of sales promoters in Switzerland, amounting up to 3.00% of the issue price. The current applying maximum rate is stated in the prospectus.
2. The costs related to the contributions in kind according to § 18 are to be borne by the investor.

1. This commission is accrued from the assets of the class on a pro rata basis, each time the net asset value is calculated, and charged at the end of each accounting month for the whole elapsed month.

4. The fund management company shall inform the supervisory authority of the dissolution forthwith and publish this information in the medium of publication.

5. After the termination of the Fund Contract, the management company may liquidate the sub-fund forthwith.
